LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE,
Washington, D. C., June 19, 1963.

DEAR MR. SECRETARY:

I am transmitting the Statistics of Income—1960-61, Corporation Income Tax Returns with accounting periods ended July 1960 through June 1961. This report was prepared in partial fulfillment of the requirements of section 6108 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, which provides that statistics be published annually with respect to the operation of the income tax laws. The sources of the data were corporation income tax and information returns, Forms 1120, 1120L, 1120M, and 1120-S, and also the new Form 1120-F, for resident foreign corporations only.

This report contains the annual income statement and balance sheet benchmark data by various size and industry groups. Many special subjects are also covered: corporation income subject to tax and the statutory special deductions that differentiate it from ordinary net income, resident foreign corporations including those that filed on Form 1120-F, Western Hemisphere trade corporations, foreign income and taxes reported by domestic corporations in connection with their computation of the foreign tax credit, and corporations whose voting stock was 50 percent or more owned by a single stockholder. In addition, two new ratio-size distributions are introduced to show the changes between beginning and ending inventories and to show the relationship between net worth and total assets.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

HON. DOUGLAS DILLON,
Secretary of the Treasury.

CORPORATION INCOME TAX RETURNS WITH ACCOUNTING PERIODS ENDED JULY 1960 THROUGH JUNE 1961

PERIOD COVERED AND RETURNS INCLUDED

Income and financial statistics for 1960-61 presented in this report were derived from a sample of the 1,188,000 corporation income tax and information returns with accounting periods ended July 1960 through June 1961. The number of returns filed for 1960-61 was about 68,000 more than 1959-60.

Active corporations filed almost 1,141,000 returns, including 90,000 information returns of small business corporations electing to be taxed through their shareholders. Active corporation returns were the basis for all financial statistics presented in this report.

Inactive corporation returns were those showing no income or deductions which were filed because domestic and resident foreign corporations in existence at any time during the year, unless they were expressly exempt, had to file a return. Financial data from inactive corporation returns, as well as from returns filed by unincorporated businesses which chose to be taxed as corporations, were excluded from all tables.

Corporation statistics for 1960-61 were based not only on returns with accounting periods coinciding with the calendar year 1960, but also on returns with noncalendar accounting periods. The span of months comprising accounting periods covered by this report is shown in chart 1. Chart 2 shows, for full-year returns, the proportions of their number, net income, and tax, by calendar and noncalendar year status. Though excluded from chart 2, part-year returns were used in the compilation of the totals shown in all 1960-61 tables.

Returns were due to be filed within two and a half months after the close of the corporate accounting period. However, many companies were granted extensions of time in which to file, so that some of the returns for the accounting periods covered by this report were not filed until late 1961 or early 1962 and the last included returns were not available for statistical processing until the spring of 1962.

More recent financial information, for manufacturing corporations only, is estimated quarterly by the Federal Trade Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission and published in the Quarterly Financial Report for Manufacturing Corporations.

COMPARABILITY WITH PREVIOUS REPORTS

The statistics in this report reflect revisions made in the preliminary estimates for 1960-61 based upon further review of the source data used in their preparation. Comparability of the statistics with those shown in reports for periods prior to 1960-61 is affected by changes in law and changes in the tax return forms.

There were several changes in law that were relevant to the interpretation of the statistics: a Supreme Court decision relating to the tax treatment of income from dealer reserves, those provisions of the Life Insurance Company Income Tax Act of 1959 which were effective beginning January 1960, and provisions of two laws enacted during 1960 and a Supreme Court decision affecting the depletion allowed on certain minerals. These developments are discussed further under the text heading, Changes in Law.

Changes in the tax return resulted in two new balance sheet accounts, Loans to stockholders and Loans from stockholders. Also, a new return form, 1120-F, was introduced and used as the basis for statistics on resident foreign corporations. Statistics new for 1960-61 are discussed on the following pages.

SUMMARY OF 1960-61

A sharp rise in the number of returns without net income and in the total deficit reported on these returns occurred in 1960-61. Returns without net income increased by 66,000, an increase that was about equal to that in the total number of returns for 1960-61 over 1959-60. The $6,877,000,000 deficit reported on returns without net income was the largest in many years.

The number of returns with net income remained about the same as 1959-60. And, since the $50,382,-000,000 in net income reported on these returns reflected only a slight decline from the all-time high recorded in 1959-60, the sharp drop in net income less deficit to $43,505,000,000 in 1960-61 was due almost entirely to the deficit returns.

The number of returns, total assets, receipts, and net income are compared for 1960-61 and 1959-60 by size of total assets in table A. Table B shows ¹Includes amounts reported on returns without net income. Income subject to tax on such returns was $6,020,000 for 1960-61, and $10,108,000 for 1959-60. Income tax on returns without net income was $393,000 for 1960-61, and $418,000 for 1959-60. Tax on returns without net income occurs because of special provisions applicable to insurance businesses under sections 802(a), 821(a)(2) and 594 of the Internal Revenue Code. See Income Subject to Tax on pp.

Included in income tax for 1959-60 was $54,000,000 of nonrecurring tax on life insurance companies resulting from changes of accounting methods. See Statistics of Income, 1959-60, Corporation Income Tax Returns.

a comparison of receipts and net income for large and small manufacturing and nonmanufacturing corporations. Charts 3 and 4 show receipts and profits for 1960-61 by industrial division. Table C is a summary showing the increase in receipts for 1960-61 over 1959-60 and its relationship to total business deductions, net profit, and income tax. Table D provides some information about the changes in corporate profits and the resulting changes in income subject to tax between 1960-61 and 1959-60.

OWNERSHIP OF CORPORATE STOCK

Information in table 17 indicates that the voting stock of almost 472,000 of the 1,048,000 domestic and resident foreign corporations filing returns on Forms 1120, 1120-F, and 1120L, was 50 percent or more owned directly or indirectly at any time during the tax year, by another corporation, or by an individual, a partnership, a trust, or an association. This fact was based on the answers to a question on the tax return forms asking whether or not the corporation was so owned.

Consolidated returns were included in the statistics if the voting stock of the parent corporation filing the return was owned in the manner described above. Most of the subsidiary corporations could also have been included had they filed separately. Also, although the question was not asked on Form 1120-S, many of the small business corporations filing on this form could have been included since by definition they were owned by no more than ten stockholders.

Some companies failed to respond to the tax return question. But included in this group were companies for which the question was not applicable. These were companies financed by other than capital stock, such as associations taxed as corporations and certain companies operated for mutual purposes. In the latter group were certain savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks, and those mutual insurance companies filing returns on Forms 1120 or 1120L. Also, because of its inapplicability, the question was not asked on the Form 1120M return filed by certain other mutual insurance carriers.

LOANS TO STOCKHOLDERS AND LOANS FROM STOCKHOLDERS

The 1960 Form 1120 balance sheet provided for the reporting of loans to stockholders and loans from stockholders. As shown in table 19, loans to stockholders totaling $498,206,000 were reported on 30,085 returns, while loans from stockholders totaling $3,700,169,000 were reported on 83,931 returns.

Since these loans did not appear as separate balance sheet accounts on most of the 1959 return forms, statistics were not generally available for those corporations with accounting periods ended July through November 1960. However, in preparing the statistics for 1960-61, it was sometimes possible to identify these loans, especially for large corporations, from information obtained from schedules attached to the returns.

For 1959-60 loans to stockholders when identified in schedules were treated as Other current assets, loans from stockholders as Other liabilities.

RESIDENT FOREIGN CORPORATIONS

Included among the 1,140,574 active corporation returns for 1960-61 were 90 identified as having been filed by resident foreign corporations. Foreign meant that the corporation was not created or organized in the United States, or under the laws of the United States or of the various States, and not necessarily that the corporation was foreign owned or controlled. (Table E shows the countries or general areas in which resident foreign corporations were organized.) Resident meant that the foreign corporation had at some time during the tax year engaged in trade or business within the United States. (Table F shows the principal trade or business activities in which resident foreign corporations were engaged.) Resident foreign corporations were taxed only on income derived from United States sources.

Resident foreign corporations other than certain insurance companies and with accounting periods covered by this report that ended December 1960 through June 1961 were required to file income tax returns using the new return Form 1120-F. Resident foreign corporations with accounting periods covered by this report that ended July 1960 through November 1960 were required to file income tax returns using the regular 1959 return Form 1120 filed by corporations in general. To the extent that resident foreign corporations with these earlier accounting periods were identified as such in answer to a question appearing on the 1959 return form, and, to the extent that the corporations with the later accounting periods filed on Form 1120-F, or, if they erroneously continued to file on Form 1120, were identifiable from information in statements attached to the return, they were included in the separate statistics shown in this report for foreign corporations.

Resident foreign life insurance companies filed on the same return Form 1120L used by domestic companies and were identified by the place of incorporation reported on the return. Included among the 90 returns of resident foreign corporations for 1960-61 were 12 filed by life insurance companies, all of them incorporated under the laws of Canada.

Of the remaining 78 returns, 25 were filed by stock casualty and certain other insurance carriers comprising most of the resident foreign corporations organized under the laws of the United Kingdom. Insurance carriers thus accounted for about 40 percent of the returns filed by resident foreign corporations.

Statistics on income subject to tax and income tax reported on the 78 returns filed by other than life insurance companies are shown separately in part VI of table 14. Included among the 1,732 life insurance company returns in part IV of table 14 were nine filed by foreign companies with net income totaling $15,450,000 and three by companies without net income and a deficit totaling $316,000.

OPERATING AND FINANCIAL RATIOS

Four different classifications by size of ratio were used to distribute corporation income tax return data for 1960-61. The four ratios were:

Business receipts to total assets
Net income on business receipts
Net worth to total assets
Inventory change.

Each ratio was computed separately for each return and was used to group selected data reported by each corporation into ratio-size intervals. Ratios thus computed reveal the variation that is hidden in an average calculated by using aggregated data from a group of returns. As an example, net income for manufacturing corporations as shown in table 2 totaled $22,144,790,000 for 1960-61, while business receipts for these same corporations was $364,611,950,000, and the average rate of earnings based on these aggregates was 6.1 percent. But based on the ratio-size statistics for manufacturers in table 5, fewer than six returns in each hundred showed a net income on business receipts ratio near the group average.

Business receipts to total assets and net income on business receipts

Table 5 provides information on the relationship between rate of profitability and turnover of assets. It shows, for broad industry and asset-size classes, the distribution of the number of returns cross-classified on the basis of the two ratios, net income on business receipts and business receipts to total assets.

Since total assets are also shown in the table, it is also possible to derive an indication of the range in the rate of earnings on total assets. For example, for manufacturing corporations having net income on business receipts of from 4 to 6 percent and an assets turnover rate of from 2 to 3, the rate of net income on total assets would range from 8 to 18 percent computed as follows:

	Net income Business receipts	X	Business receipts Total assets	=	Net income Total assets
Minimum return on assets.....	4%	X	2.0	=	8.0%
Maximum returns on assets.....	6%	X	3.0	=	18.0%

The significance of the ratios used for this report may be affected by the definitions used for Statistics of Income. Although the ratio of net income to business receipts is sometimes simply stated as "net on sales," business receipts is defined for this report as receipts from operations as well as from sales. Furthermore, for industries in the finance division, the receipts used for purposes of computing the ratio were all-inclusive, comprising not only the business receipts shown in the statistics, but all other receipts as well. This is because investment income, shown separately by type in the statistics, is the principal operating income of financial corporations. (Business receipts plus the various types of investment income equal Total compiled receipts as used in this report.) The net income used in computing the ratio was before the Federal income tax and was computed under provisions of the Internal Revenue Code. As such it reflects the income and deductions recognized for tax accounting purposes. But the total assets used in the ratio computation reflect values used for book accounting purposes.

The significance of net income ratios may vary with the size of the corporation. Thus a low ratio may not indicate unsatisfactory operating results when shareholders' salaries and wages constitute a large part of the deductions claimed on the corporation income tax return. This may be illustrated by an example from the statistics for small business corporations electing to be taxed at the shareholder level. As shown in table 42, there were 2,173 returns filed by these corporations showing net income between $20,000 and $25,000. The aggregate net income for these returns was $48,723,000, but the amounts deducted for compensation paid to shareholders in arriving at this net income totaled $43,993,000.

Net worth to total assets

In table 6, statistics are presented grouping tax return data by the size of the ratio of net worth to total assets. This ratio may be used as an indicator of the proportions of equity and debt capital used to carry on the trade or business. The national totals in table 6 are influenced to a great extent by corporations in the finance division. The capital requirements of many of these corporations accounted for a pattern of financial structure which differed from that of most corporations. Most of the amounts reported by corporations in the finance division were attributable to firms such as banking or savings institutions and insurance companies which managed or invested the assets of others. Thus, although the amount of their total assets was large, most of the offsetting accounts were liabilities such as deposits, withdrawable shares, and insurance company policy reserves, rather than net worth accrued to shareholders. And, the deductible interest paid on indebtedness shown for many of these corporations was in the form of amounts paid on deposits and withdrawable shares rather than on bonds, notes, and mortgages.

Some of the variations in financial structure based on the ratio-size of net worth to total assets for different industrial divisions are summarized in table G.

Inventory change

In previous Statistics of Income reports, statistics were presented comparing beginning and ending inventories of manufacturing and trade corporations. Table 20 for 1960-61 provides more detailed information on manufacturing and trade corporation inventories by showing size of relative change in terms of percentage classes of increase or decrease between beginning and ending amounts.

The source of the inventory data used in the comparison was the tax return balance sheet. The amounts reported in the balance sheet represented book values determined by any of the several valuation methods in general use by corporations, and the inventory data were used without regard to methods of valuation. The statistics on inventory change are also subject to the limitation that they reflect changes between the beginning and end of the several corporate accounting periods comprising the 1960-61 period and not just the changes between two fixed dates for all corporations.

In compiling the statistics, returns of manufacturing and trade corporations showing amounts, in general, in excess of $500 for both beginning- and ¹Less than $500 per return.

NOTE: Detail may not add to total because of rounding.

end-of-year inventories were classified by ratio-size after first determining for each return the result of the following computation:

$$\frac{\text{End-of-year inventory less Beginning-of-year inventory}}{\text{Beginning-of-year inventory}} \times 100.$$

For about 183,000 returns or 48 percent of the total number with the characteristics noted above, the result of this computation was positive; for about 160,000 or 43 percent of the total number, the result was negative; while, for about 32,000 or 9 percent of the total, the result of the computation showed no change. Included in the no-change category were returns of many corporations which actually showed some small change in inventories. But though this change was real, it was not apparent after rounding the tax return data to thousands of dollars during the course of statistical processing. While this rounding did not significantly affect the percents of increase or decrease computed for most returns, it did affect the percents computed for some returns, namely those of corporations reporting relatively small amounts of inventories at either the beginning or end of their accounting periods.

Since data from most returns were rounded to thousands of dollars, most returns which showed inventory amounts of less than $500 had to be excluded from the inventory change comparison. Also included among the 145,000 returns for which no percent of change could be computed were those with either beginning or ending inventories not reported, or reported but equal to zero. Returns with beginning inventories zero or not reported included those filed by completely new corporations, while returns with ending inventories zero or not reported included those filed by corporations in various stages of merger, liquidation, or other change in status. In this connection, the statistics shown for these returns may be compared with the statistics for returns with "zero assets" of manufacturing and trade corporations in table 4 of this report as well as with the new-incorporation statistics for manufacturing and trade corporations presented in table 15 of the Statistics of Income report for 1959-60.

The statistics in table 20 show that after excluding the returns for which no percent of change could be computed, the number of returns for which percents of change were determined totaled 375,000 or 72 percent of the 521,000 returns of manufacturing and trade corporations in 1960-61. However, the end-of-year inventories reported on these 375,000 returns amounted to about $79,938,000,000. This was 95 percent of the total end-of-year amount reported for 1960-61 in the manufacturing and trade industry divisions, and 88 percent of the total end-of-year amount reported for 1960-61 in all industry divisions. The statistics also show that while only about half of the 375,000 returns showed an increase in inventories, this half accounted for 60 percent of the total manufacturing and trade corporation ending inventories.

PRIOR YEAR INCOME

In tables 21 and 22, current-year income or deficit is compared with prior-year amounts for the same group of corporations. The prior-year information was obtained from the answers to a question on the income tax return for the current year about the amounts of income or deficit shown on the corporation's income tax returns for the three most recent years.

Only numbers of returns are shown in table 21. In this table, frequencies are cross-classified on the basis of net income or deficit size for 1960-61 and for 1959-60. The statistics are shown for each of several groupings based on the size of the total assets reported for 1960-61. Comparable distributions based on the prior-year information reported on the returns of previous years were presented in the Statistics of Income reports for 1958-59 and 1957-58.

Both numbers of returns and amounts of net income or deficit are shown in table 22. The statistics in table 22 are arranged to permit comparisons to be made of the year-to-year changes in income for corporations reporting for the same number of prior years. Thus, information is presented separately for (1) returns which showed a prior-year amount for 1959-60 only, (2) returns which showed prior-year amounts for 1958-59 as well as for 1959-60, and (3) returns which showed prior-year amounts for each of the three periods, 1959-60, 1958-59, 1957-58. To permit comparisons to be made between income data reported on returns filed for each of the periods and income data reported on current-year returns which also showed prior-year data, (1) the national totals of income and deficit for 1960-61, obtained from other tables in this report, are shown, and (2) the national totals of income and deficit for 1959-60, 1958-59, and 1957-58, obtained from previous Statistics of Income reports, are also shown.

The net incomes and deficits since 1957-58 as presented in table 22 were classified by industrial division according to the corporation's principal business activity in 1960-61. But, although the prior year incomes and deficits are as reported by corporations in their income tax returns for 1960-61, the amounts may not be entirely comparable. During the years, some corporations may have acquired or disposed of a business unit, or may have reported for an accounting period of less than 12 months. In some cases, there may have been a change during the years from consolidated to nonconsolidated return filing or vice versa, and, if consolidated returns were filed, the number of affiliated corporations represented in the returns may have varied from one year to the next. Some, but not all, corporations apparently adjusted the prior-year amounts in their income tax returns for 1960-61 in order to achieve comparability. Also, some corporations may have refrained from answering the tax return question because of such differences.

Among the returns which showed no prior-year information were about 2,500 filed on Forms 1120L and 1120M by life and certain mutual insurance companies. Neither of these return forms provided for the reporting of prior-year information. (This fact should be considered in using the statistics for the finance division.) In addition, prior-year data from more than 71,300 returns filed for part-year accounting periods in 1960-61 were excluded in order to maintain comparability insofar as possible in the length of the time periods for which the current- and prior-year statistics are shown in the table.

Because of the lack of information about the insurance companies filing on Forms 1120L and 1120M and the exclusion from the statistics of the part-year returns, a total of 1,067,000 of the 1,141,000 active corporation returns for 1960-61 were eligible for inclusion in the study of prior-year income. But, 159,000 of these or 15 percent showed no information concerning previous years. A total of 908,000 or 85 percent of the 1,067,000 returns showed an amount of income or deficit for 1959-60, while 781,000 or 73 percent provided information for 1958-59, and only 687,000 or 64 percent showed information about 1957-58. This pattern of reporting may reflect the filing of returns for 1960-61 by new corporations that were unable to provide information for any or all of the three previous years. An analysis of table 15 in the Statistics of Income for 1959-60 shows, for example, that there were more than 96,000 returns filed by corporations organized in 1959, about 100,000 by corporations organized in 1958, and more than 83,000 by corporations organized in 1957, and presumably the amount of prior-year experience that could be reported for 1960-61 on the returns of these corporations (if they were still in existence) would have varied: one year on the 96,000 returns, two years on the 100,000, and three years on the 83,000.

Answers to the question on prior-year income were usually provided by the corporations with net income in 1960-61, whereas they were less often provided by the corporations without net income. Of the 1,067,000 returns identified above, 640,000 showed net income for 1960-61 and 576,000 of these or 90 percent also showed answers to the tax return question, while 427,000 showed no net income and only 332,000 of these or 78 percent showed answers. Again the possible effect of new incorporations on the statistics may be noted: new corporations filing for the first time and thereby unable to report for other years, frequently operate at a deficit during their first year. (This may be inferred from the information in Statistics of Income for 1959-60 which showed that nearly 52,000 of the 96,000 returns of corporations reporting 1959 as their year of incorporation were without net income.) Hence, these new corporations probably contributed to the number of returns without net income for 1960-61 which showed no prior year information.

The 908,000 returns which showed information concerning previous years accounted for 98 percent of the net income and 86 percent of the net deficit reported for 1960-61 on the 1,067,000 returns, the latter number representing the total of full-year returns filed by other than life and certain mutual insurance companies as previously mentioned. When compared with the incomes or deficits reported in past Statistics of Income volumes for other than these insurance companies, prior-year amounts shown on current-year returns covered 96 percent of the income for 1959-60, but only 79 percent of the deficit; 95 percent of the income for 1958-59, but only 81 percent of the deficit; and, 95 percent of the income for 1957-58, but only 67 percent of the deficit. This pattern of undercoverage of prior-year net deficits may be indicative of the fact that corporations reporting deficits in their tax returns for the earlier of these prior years may have liquidated or merged by 1960-61 and thus were not directly reflected in the statistics shown.

CHANGES IN LAW

Dealer Reserve Income

The Supreme Court, in a decision rendered in June 1959 in Commissioner v. Hansen and two related cases, ruled that a dealer reporting income on the accrual basis who discounted customers' installment paper with a financial institution, must include as income during his current taxable year, any amounts withheld and credited to the dealer's reserve account by the financial institution as security of the dealer's guarantee of full payment of the note by the customer.

Following these decisions, those dealers who formerly did not accrue additions to their reserve accounts were required to do so and changes in income accounting so brought about were reflected beginning with the statistics for 1959-60.

Life Insurance Companies

Most of the provisions of the Life Insurance Company Income Tax Act of 1959 were retroactive to the 1958 income tax returns of life insurance companies. However, a few provisions of the Act were not effective until 1959, and some of these were imposed under transitional rules for 1959, 1960, and 1961.

The principal change which was effective for 1958 related to the reporting and taxation of operating income from premiums and any other sources except capital gains. Previously, life insurance companies had been taxed only on their investment income. Similarly, while only investment income expenses had been deductible prior to 1958, beginning with 1958, deductions were revised to include benefit payments, insurance losses, and other ordinary business expenses. Provisions pertaining to reserve and other special needs were also revised to place the determination of each company's deductions on the basis of its own needs and experience. In addition, an operations loss deduction similar in effect to the net operating loss deduction allowed corporations in general was allowed life insurance companies for the first time. Finally, reflecting all of these changes, the definition and methods of computing life insurance company taxable income were altered. For a description of life insurance company taxable income under the 1959 Act, see the description of Income subject to tax in the Explanation of Terms section. For a brief description of life insurance company taxable income prior to the 1959 Act, see page 325 of the Synopsis of Laws section.

Provisions of the law which were first effective for 1959 included: (1) the reporting and taxation of capital gains, with the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss taxed at a mandatory 25 percent rate, (2) any tax adjustment for 1957 resulting from the required changeover to the accrual method of accounting by companies not previously employing this method, (3) the taxation under the first of three phases of a transitional rule, of amounts subtracted from untaxed underwriting income set aside by stock life insurance companies, and (4) a partial exemption from tax, determined under the first of three phases of a transitional rule, of income from qualified pension plan reserves.

Provisions of the law which were effective January 1, 1960 related to the second of the three phases of transitional rules specified by the Code for the taxation of amounts subtracted from policyholders' surplus accounts and for the exemption from tax of income from qualified pension plan reserves.

Creation of a special "policyholders' surplus account" was prescribed for stock life insurance companies by Code section 815, added to the Internal Revenue Code by the 1959 law. This account was set up to receive certain underwriting income earned after 1958 and not taxed in the year earned. As described in sections 802 and 815 of the Code, these earnings became taxable upon their withdrawal from the account. By law, the tax on amounts withdrawn and distributed to stockholders was reduced under a transitional rule by two-thirds for 1959, by only one-third for 1960, and no reduction at all was prescribed for 1961 and later years. The tax on amounts subtracted from the account, computed at the regular normal tax and surtax rates, was considered to be part of the total amounts subtracted for the year. However, amounts subtracted in excess of distributions to stockholders, such as for the tax on the amounts subtracted, were not eligible for the special tax reductions for 1960 and 1959.

The effects of this provision of the law on the statistics was to increase the life insurance company tax base for 1960 and 1959 over earlier years, and to gradually increase the income tax liability over the two-year period beyond the amount which might otherwise have been reported. The amount added to the life insurance company income tax base for 1960 comprising subtractions from policyholders' surplus accounts totaled $23,131,000 and was reported on 166 of the 1,031 life insurance company taxable returns for the year. The one-third reduction in tax on the amounts withdrawn and distributed during 1960 was reported on 141 returns and totaled $3,880,000.

The 1959 Act also provided for an exemption from tax of income from qualified pension plan reserves, reducing the taxable investment income described in sections 804 and 805 of the Code. The effect of this change on the statistics was to reduce income subject to tax if taxable investment income was part of the tax base in addition to gain from operations. (See Income subject to tax in the Explanation of Terms.) As in the case of amounts subtracted from policyholders' surplus accounts, this provision of the law was to become effective over a three-year period by extending tax-exempt status to only one-third of the companies' income from qualified pension plan reserves in 1959, to two-thirds in 1960, and to all of the income from this source beginning with 1961.

A summary of life insurance company statistics showing some of the effects of the Life Insurance Company Income Tax Act of 1959 for 1958, 1959, and 1960, is presented in table H. Table H also provides information about 1957 for comparison purposes. The statistics for 1957 were based on provisions of law in effect for 1955 through 1957.

¹Capital gains for 1957 were excluded by law from gross investment income (shown as total compiled receipts). However, some capital gains attributable to nonlife insurance reserves were taxable and were included in income subject to tax for 1957. Capital gains were completely nontaxable in 1958 and were excluded from 1958 data.

²For 1960, 1959, and 1958, derived from gain or loss from operations after special deductions applicable only to life insurance companies. For 1957, derived from net investment income before all special deductions.

Depletion

Under section 613 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, percentage depletion for minerals other than oil and gas was based on gross income, reduced by rents and royalties paid, from mining. Mining was defined to include not only extraction but also the ordinary treatment processes normally applied by mine owners or operators to obtain a commercially marketable product, and, within certain limits, transportation from the mine to the place of treatment.

The depletion allowable for 1960-61 on certain clay, shale, and calcium carbonates was affected by a redetermination of what constituted ordinary treatment processes for these minerals. This redetermination was based in part upon a Supreme Court decision and in part upon new definitions in a law enacted by the Congress. Before the Court decision, ordinary treatment processes for these minerals as interpreted in revenue rulings included crushing, grinding, and various purification methods for shale and certain clay when used in the manufacture of brick and tile, and crushing, grinding, and incidental mixing of calcium carbonates and shale when used in the manufacture of cement.

In the case of the U. S. v. Cannelton Sewer Pipe Company in June 1960, the Supreme Court found that there was a sufficient market for raw fire clay and shale to obviate any claim that processing was necessary in order to make them marketable and able to be shipped. As a result of the Court decision, the prior revenue rulings were revoked and a new ruling restricted the definition of ordinary treatment processes for these minerals to the initial crushing required to reduce them to a size in which they could be shipped. This reduced the sales value upon which gross income from mining was based and thus reduced the size of the allowable depletion.

At about the same time as the Court decision, the Congress enacted Public Law 86-564 which contained more specific definitions of ordinary treatment processes than had previous law. Most of the depletion provisions of this law were not effective until 1961, but Public Law 86-781, enacted in September 1960, made retroactive to 1960 the provisions of Public Law 86-564 pertaining to minerals used in the manufacture of cement. The new provisions were less restrictive than those contained in the revenue ruling in effect prior to the Court decision as well as in the new revenue ruling issued following the Court decision, in that they included not only crushing, grinding, and incidental mixing, but also certain blending processes. However, provisions of Public Law 86-564 could not be used unless an election to do so was made by the company on or before November 15, 1960. Thus, depletion reported on returns used for this report could have been based on provisions of the new law or under the much more restrictive revenue ruling issued following the Supreme Court decision.

POPULATION OF CORPORATIONS FOR THE PERIOD COVERED

There were 1,187,642 corporation returns for 1960-61, of which 47,068 were returns of inactive corporations; there were 1,140,574 returns of active corporations of which 1,068,179 were full-year returns and 71,395 were part-year returns. Part-year returns reflected new incorporations, reorganizations, liquidations, and changes in accounting periods. Full-year returns comprised 522,436 returns with calendar-year accounting periods ended December 31, 1960 and 546,743 returns with non-calendar-year accounting periods ended July 31, through November 30, 1960, and January 31 through June 30, 1961. The 1960-61 period was the first for which more than half of the full-year returns were filed for a noncalendar year.

The number of corporation returns for the period covered differs from the total number of non-government corporations in existence in 1960-61 for several reasons. The Internal Revenue Code permitted affiliated groups of corporations to file a single return showing the combined financial data for the group. As shown in table I, there were 16,547 subsidiary corporations reported on 4,534 consolidated returns of domestic corporations for the 1960-61 period, as compared with 14,951 subsidiary corporations reported on some 4,060 consolidated returns for the 1959-60 period.

Also, nonprofit organizations designated tax-exempt under section 501 of the Code were excluded from the population of corporations used for this report. Among them were charitable, educational, religious, scientific, and literary organizations, as well as certain mutual and cooperative societies. However, some of these corporations were partially taxable and, under special conditions, at the corporate rates. Educational and charitable organizations were taxed on the income derived from business activities which were not substantially related to the purpose constituting the basis for their exempt status.

Cooperatives were included in the population only if they were nonexempt. Thus, public utility types such as rural electrification cooperatives were omitted since they were tax exempt under section 501. Farmers' cooperatives designated tax-exempt under section 521 were also omitted even though they were taxed at the corporate rates on earnings not distributed to patrons.

Exempt organizations, even though partially taxable under certain conditions, did not file on corporation income tax returns. On the other hand, some other mutual societies such as mutual savings banks and savings and loan associations were taxable on corporation income tax returns in a manner similar to corporations, but they were allowed to deduct interest paid to depositors and reserves for future losses, while mutual insurance companies other than life or marine, and other than mutual fire insurance companies issuing perpetual policies, were taxable only if their gross income exceeded $75,000.

Regulated investment company returns were included in the population. These companies were treated as conduits of income if they met certain specified requirements and were taxable as corporations only on their undistributed earnings. Electing small business corporations were also included even though by law, they were not taxed as corporations and were taxed instead through their individual (or fiduciary) shareholders at the individual (or fiduciary) income tax rates.

The term corporation as defined by the Internal Revenue Code, included associations, joint stock companies, and insurance companies. Even though many of these companies were not legally organized as corporations, they were taxed as corporations on corporation income tax returns and were included in the population of corporations used for this report. These companies have many of the characteristics of the corporate form, such as continuity of life, centralization of management apart from ownership, transferability of interests, and limited liability of owners. On the other hand, sole proprietorships and partnerships for which an election was made to be taxed as corporations, do not generally possess these characteristics, and although they were taxed on corporation income tax returns, they were excluded from the population.

In general, this report covers corporate business activities in the United States as reported on returns of domestic and resident foreign corporations. However, domestic corporations, that is, corporations organized within the United States, could report certain income from foreign sources, such as dividends remitted from foreign subsidiaries. Also, a United States corporation, operating abroad through a branch, reported all of its income from such foreign branches. With regard to resident foreign corporations, that is, corporations incorporated abroad but engaged in trade or business in the United States, they reported only the income from United States sources. Nonresident foreign corporations, that is, corporations incorporated abroad and not engaged in trade or business in the United States, were taxable on investment income from United States sources, but information relating to them was not included in Statistics of Income.

Both domestic and resident foreign corporations, unless expressly exempt, were required to file corporation income tax returns. By law, a corporation in existence at any time during the year, was required to file a return regardless of the size of its income. However, certain mutual insurance companies, as previously noted, filed only if their gross income exceeded $75,000. This report, summarizing corporate financial activities for 1960-61, is derived from returns with accounting periods ended July 1960 through June 1961. Income tax law required that returns be filed for the annual accounting period customarily used by the corporation in keeping its books, and that in general, the accounting period close at the end of the month. Corporations tend to choose annual accounting periods that best fit their business needs and an increasing number file noncalendar year returns. A return was due on or before the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of the corporate accounting period. For corporations with accounting periods coinciding with the calendar year 1960 (including, by law, all insurance companies), a return was due on or before March 15, 1961. However, about half of the total number of corporations indicated noncalendar year accounting periods. The filing date for returns with the earliest accounting period covered by this report, was on or before October 15, 1960. Returns were due for corporations with the most recent accounting period covered, by September 15, 1961. However, many corporations were granted extensions of time in which to file, so that the last included returns for this report were not filed until 1962.

Thus, returns from which statistics were derived for this report include calendar year returns with accounting periods ended December 1960 and noncalendar year returns with accounting periods ended July through November 1960 and January through June 1961. Although representative of the period 1960-61, a span of some 23 months existed between the beginning of the first included accounting period on August 1, 1959, and the end of the last included accounting period on June 30, 1961. Thus, business receipts is the sum of the business receipts for some corporations for the 12 months ended July 1960, plus the business receipts for corporations with other accounting periods and as a result, includes some receipts for each of 23 different months. Also balance sheet items, such as end-of-year inventories and depreciable assets, are combinations of data representative not only of the position of many corporations at December 31, 1960, but of some companies at July 31, 1960, and of other companies 11 months later, at June 30, 1961.

DESCRIPTION OF THE SAMPLE AND LIMITATIONS OF THE DATA

Description of the Sample

Sources of data

Statistical information in this report was estimated from a sample of unaudited corporation income tax returns and small business corporation returns of income filed in the district offices of the Internal Revenue Service and with the Office of International Operations in the National Office. The sample reflects the activities of the total number of domestic corporations and resident foreign corporations filing returns with accounting periods ended July 1960 through June 1961. The total number of returns filed was estimated to be 1,188,000. This total represents returns, Form 1120 (U. S. Corporation Income Tax Return), Form 1120L (U. S. Life Insurance Company Income Tax Return), Form 1120M (U. S. Mutual Insurance Company Income Tax Return), Form 1120-S (U. S. Small Business Corporation Return of Income), and Form 1120-F (U. S. Income Tax Return of Foreign Corporation) except those filed by nonresident foreign corporations.

The sample was drawn to represent the total number of returns for 1960-61 regardless of when these returns were filed. Prior-year delinquent returns were included for the purpose of estimating data for current-year returns filed after the cutoff date for this report. It was felt that the characteristics of returns due but not yet received for the income year 1960-61 could be represented best by the previous-year delinquent returns which were received during the current-year filing period. The number of prior-year delinquent returns filed during this period was 54,000.

About 47,000 returns filed by inactive corporations were counted among the total number of returns, but no data were tabulated from them. Not counted in the total were tentative returns, amended returns not associated with the original return, returns in the Form 990 series filed by exempt organizations, returns filed by nonresident foreign corporations, and returns of unincorporated businesses for which an election was made to be taxed as corporations under section 1361 of the Code.

Sample selection

Returns were stratified by type of return, by size of total assets, and by the 62 district offices and the Office of International Operations in Washington, D. C. The sample design was adapted to fit the regular return sorting and grouping procedures employed by district offices to facilitate the processing of returns for revenue collection and audit purposes. Uniform methods of grouping returns by type of return and by size of total assets were prescribed for each office.

Within each of the groups, returns were assigned consecutive account numbers and the sample was selected systematically by withdrawing from the various groups all returns with designated account numbers. For sample purposes, these groups were combined into sample classes which can be identified as follows:

I. Forms 1120, 1120L, 1120M, and 1120-F (resident):

Sample class A.—Returns with net income or deficit of $1,000,000 or more, or total assets of $10,000,000 or more.

Sample class B.—The following special types of returns which were not included in sample class A: consolidated returns, returns with personal holding company schedules attached, life and mutual insurance company returns, Form 1120-F returns of resident foreign corporations, and returns with overpayment of tax. In addition, other returns with both total assets of $1,000,000 under $10,000,000 and net income or deficit under $1,000,000.

Sample class C.—Returns other than the special return types described under sample class B, with total assets of $100,000 under $1,000,000 in the case of current-year returns, and with total assets either under $1,000,000 or not reported in the case of prior-year delinquent returns.

Sample class D.—Current-year returns, other than the special return types described under sample class B, with total reported assets greater than zero but less than $100,000.

Sample classes E and F.—Current-year returns, other than the special return types described under sample class B, which showed assets zero or not reported. After sampling in accordance with prescribed sampling rates, returns were separated into class E (active corporation returns) and class F (inactive corporation returns). Returns in sample class E were separated further, into returns with zero assets and returns with assets not reported. Returns with zero assets were identified by information provided by the corporation on the tax return. All other returns were regarded as returns with assets not reported. For this second group, other sources were used to estimate balance sheet information for as many returns as possible. Assets and liabilities estimated were then weighted to represent the assets and liabilities for all returns in sample class E with assets not reported. (See also the Explanation of Terms under Size of total assets, Total assets and total liabilities, Zero assets, and Assets zero or not reported.)

II. Form 1120-S:

Sample class G.—Returns with net income or deficit of $1,000,000 or more, or total assets of $10,000,000 or more.

Sample class H.—Current-year returns with net income or deficit under $1,000,000 and total assets of $1,000,000 under $10,000,000, and all prior-year delinquent returns not included in sample class G.

²See text description of sample classes E and F.

Sample class I.—Current-year returns with total assets less than $1,000,000 or with assets zero or not reported. Returns with assets not reported were treated the same as in sample classes E and F.

For each of these sample classes, the number of returns filed, the number of returns in the sample, and the prescribed and achieved sampling rates are given in table J. Differences between prescribed and achieved sampling rates in table J occurred for the following reasons. Returns were ordinarily assembled and numbered in the district offices and in the Office of International Operations in packs of 100 within each of the return processing groups used for revenue collection and audit purposes, and were sampled according to designated account numbers within each hundred. However, to facilitate field processing, some packs were closed with less than 100 returns. Therefore the prescribed rates, based on packs of 100 returns, were not always achieved. Also, some returns with account numbers designated for the sample were unacceptable as in the case of tentative returns, and some specific returns were unavailable even after followup.

Method of estimation

The total number of returns filed was determined from counts made and submitted by the district offices and the Office of International Operations in Washington, D. C. The adequacy of response by sample class was reviewed by applying the prescribed sample rates to the number of returns filed and comparing this expected sample size with the number of returns actually received from each office. When receipts of tax returns appeared to be inadequate, a followup procedure was employed to obtain the missing returns. Sample data were expanded to the sample class totals by national weights obtained by dividing the total number of returns filed per sample class by the number of sample returns received for that class. However, more precise weights, one set for each district, were used to derive estimates for Internal Revenue districts and regions. (See tables 17 and 18.) Achieved sampling rates varied sufficiently among the districts to warrant the adoption of these separate sets of weights. As a result, the sums based on district weights show slight differences from the sums based on national weights which are shown in most of the tables in this report.

Limitations of the Data

Sampling variability

The relative sampling variability is the sampling variability expressed as a percent of the estimate.

The sampling variability at the 95 percent level when added to and subtracted from the estimate provides the computed upper and lower limits within which 19 out of 20 estimates derived from similarly selected samples would be expected to fall.

² No relative estimate of the sampling variability is obtainable from the sample statistics for these industries are not shown separately; however, the data are included in appropriate totals.

NOTE: The relative sampling variability at the 95 percent level is the sampling variability expressed as a percent of the estimate. The sampling variability when added to and subtracted from the estimate provides the calculated upper and lower limits within which 95 percent of similarly derived estimates would be expected to fall.

Data for small business corporation returns, shown separately below, are included in the statistics for total active corporation returns.

1 No reliable estimate of the sampling variability can be obtained from the sample.

2 Includes returns with deficit and returns showing equal income and deductions.

NOTE: The relative sampling variability at the 95 percent level is the sampling variability expressed as a percent of the estimate. The sampling variability then added to and subtracted from the calculated upper and lower limits within which 95 percent of similarly derived estimates would be expected to fall.

NOTE: An upper limit formula was used to compute the relative sampling variability estimates shown in this table. Therefore, for any specific estimated number, the relative sampling variability estimate is higher than that which would be obtained by using the standard formula. The disparity is generally less for tables showing classification by size of total assets than for other tables.

Tables K and L show the relative sampling variabilities for selected frequency estimates based on the standard statistical formula. Table M, based on a special "upper limit" statistical formula, provides conservative relative sampling variabilities for frequencies in general. The first three columns in table M apply to the tables in this report in which returns were classified by size of total assets. The fourth column applies to all other 1960-61 tables.

Use of table M as a means of providing an upper limit for relative sampling variability estimates may be illustrated by the following example. If 25,000 was the number of returns with total assets of $100,000 under $250,000, then the relative sampling variability as obtained from column 2 would be expected to be less than 4 percent. Relative sampling variabilities provided by table M are somewhat higher than the more exact relative sampling variabilities for association with frequencies of specific items in particular tables. This may be illustrated by comparing percents for a number of returns in table M with a similar number of returns found in table L. Thus, if 2,500 was the number of returns with any characteristic as shown in a table in which data were not classified by size of total assets, then the relative sampling variability as obtained from column 4 of table M is less than 17.9 percent. But though this percent is reasonable, it is high compared with the percent for a similar number of returns, but with a specific characteristic in a particular situation as borne out by the following example from table L: the relative sampling variability of the estimated 2,493 returns classified in the mining industry which showed an excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss as obtained from column 7, is, as shown in column 8, actually only 12.23 percent.

The relative sampling variability associated with aggregate amounts is for the most part less than that associated with the frequencies related to the aggregate amounts. This is because large corporation returns, shown in table J in sample classes A, B, G, and H, sampled at a 100 percent rate and therefore not generally subject to sampling variability, account for a larger proportion of the total amount estimates, but for a smaller proportion of the related total number of returns estimates. Therefore, the relative sampling variabilities for specific frequencies given in table L may in general be used as conservative estimates of the relative sampling variabilities of the amounts to which they relate.

Frequencies and amounts considered subject to excessive sampling variability are not shown in the tables, although they are reflected in the appropriate totals. Where sampling variability was judged to be excessive, data in particular cells have been deleted or have been combined in such a way as to present combined totals for groups of cells, the combined sampling variability for which was not judged to be excessive. Where deletions were made in tables, the applicable cells are footnoted. Where combinations of data were made, the combined totals are presented alongside the bracketed cells to which they relate.

Other sampling limitations

Returns selected for the 1960-61 sample represented about 14 percent of the total number of returns filed. Therefore, the absence of statistics for items presented in the tables and indicated by means of a dash may be interpreted in several ways. If the statistics were based on returns sampled at the 100 percent rate (sample classes A, B, G, and H in table J), then there were no returns with the particular characteristic. But if the statistics were based on returns sampled at less than the 100 percent rate, either there were no returns with the particular characteristic, or, because of its rarity, instances of the characteristic were not present among the returns sampled.

Response and other nonsampling limitations

In processing returns for collection purposes in the district offices and, later, in processing the sample of such returns for statistical purposes, several steps were taken to reduce taxpayer reporting errors and other errors introduced in data processing operations. A large proportion of the returns were mathematically verified, but not audited, in the district offices before they were made available for sample selection. Any corrections resulting from mathematical verification of the taxpayer's entries are reflected in the data published.

In transcribing and tabulating the information from the sampled returns, additional checks were imposed to improve the quality of the resulting estimates. Returns which showed data in accompanying schedules, but not on appropriate return lines, and returns with obvious errors, were edited and properly transcribed. Mechanical transcribing was verified by the process of repeat card punching, and, prior to tabulating, numerous tests for consistency were applied using an electronic computer, to assure that the proper balance and relationship between return items and statistical classifications were maintained.

An extensive system of sample management and control was used to insure the selection of the prescribed sample and to prevent inaccuracies in estimating the number of returns filed per sample class. Sample controls were maintained on a district basis by the most detailed Internal Revenue groupings. In addition, returns of corporations in sample classes A and G were controlled on a name basis as a further check on the completeness of the sample.

However, the controls maintained over the selection of the sample returns and the processing of the source data in the field offices did not completely eliminate the possibility of error. Also, practical operating considerations necessitated allowance of reasonable tolerance in controlling the statistical processing of these data.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS

The following explanations include definitions and limitations based on income tax law, descriptions and limitations of classifications used, and adjustments made in preparing the statistics. These explanations are designed to aid the user in interpreting the statistical content of this report and should not be construed as interpretations of the Internal Revenue Code. Code sections cited were those in effect for 1960-61. Income tax return forms used for 1960-61 are reproduced at the end of this report.

Accounts and notes payable, shown in table 4, consists of Accounts payable and Bonds, notes, and mortgages payable with maturity of less than one year.

Accounts payable, in general, related only to trade accounts, that is, to accounts between the company and its trade creditors payable within a year and not represented by notes.

For railroad corporations, short-term loans and bills payable were included in Accounts payable prior to 1960-61. For 1960-61, they were contained in Other current liabilities.

Nontrade accounts payable were includible in Other current liabilities.

Active corporation returns were returns showing any items of income or deduction. They comprised the vast majority of returns and were the basis for all of the financial statistics presented in this report.

Advertising expenses, paid or incurred, were deductible if they were ordinary and necessary and bore a reasonable relation to the business activity of the corporation. The amount shown in the statistics includes advertising reported as a cost of sales or of operations, as well as advertising reported as a business deduction.

Alternative tax under section 1201 of the Internal Revenue Code was the income tax liability computed at the alternative rates. It consisted of an elective tax of 25 percent on net long-term capital gains reduced by net short-term capital losses, plus the normal tax and surtax at the regular rates on the balance of taxable income as defined by the Code. Alternative tax was used only if it was less than the regular normal tax and surtax on the entire taxable income.

Alternative tax did not include the nonelective 25 percent tax on life insurance and regulated investment company net long-term capital gain reduced by net short-term capital loss, plus the normal tax and surtax on the balance of taxable income of these companies since, under other provisions of the law, these corporations were not allowed the alternative tax privilege. However, the formula for computation of this tax was identical with the alternative tax computation formula.

To the extent that a return with alternative tax was filed by an affiliated group of companies, the statistics also include the additional 2 percent tax on consolidated filings.

Amortization was the sum of (1) deductions taken in lieu of depreciation for Government-certified emergency facilities for the national defense (under section 168 of the 1954 Code), and grain storage facilities (section 169), and (2) the amounts of deferred expenses written off in 1960-61 for research and experimental expenditures (section 174), exploration and development expenditures (sections 615 and 616), organizational expenditures (section 248), and trademark and trade name expenditures (section 177). Prior to the enactment of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, amortization under the 1939 Code pertained only to the writeoff of emergency and grain storage facilities.

Each type of deduction comprising amortization was elective. Because of the choice of treating some amortizable expenditures as fully deductible current expenses and because of the nature of the various expenditures being written off, most of the deduction was attributable to the writeoff of emergency facilities. Section 168 provided for the amortization of such facilities over a 60-month period, with the privilege of changing to regular depreciation at any time. A considerable lapse in time between certification as an emergency facility and the beginning of amortization could result from (1) the time necessary to complete the facility and (2) an election to begin amortization with the next full tax year after acquisition or completion of the facility. Full amortization of some facilities brought into production in the early part of the Korean emergency period may be reflected in the gradual decrease in the total amortization claimed in recent years. The amounts deducted for 1960-61 for emergency facilities were based on facilities certified in 1955-56 or later. New certifications after August 22, 1957 were limited to facilities used to produce new or specialized defense items, to provide research, development, or experimental services for the Defense Department or Atomic Energy Commission, and to provide for the primary processing of uranium under a Government-sponsored program to discover new sources of this mineral.

No facilities were certified as emergency facilities after December 31, 1959.

The amount shown in the statistics includes amortization reported as a manufacturing or operating cost. Small amounts of amortization were sometimes reported in combination with depletion on returns with accounting periods ended July through November 1960. When such combinations could not be separately identified from supporting schedules, the total was allocated to Other deductions.

Amounts contributed under other employee benefit plans, excluding pension plans within the purview of section 404 of the 1954 Code, consisted of employer contributions to insurance plans, noninsured death benefit plans, and health, accident, and other welfare benefits deductible under section 162. The statistics for these contributions include any amount reported as a cost of sales or operations.

The statistics for insurance carriers are not comparable with 1959-60 and 1958-59 because of a change in the treatment of amounts contributed by life insurance companies. For both 1959-60 and 1958-59, all life insurance company contributions under employee benefit plans were treated as pension plan contributions, so that for these two periods the statistics for Amounts contributed under other employee benefit plans represented only those for stock casualty and certain other nonlife insurance companies. See also, Amounts contributed under pension plans.

Amounts contributed under pension plans consisted of employer contributions deductible under section 404 of the Code. The amounts reported were after the limitations imposed by the Code and included certain amounts carried forward from previous years. Pension plans included pension, annuity, stock bonus, profit sharing, or other deferred compensation plans. The statistics for these contributions include amounts reported as a cost of sales and operations.

Statistics for insurance carriers are not comparable with 1959-60 and 1958-59 because of a change in the treatment of amounts contributed by life insurance companies. For life insurance companies in 1960-61, this item included contributions under pension plans plus contributions under employee benefit plans unidentified by the companies as to type. For both 1959-60 and 1958-59, all life insurance company contributions under any employee benefit plans were treated as pension plan contributions. See also, Amounts contributed under other employee benefit plans.

Amounts subtracted from policyholders' surplus account of life insurance companies are discussed under Income subject to tax and also in the Changes in Law section of the text dealing with life insurance companies.

Amounts taxable as ordinary income to shareholders of electing small business corporations consisted of current-year net income (reduced by the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss) which was either distributed or deemed distributed for taxation purposes. The capital gain retained its character in the hands of the shareholders. Ordinary income did not include dividend distributions which were eligible for the 4 percent tax credit and $50 exclusion from gross income because such distributions were not made from current-year net income. Amounts taxable as ordinary income were obtained from the schedule of income and distributions (Schedule K) on Form 1120-S. Because reporting in Schedule K was not always consistent, the statistics shown for amounts taxable as ordinary income differ somewhat from the statistics for the components of ordinary income.

Annual returns, or full-year returns, were returns representing twelve-month accounting periods. Included were calendar year returns ended December 1960 as well as noncalendar year returns with accounting periods ended during the months July through November 1960 and January through June 1961.

Assets greater than zero is used as a classification of statistics for 1958-59 and earlier years to describe returns of corporations which supplied balance sheet information. The few returns of corporations which had assets but failed to report them were included in a separate classification, returns with assets zero or not reported. For 1959-60 and 1960-61, returns with assets greater than zero in the historical tables comprise returns of all corporations which had assets.

Assets zero or not reported was a category used in the asset-size classification of returns prior to 1959-60. (Returns with "assets zero or not reported" were sometimes described as returns "without balance sheets.") In addition to the returns now described as with "zero assets," the category included the returns of the few corporations which failed to supply balance sheet information. Balance sheet estimates are now included in the statistics for the latter group of returns. See the explanations of Size of total assets, Total assets and total liabilities, and Zero assets. For 1960-61 and 1959-60, returns with assets zero or not reported, as shown in the historical tables, were limited to returns with "zero assets."

Bad debts occurring during the year or a reasonable addition to a bad debt reserve could be taken as a deduction. In the case of mutual savings banks, domestic building and loan associations, and cooperative banks without capital stock and operated for mutual purposes without profit, the amount claimed was deemed reasonable, by law, so long as it did not exceed the lesser of (1) taxable income before the bad debt deduction, or (2) the excess of 12 percent of deposits at the end of the year over the sum of surplus, undivided profits, and reserves at the beginning of the year. Bad debt recoveries were regarded as an income item and included in Other receipts.

On returns with accounting periods ended July through November 1960, small amounts of bad debts were sometimes reported in combination with rents paid on business property. When such combinations could not be separately identified from supporting schedules, the total was allocated to Other deductions.

Balance of income tax (after payments and foreign tax credit) as shown in table 16 was limited to the amounts for returns which showed prepayments (payments on declarations of estimated tax, payments with request for extension of time in which to file, or other unspecified types of payments). The statistics were not obtained from the "tax due" line on the income tax return forms, but were derived instead from the data reported on returns for which the income tax liability after foreign tax credit exceeded prepayments. The amounts shown therefore represent the excess of income tax after foreign tax credit over prepayments. Balance of income tax was due at time of filing the tax return; however, under an installment privilege half of this balance could be paid within three months after filing. Since the amounts shown were as of the time the return was filed, they do not reflect any subsequent adjustments such as those resulting from audit.

Bonds, notes, and mortgages payable were separated on the balance sheet according to the length of time from maturity of the obligations. Length of time from maturity was based on date of balance sheet rather than date of issue. Accordingly, long-term obligations maturing within the coming year were reportable together with short-term obligations, as having maturity of less than one year. The amounts are presented as reported.

Small business corporations taxed through shareholders were required to report separately, the bonds, notes, and mortgages payable to banks, small business investment companies, shareholders, and others.

Book income or deficit of small business corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders was reported as part of the reconciliation of taxable income by most electing corporations. Differences between net income as recorded on the corporation's books of account and the amount reported for tax purposes were attributable to nontaxable income and expenses either not deductible for tax purposes (such as insurance premiums paid on the life of any officer where the corporation was the beneficiary), or not currently deductible for tax purposes (such as contributions in excess of the 5 percent limitation or the excess of capital losses over capital gains). Depreciation and depletion were additional examples of deductions which could vary for book accounting and tax accounting purposes.

Business receipts, were, in general, the gross operating receipts of the corporation reduced by the cost of returned goods and by rebates and allowances. They were the sum of gross sales and gross receipts from operations.

Business receipts included rents reported as a principal business income by real estate operators and by certain types of manufacturing, public utility, and service corporations. The latter corporations included manufacturers that frequently rented products rather than sold them, such as tabulating or electronic equipment; lessors of public utility facilities such as docks, warehouses, and pipelines; and companies engaged in rental services, such as automobile and clothing rental agencies.

In the finance division, business receipts included such items as fees, commissions, trust department earnings, and exchange collections or service charges when identified in schedules attached to the return, plus certain insurance company underwriting income. When identified in schedules, operating income from investments other than rent or cooperative apartment assessment rent reported by real estate operators, was allocated to one of the specific types of investment income for which statistics are shown separately. Beginning with 1958-59, business receipts included life insurance company underwriting income, not previously reported for tax purposes. Mutual insurance companies other than life or marine, and other than fire insurance companies issuing perpetual policies, reported only investment income for tax purposes so that the underwriting income for these companies is not included.

Business receipts reported on nonconsolidated returns by security and commodity brokers, dealers, and exchanges, and by real estate subdividers, developers, and operators, required special statistical treatment. For these returns, net profit or loss from sales of securities or real estate was allocated to the statistics for Net gain or loss from sales of property other than capital assets if cost of sales and operations exceeded 50 percent of receipts, or if such receipts were specifically identified as sales of securities or real estate. Otherwise, business receipts were used as reported.

Business receipts to total assets ratio is discussed on pages 6-7.

Calendar year returns were returns with full-year accounting periods ended December 1960.

Capital assets less reserves shown in table 4 was the sum of the net value of three end-of-year balance sheet accounts (Depreciable, Depletable, and Intangible assets less accumulated amortization, depreciation, and depletion), plus Land. Capital assets used in this sense differ from capital assets as defined for tax purposes in Code section 1221 and described below in the explanation of Net capital gains.

Capital stock, common and preferred, comprised the issued shares of ownership in the corporation. If capital stock shown on the balance sheet could not be identified as common or preferred, it was included with common stock.

The Form 1120-S return filed by small business corporations taxed through shareholders did not require identification as to type of capital stock. The entire amount was treated as common stock for purposes of the summary tables for all types of returns.

Cash included such items as bank deposits, checks, deposits in (or shares of) building and loan associations, savings accounts, and cash in sinking or other funds.

Compensation of officers of the corporation included amounts reported in the income statement of the return or in supporting schedules for salaries and wages, stock, bonuses, or bonds if identified as paid to officers for personal services rendered.

It was not possible to identify officer compensation on some returns when this item was included in some other deduction such as in an overall employee compensation figure and when the separate schedule provided on most return forms for the reporting of this information was not filled in. For life insurance companies, this schedule appeared for the first time on the 1960 Form 1120L return form and as a result many of these companies reported officer compensation as a separate deduction for the first time. Previously, life insurance companies, using their own schedules to report most noninsurance deductions, often did not show officer compensation as a separate deduction. Consequently, amounts attributable to life insurance companies for 1960-61 are not comparable with 1959-60.

Compensation paid to shareholders of small business corporations for which an election was made to be taxed through shareholders was reported in the schedule of income and distributions (Schedule K) of Form 1120-S. The amounts comprised salaries and wages, and other payments, including director's fees, for services rendered. Such compensation was not necessarily equal to the amount deducted for compensation of officers in the company's income statement.

Compiled net profit or loss before income tax is shown as the difference between Total compiled receipts, including wholly tax-exempt interest, and Total compiled deductions. While net profit takes tax-exempt interest into account, net income as used in this report does not, and is defined as the difference between total taxable receipts and Total compiled deductions.

Beginning with 1958-59, the amount shown as Compiled net profit less income tax does not reflect the income tax liability of small business corporations for which an election was made not to be taxed as corporations. The profit of these companies was included on the income tax returns of shareholders and the individual or fiduciary income tax liability based on this profit was not identifiable.

Consolidated returns were income tax returns which contained the combined financial data of two or more corporations meeting the following requirements: (1) a common parent corporation owned at least 80 percent of the voting power of all classes of stock and at least 80 percent of each class of nonvoting stock (except stock which was limited and preferred as to dividends) of at least one member of the group, and (2) these same proportions of stock of each other member of the group were owned within the group.

The filing of a consolidated return constituted an election of group reporting which had to be followed, with certain exceptions, in subsequent years. By law, the consolidated filing privilege could be granted to all affiliated domestic corporations connected through stock ownership with a common parent corporation except: (1) regulated investment companies, (2) corporations deriving a large percentage of their gross income from sources within a United States possession, (3) insurance companies not affiliated with other insurance companies of the same type and taxed under the same provisions of the law, (4) corporations designated tax-exempt under Code section 501, and (5) China Trade Act corporations.

A consolidated return, filed by the common parent company, was treated as a unit, each classification being determined on the basis of the combined data of the affiliated group. Filing changes to or from a consolidated return basis, affect year-to-year comparability of the statistics.

An additional surtax of 2 percent was imposed on the combined taxable income of the affiliated group represented by the consolidated return. The combined taxable income was computed before deduction of partially tax-exempt interest, and excluded any taxable income attributable to regulated public utility or Western Hemisphere trade corporation members of the affiliated group.

The criteria for filing the consolidated returns shown in the historical tables for 1951-52 through part of 1954-55, were set forth in the 1939 Code and are summarized in table C of the Synopsis of Laws at the end of this report.

Contributions or gifts were deductible under Code section 170 if they were made to organizations: (1) created in the United States or its possessions, or created under domestic laws, (2) operated for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, or to veterans' organizations, or to governmental agencies for public use, (3) none of whose earnings benefited any private stockholder or individual, and (4) no substantial part of whose activities were for purposes of carrying on propaganda or otherwise influencing legislation.

The amount deductible to the corporation was limited to 5 percent of net income, computed before the deduction for contributions or gifts. For purposes of computing the 5 percent limitation, life insurance company net income was reduced by any net operating loss carryforward and was computed without regard to the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss and certain deductions applicable only to life insurance companies. The amounts shown include any carryover of contributions or gifts which was in excess of the 5 percent limitation from the two preceding years when such amounts were within the current-year 5 percent limitation.

No contributions or gifts were reported for tax purposes by mutual insurance companies other than life or marine and other than fire insurance companies issuing perpetual policies, since by law these companies reported only investment expenses.

Cost of sales and operations, offset against gross business receipts, is shown in this report as a deduction from Total compiled receipts. It is comparable to the sum of the two items, cost of goods sold and cost of operations, presented separately prior to 1958-59. Included are such items as purchases, labor, and operating costs. Treated as costs beginning with 1958-59 were insurance company benefit payments and accruals and losses on contracts except those of certain mutual insurance companies which were not reported for tax purposes. Because the income or loss from sales of securities or real estate by certain financial institutions were transferred from Business receipts as described above, and the net profit or loss from these transactions included in Net gain or loss from sales other than capital assets, the cost of such sales was excluded from cost of sales and operations.

Cost of sales and operations was reduced by any identifiable amounts of taxes paid, depreciation, depletion, amortization, advertising, and contributions to pension plans, and since 1952-53, by any identifiable amounts of contributions to other employee benefit plans. The amounts identified were transferred to their respective deduction headings.

Current assets other than inventories in table 5, consisted of the following short-term assets: Cash, Investments in Government obligations, Notes and accounts receivable (less reserve for bad debts), and Other current assets.

Current liabilities in table 5 consisted of the following types of short-term obligations: Accounts payable; Deposits and withdrawable shares; Bonds, notes, and mortgages payable with maturity in less than one year; and, Other current liabilities.

Deduction for certain dividends paid by public utilities allowed by Code section 247 was one of the four deductions described for this report as Statutory special deductions.

This special nonbusiness deduction was reported on public utility company returns and on consolidated returns of corporations classified for this report in other industries, which had public utility subsidiaries. The deduction was allowed for dividends on certain preferred stock which were paid from public utility earnings, and was equal to 26.923 percent of such dividends. However, if the dividends paid were greater than taxable income (net income reduced by partially tax-exempt interest, and the net operating loss, dividends received, and Western Hemisphere trade corporation deductions), the deduction could not exceed 26.923 percent of such taxable income. If there was no net income for the year, the full amount was nevertheless available to the company, to be combined with any deficit and with any dividends received deduction, to produce a "net operating loss" which was deductible during the prescribed carryback and carryforward periods. The estimates shown for the deduction therefore include amounts used in determining income subject to tax as well as in determining the current-year "net operating loss."

For purposes of this deduction, public utilities were specifically defined by the Code. The "certain preferred stock" was stock issued before October 1, 1942 (or deemed to have been so issued), nonparticipating, and with cumulative dividends, payable in preference to dividends on other stock. Further information on this stock is outlined in section 247 of the Code.

Deficit reported as allocable to shareholders of small business corporations for which an election was made to be taxed at the shareholder level was the net operating loss obtained from the schedule of income and distributions (Schedule K) on Form 1120-S. By law, the net operating loss of these corporations was in effect the same as the net deficit reported in the income statement and was allocable to each shareholder who was an owner during the year for use in computing taxable income. Because reporting in Schedule K and in the income statement of Form 1120-S was not always consistent, the deficit reported as allocable to shareholders differs somewhat from the net deficit reported in the income statement.

Depletable assets represented, in general, the gross value of mineral property, oil and gas wells, other natural deposits, standing timber, intangible development and drilling costs capitalized, and leases and leaseholds, each subject to depletion. Accumulated depletion represented the cumulative adjustment to these assets shown on the corporations' books of account. In some instances, depletable assets may have been reported as Land, or as Other investments, and could not be identified for this report.

The value of Depletable assets and Accumulated depletion may not be closely related to the current-year depletion deduction. The balance sheet accounts reflected book values; the depletion deduction reflected the amount claimed for tax purposes.

Depletion allowed for the wastage of natural deposits or timber could be based on cost or, in the case of natural deposits, on a fixed percentage of gross income, less rents and royalties paid, from the depletable property. In the case of depletable property other than oil and gas wells, gross income from the depletable property meant the gross income from mining, defined to include not only the extractive process, but also certain treatment processes. New provisions of the law (described in the Changes in Law section of this report) affected the determination of gross income from the mining of certain minerals for 1960-61.

Percentage depletion, though based on percentages of gross income from the depletable property, was limited. It could not exceed 50 percent of the taxable income from the property, computed without the depletion deduction. The percentage depletion rates for each type of deposit were listed in Code section 613 and ranged from 5 to 27-1/2 percent. Prior to the enactment of the 1954 Code, percentage depletion had gradually replaced another form of depletion known as discovery depletion which was based on the value of the property at the time its profitability was established. Discovery depletion was eliminated by the 1954 statute.

The amounts shown in the statistics also include any identifiable depletion reported as a cost of sales and operations. On returns with accounting periods ended July through November 1960, depletion was sometimes reported in combination with amortization. When such combinations could not be separately identified from supporting schedules, the total was allocated to Other deductions.

See also, Depletable assets.

Deposits and withdrawable shares consisted primarily of customer demand and time deposits including withdrawable shares, share accounts, and investment certificates held by banks, savings and loan associations, and other financial institutions. Other corporations occasionally used this account on the tax return balance sheet to report such liabilities as contingent and contract deposits. The amounts are shown as reported.

Deposits and withdrawable shares, and other current liabilities as shown in table 4, is the sum of the two separate accounts, described under their own headings.

Depreciable assets were generally defined as tangible assets, such as plant or equipment, having a useful life of more than one year. Included were grain storage facilities or assets certified as emergency facilities for the national defense, which were eligible for five-year amortization in lieu of regular depreciation. In some instances the reported amount included fully depreciated or fully amortized assets and assets for which no depreciation deduction was taken, such as buildings under construction. Accumulated depreciation and amortization represented the cumulative adjustment to these assets as shown in the corporations' books of account.

The amounts shown in the statistics are, in general, the gross amounts before the adjustment for accumulated depreciation and amortization, although some corporations reported only a net amount and did not show accumulated depreciation and amortization. In some cases where an amount was shown for depreciable assets but not for accumulated depreciation and amortization, the corporation may have been completely new. In such a case, the depreciable assets could have consisted, for example, only of uncompleted buildings or equipment not fully operative, to which no depreciation had yet been charged.

Among the corporations for which only a net amount of depreciable assets was available were certain insurance carriers. Most insurance companies reported balance sheet information in the format required by State law and this format provided for the reporting of net depreciable assets only. Furthermore, the depreciable assets reported in this manner included only the home and branch office buildings and equipment. Other real estate holdings of these companies were included in Other investments.

For the industrial group, real estate (except lessors of real property other than buildings), the value of land and buildings were included in Other investments, Depreciable assets, or Land, according to the method of reporting used by the corporation in its tax return.

In relating depreciable assets and accumulated depreciation and amortization to the current-year depreciation and amortization deductions shown in this report, it should be noted that the balance sheet accounts reflect amounts reported in the corporations' books of account, while the deductions are those claimed for tax purposes based on methods of computation and useful lives of assets which may vary for book accounting and tax accounting purposes. In some instances, the amount of depreciable assets shown in the balance sheet may have been greater in value than the amount to which the tax deductions were related, and the amount used as the basis for the deductions cannot be readily tabulated from the tax return. In addition, the amount shown as depreciable assets excluded those intangible assets, patents or copyrights for example, which were in fact depreciable for tax purposes.

The number of returns showing a deduction for depreciation but no depreciable assets may reflect this latter situation to a limited extent, although for the most part, this anomaly was attributable to (1) methods of reporting depreciable assets by corporations in the finance industries described above whereby the assets associated with the deduction were reported as Land or as Other investments, (2) returns with "zero assets" (see the definition of Zero assets), and (3) returns of corporations with no depreciable assets at the end of the year, assets having been disposed of as part of a plan to merge, liquidate, or otherwise change the structure of the corporation.

Depreciation claimed for tax purposes for the exhaustion, wear and tear, and obsolescence of business property was a composite amount resulting from application of the straight-line method as well as certain accelerated methods authorized under the 1954 Code, such as the declining balance and sum of the years-digits methods. These methods are described in detail in the instructions to the Form 1120 income tax return reproduced at the end of this report. The accelerated methods of depreciation were applicable, in general, to tangible property acquired after December 31, 1953. Also included in the deduction were amounts claimed on leasehold improvements, patents, and copyrights, as well as small amounts of additional first-year depreciation allowable on certain property. Depreciation was not allowed on inventories, or land apart from the physical improvements or developments added to it. Amounts shown in the statistics also include any identifiable depreciation reported as an operating or manufacturing cost. See also, Depreciable assets.

Distributions to stockholders consisted of distributions of the corporation's own stock, and of cash and other assets, generally reported as part of the analysis of earned surplus and undivided profits. In those instances where a corporation reported one total for distributions to stockholders and did not identify this distribution as cash or stock, the total was treated as a distribution to stockholders in cash and assets other than in the company's own stock.

For small business corporations for which an election was made to be taxed at the shareholder level, distributions to stockholders in other than the company's own stock was the sum of that portion of current-year net income actually distributed, distributions not out of current-year net income taxable to shareholders as dividends entitled to exclusions and credit, and nondividend distributions which included that portion of prior-year net income actually retained by the corporations but deemed distributed and taxed in the year earned. It did not include that part of current-year net income which was retained by the company and deemed distributed for taxation purposes. Since no space was provided on the Form 1120-S return form for the reporting of distributions in stock, those shown in the statistics reflect only those amounts which the corporations reported in schedules attached to the return.

The statistics shown exclude liquidating dividends.

Dividend distributions shown in tables 41 and 42 for small business corporations for which an election was made to be taxed through shareholders consisted of cash or property distributions of current-year net income taxable to shareholders as ordinary income or as net long-term capital gain, plus other distributions not out of current-year net income taxable to shareholders as dividends entitled to the $50 exclusion from gross income and 4 percent tax credit. Dividend distributions of electing small business corporations did not include amounts of current-year net income deemed distributed for taxation but not actually distributed. The amounts are shown as reported in the schedule of income and distribution (Schedule K) on Form 1120-S. Because reporting in Schedule K was not always consistent, the statistics shown for dividend distributions differ somewhat from the statistics for the components of these distributions.

Dividends entitled to exclusions and credit and paid by electing small business corporations taxed through shareholders were distributions eligible, in the hands of the shareholders, for the 4 percent individual (or fiduciary) income tax credit under Code section 34 and the $50 exclusion from individual (or fiduciary) gross income under Code section 116. These dividends were paid out of (1) current-year earnings and profits in excess of taxable income (Net income in the statistics) such as from the excess of percentage depletion used for tax purposes over cost depletion used for book accounting purposes, or from tax-exempt interest, reduced by deductions not recognized in computing the corporation's taxable income, but recognized in computing earnings and profits out of which dividends were paid, (2) earnings and profits in excess of taxable income for any other year for which the corporation existed as an electing small business corporation, and (3) accumulated earnings and profits of the corporation for years prior to its election to be taxed as a small business corporation. The amounts are shown as reported.

Dividends received from domestic corporations were distinguished in the income statement from dividends received from foreign corporations. While the full amount was reported in arriving at net income, most domestic dividends as well as those foreign dividends deemed earned in the United States (by resident foreign corporations) were recognized in computing the special deduction from net income for intercorporate dividends received. This statutory special deduction was allowed most of the corporations which were subject to the corporate rates and was equal, with certain restrictions, to 85 percent of the qualifying dividends received. Domestic dividends not qualifying for the deduction were added to the statistics for Other receipts. These were dividends received from corporations (1) deriving a large part of their gross income from sources within United States possessions as described in Code section 931, (2) organized under the China Trade Act of 1922, or (3) designated tax-exempt under Code sections 501 or 521. The sources of dividends received by small business corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders were not reported and all such dividends were treated as dividends from domestic corporations as shown in the tables summarizing data for all corporations.

Foreign dividends received as reported in the income statement differ from foreign dividends as reported in the foreign tax credit schedules. Non-response regarding dividends eligible for foreign tax credit was the chief reason for this difference, but there were other contributing factors having some basis in law.

There were several aspects of nonresponse. (1) Not all domestic corporations claiming the foreign tax credit filed Form 1118 at the time the return was filed. (2) Not all corporations which filed Form 1118 identified that part of foreign income which was dividends.

Among the points in law were the following: (1) Not all domestic corporations receiving foreign dividends elected to claim the tax credit for foreign income taxes paid or accrued on dividends. Dividends subject to foreign income taxation were excluded from the foreign tax credit statistics to the extent that the foreign tax was claimed as a business deduction in arriving at net income, rather than as a credit against domestic tax. (2) Certain amounts included in the foreign dividends for purposes of computing the foreign tax credit were actually reflected in the domestic corporation's income statement as capital gain rather than as dividends. (3) Not all dividends were subject to foreign income, war profits, or excess profits taxation, and were therefore not reportable in the foreign tax credit schedule. Therefore, foreign dividends received by resident foreign corporations were included in the income statement statistics but not in the foreign tax credit statistics. (4) Dividends received from resident foreign corporations which were considered earned in the United States were reported in full in the income statement and were eligible for the special deduction for the intercorporate dividends received. But, the dividends which were in excess of the deduction were treated as dividends not earned in the United States, eligible for the foreign tax credit. Therefore, only this amount was reportable in the foreign tax credit schedules. (5) Certain domestic dividends were deemed foreign, but only for purposes of computing the foreign tax credit. These were dividends received from corporations deriving a large part of their gross income from sources within United States possessions, or organized under the China Trade Act. (6) Property received from a wholly-owned foreign subsidiary in lieu of any dividends and in the form of royalties or compensation under a contract by which the domestic corporation agreed to furnish services or property in return for the property received, was treated as a foreign dividend, but only for purposes of computing the foreign tax credit, and only if the wholly-owned subsidiary was engaged in manufacturing, production, or mining.

Dividends received deduction under Code sections 243-246 and 809 was one of the four deductions described for this report as Statutory special deductions. Statutory special deductions as a whole are discussed under separate heading.

A dividends received deduction was allowed most corporations for dividends from corporations which were themselves subject to the corporation income tax. These corporations were domestic corporations except (1) those operating under provisions of the China Trade Act of 1922, (2) those, under Code section 931, which during the current tax year as well as the two preceding tax years derived 80 percent or more of their gross income from sources within United States possessions other than the Virgin Islands, and at least 50 percent of their gross income from trade or business within such United States possessions, and (3) those designated tax-exempt under Code sections 501 and 521 and including charitable, educational, farmers' cooperatives, and other nonprofit-seeking organizations. Also, no deduction was allowed any corporation if the dividends were from stock held for less than a prescribed number of days, or if the dividends failed to meet certain other conditions summarized in the tax return filing instructions reproduced on page 340.

The dividends deduction was also allowed for dividends received from resident foreign corporations other than foreign personal holding companies, if such dividends were paid from profits considered earned in the United States. The foreign corporation had to engage in trade or business in the United States for a period of at least three years (unless more recently organized), and had to earn at least half of its gross income in the United States.

The dividends received deduction was, in general, equal to 85 percent of the dividends received. However, small business investment companies operating under the Small Business Investment Act of 1958 were allowed to deduct 100 percent of the dividends received from domestic corporations (except dividends on certain public utility stock). The deduction for dividends received on this preferred public utility company stock was, for all eligible corporations, equal to 62.115 percent of the dividends. The stock to which this smaller deduction applied is discussed in connection with the deduction for dividends paid.

No dividends received deduction was allowed to regulated investment companies or to small business corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders. These two groups of corporations received $455,066,000 in dividend income from domestic corporations during 1960-61.

If the deduction for dividends received was less than net income, the deduction was restricted and could not exceed 85 percent of net income minus partially tax-exempt interest and any Western Hemisphere trade corporation deduction. Thus for these returns, the dividends received deduction was the smaller of the amount computed on dividends or of 85 percent of net income as adjusted. This restriction was not applicable to small business investment companies.

The deduction for dividends received was not restricted for corporations with deficits or for corporations for which the deduction exceeded net income and the excess included in the "net operating loss." This meant that returns classified for this report as with net income may have had a "net operating loss" under provisions of the Code, which was equal to the excess of the dividends received deduction over net income. For returns classified as without net income, the "net operating loss" was equal to the sum of any deficit plus the dividends received deduction.

The dividends received deduction for life insurance companies was computed in much the same manner as for other corporations. But the deduction was applicable only to that portion of dividends not deducted from operating income for life insurance reserve purposes. In determining whether or not the life insurance company dividends received deduction was restricted by the size of net income and how the deduction figured in computing a "net operating loss" ("operations loss" for life insurance companies), the computation of net income and deficit was made without regard to the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss. In determining the amount of the deduction when it was restricted, net income was also computed without regard to certain deductions unique to life insurance companies.

The estimates shown for the deduction may differ somewhat from the amounts actually used by certain corporations in arriving at income subject to tax. Thus, the statistics include some amounts which, while reported, were only indirectly used in arriving at income subject to tax. These amounts were reported by (1) mutual insurance companies taxed on gross income, (2) life insurance companies whose income subject to tax was comprised of long-term capital gain and subtractions from the policyholders' surplus account, and, (3) a few corporations using alternative tax whose income subject to tax consisted only of long-term capital gain. See Income subject to tax.

The estimates shown for the deduction may also differ somewhat from the amounts actually available to corporations. In some instances, corporations without net income failed to report the dividends received deduction since it could not be used as a deduction for the current year. Also, corporations with a net operating loss carryforward which either equaled or exceeded current-year net income, sometimes reported only this loss deduction, failing to limit it properly to amounts of net income remaining after subtraction of the current-year dividends received deduction.

Earned surplus and undivided profits, a capital account, consisted of accumulated earnings and profits of the corporation less any reserves. In the summary tables for all returns, including Form 1120-S returns of small business corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders, the two small business corporation accounts, Earned surplus and undivided profits accumulated and Shareholders' undistributed taxable income, each explained separately below, were combined and added to the statistics for Earned surplus and undivided profits. The statistics shown are net figures after deduction of any deficit amounts.

Earned surplus and undivided profits accumulated was a special account on the balance sheet of small business corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders. It consisted of corporate accumulations less reserves from years prior to the election under the 1958 Act, as well as earnings and profits in excess of taxable income for years subsequent to the election. Examples of the latter were earnings and profits resulting from tax-exempt interest and from the excess of percentage depletion used for tax purposes over cost depletion used for ordinary book accounting purposes. Distributions from this account were taxable to shareholders as dividends eligible for the 4 percent tax credit and the $50 exclusion from gross income.

The statistics shown are net figures after reduction by any deficit amounts. See also, Earned surplus and undivided profits.

Excess profits tax as shown in the historical tables for 1951-52 through 1954-55 was imposed by the Excess Profits Tax Act of 1950. Certain provisions of this act were amended by the Revenue Act of 1951. The tax was, in general, 30 percent of adjusted excess profits net income. A general limitation on the amount of tax was provided by each revenue act. Under the 1950 Act, the total excess profits tax plus normal tax and surtax was limited to 62 percent of the excess profits net income. Under the 1951 Act, the limit, applicable to the excess profits tax alone, was 18 percent of the excess profits net income. There were also a number of specific relief provisions and limitations of tax, applicable to specified types of corporations or industries.

In determining excess profits net income, capital gains and losses and dividend receipts were excluded from income. With these income exceptions and a few other minor adjustments, excess profits net income was similar to net income. Excess profits net income was adjusted, before applying the 30 percent tax rate, by deduction of a special credit based on earnings over a specified base period or on a specified percentage of invested capital. A minimum credit of $25,000 was allowed all corporations, and a computed credit amounting to more than the excess profits net income for the year could be credited to certain other years.

The amounts shown are after limitation and adjustments and before foreign tax credit. The tax became effective July 1, 1950, and was terminated December 31, 1953. For returns with accounting periods beginning before and ending after these dates, the tax was a prorated amount determined according to the number of days in the accounting period falling within the effective period.

Excess profits tax is discussed in more detail in the Statistics of Income reports for 1951 and 1950.

Foreign tax credit, based on Code section 901, was the reduction from the gross amount of income tax liability allowed domestic corporations for income, war profits, excess profits, and like taxes, paid or accrued, or under certain conditions, deemed to have been paid, to foreign countries or United States possessions. Income tax as shown in this report is before foreign tax credit.

When the foreign tax credit was taken, the alternative option, a business deduction from gross income for foreign taxes paid, could not be taken in computing taxable income. The credit allowable for any year with respect to each country or United States possession to which tax was paid, was limited to the proportion of the United States Federal income tax before foreign tax credit, which the taxable income from the foreign country (but not in excess of the entire taxable income from all sources) bore to the entire taxable income from all sources. But for years beginning after December 31, 1957, the excess of taxes paid or accrued to any country or United States possession over the allowable credit per country under the above formula could be carried back first to the two preceding years (but not to years beginning before January 1, 1958), and then forward to the five succeeding years. But such excess foreign taxes could be used in computing the per country credit for a year only to the extent that the credit based on current-year foreign taxes paid was less than the per country limitation for the year. The amount of excess foreign taxes carried back for inclusion in the recomputed prior-year foreign tax credit could not be shown on the current-year income tax return and is therefore not available in Statistics of Income. Amounts remaining after carryback were carried forward and to the extent they were within the per country limitation for 1960-61, were reflected in the foreign tax credit statistics for 1960-61.

As a result of the carryback provisions of the law, the foreign tax credit statistics for 1960-61 cannot represent the final amounts credited against tax. Such an amount would have to reflect, in addition to the results of subsequent audit, the carryback of some taxes from 1962-63 and 1961-62.

Foreign taxes eligible for credit included amounts deemed paid by a domestic corporation through a foreign corporation in which the domestic corporation held at least a 10 percent voting stock interest and from which the domestic corporation received dividends during the year, or through a foreign subsidiary, 50 percent of whose voting stock interest was held by the foreign corporation, in which the domestic corporation held at least a 10 percent voting stock interest. In the latter situation, the foreign subsidiary had to have paid dividends to the foreign corporation, which in turn had to have paid dividends to the domestic corporation during the tax year. The amount of foreign tax deemed paid by the domestic corporation in either case was equal to a proportion of the taxes paid by the foreign corporation or its subsidiary based on the ratio of dividends paid out of accumulated profits by the foreign company to its total accumulated profits.

The comparability of the statistics from year to year is affected by the provisions of the law which allowed a corporation to take a deduction in one year for foreign taxes paid or accrued and a tax credit in another year. In using the historical statistics for years prior to the enactment of the 1954 Code, see the Synopsis of Laws section of this report and Statistics of Income—1954, Corporation Income Tax Returns.

Form 1120-S returns are discussed under Small business corporation returns below.

Government obligations and other current assets as shown in table 4, is the sum of the two separate accounts, described under their own headings.

Inactive corporation returns are defined as those which showed no item of income or deduction. Returns were filed by inactive corporations in accordance with the regulation that a corporation existing during any portion of a year must file a return. Returns of inactive corporations are excluded from the basic tables, but the number of these returns is shown in text table D and in table 44.

Income subject to tax was the amount upon which the corporation income tax was imposed and for many companies was smaller than net income. The 1954 Code provided several income tax bases for different types of corporations. These included the "taxable income" base defined by Code section 63, used by the majority of corporations and to which the regular normal tax and surtax rates applied; a variation of this base in combination with long-term capital gain when the maximum 25 percent tax on capital gain was used; the several tax bases applicable to insurance companies; and the amounts taxable to regulated investment companies. All of these tax bases were embraced by the concept, Income subject to tax. Excluded is the taxable income of small business corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders.

In arriving at income subject to tax, most corporations were allowed, in addition to the deductions used in determining net income, certain additional deductions summarized in this report as Statutory special deductions. For most corporations, income subject to tax was the equivalent of net income minus statutory special deductions.

But the formula net income less statutory special deductions based on aggregated data from many returns will not give the income subject to tax shown for returns with net income. There are several reasons. (1) The special deductions for dividends received and for dividends paid on certain preferred stock of public utilities shown on a return may actually have exceeded net income. The results were that income subject to tax was reduced to zero, the return became nontaxable, and the excess deductions resulted in a "net operating loss" eligible for carryback and carryforward deduction treatment. Thus, statutory special deduction statistics contain amounts which should not be included in the formula. (2) Income subject to tax could also exceed net income less statutory special deductions where long-term capital gain was used as the only tax base. (3) Regulated investment company and some insurance company tax bases were not defined as net income less statutory special deductions. (4) Smaller differences between net income less statutory special deductions and income subject to tax could also have occurred because of reporting variations by certain corporations, because of the exclusion from statutory special deductions of certain deductions of limited applicability, and because of the rounding of amounts to thousands of dollars in statistical processing.

With relation to table 14, the components of income subject to tax are explained more fully below.

1. Domestic corporations filing consolidated or nonconsolidated returns on Form 1120 and resident foreign corporations filing returns on Form 1120-F.

a. Regular tax base—This tax base is defined for this report as net income less statutory special deductions. For most corporations, the result of this subtraction produced the "taxable income" defined by Code section 63, with one exception. Partially tax-exempt interest was included in income subject to tax for this report since it was subject to the 22 percent surtax on amounts in excess of $25,000, but it was not included in "taxable income." The normal tax of 30 percent was applicable to "taxable income." The 22 percent surtax rate was applicable to "taxable income" plus the above partially tax-exempt interest, minus a $25,000 exemption from surtax. Income taxed at normal tax and surtax rates is shown in the statistics.

If a consolidated return was filed, the additional 2 percent tax was not applicable to any part of the consolidated taxable income attributable to certain regulated public utilities as defined by Code section 1503, or to Western Hemisphere trade corporations.

b. Alternative tax base under section 1201—The 1954 Code provided that net long-term capital gain (reduced by net short-term capital loss) could be subject to a maximum tax of 25 percent. Corporations other than regulated investment companies and life insurance companies could choose the lesser of (1) the regular normal tax and surtax on the entire "taxable income," or (2) the alternative tax, using the 25 percent rate on the excess net long-term capital gain and the regular rates on the balance of taxable income. The 2 percent additional tax on consolidated filings was also applicable to consolidated returns with alternative tax. For returns on which the alternative tax was used, income taxed at normal tax and surtax rates, and long-term capital gain taxed at 25 percent, are shown separately.

For most corporations, use of the alternative tax did not affect the amount shown as income subject to tax. But occasionally it did. In a situation where the net long-term capital gain (reduced by net short-term capital loss) was greater than net income, or greater than net income minus statutory special deductions, the 25 percent rate applied to the larger amount of capital gain was less than the regular rates applied to the smaller amount of net income or net income minus statutory special deductions. When this occurred, the corporation chose the alternative tax rate which, in this case, consisted only of the 25 percent tax on the excess net long-term capital gain and the capital gain was included in income subject to tax, in lieu of the lesser amount of net income minus statutory special deductions. As a result, income subject to tax exceeded net income less statutory special deductions. In table 14, data from returns where long-term capital gain taxed at 25 percent exceeded net income less statutory special deductions are included in the line, Taxable returns, under Returns with no income taxed at normal tax and surtax rates.

c. Regulated investment company tax base—Regulated investment companies were treated as income conduits and were not subject to tax on income distributed to shareholders. One qualification for a regulated investment company was that at least 90 percent of income other than long-term capital gain be distributed. Distributions of income from either investment income or from capital gains could be actual or declared but retained by the company with consent of the stockholders as additional capital even though credited to stockholders for taxation. Tax was imposed on long-term capital gain and on other income separately, and the alternative tax privilege was not allowed.

Undistributed income other than long-term capital gain was the only income of regulated investment companies included in income subject to tax for Statistics of Income. Income subject to tax is thus defined as net income less net long-term capital gain reduced by net short-term capital loss, and less distributions to shareholders other than from capital gains. Tax was computed on this income at the regular rates.

The 25 percent tax was paid on undistributed long-term capital gain, but this gain was not included in income subject to tax. The return form did not provide for the reporting of the undistributed amount and no attempt was made to obtain it from attached schedules. As shown in table 1, regulated investment companies reported a tax of $65,000. This tax was based on undistributed investment income of $70,000 plus the undistributed net long-term capital gain not tabulated.

2. Life insurance companies filing on Form 1120L

Taxable income of life insurance companies was not derived from the net income shown in this report, but was based on the lesser of (a) taxable investment income, or (b) gain from operations. When based on investment income, taxable income included half the difference between taxable investment income and gain from operations. It also included amounts subtracted from the policyholders' surplus account. Unlike other corporations an adjustment was made in the tax base for partially tax-exempt interest. Income subject to tax for this report was the sum of this taxable income plus net long-term capital gain reduced by net short-term capital loss.

Taxable investment income and gain from operations are not shown in this report. Taxable investment income was, in general, gross taxable income from investments less costs attributable to investment income, the deduction for dividends received, and provisions for insurance reserves and other insurance obligations. Gain from operations included net investment income plus premiums and other income, less death benefits, operating costs, statutory special deductions, required interest added to reserves, other adjustments to reserves, and deductions applicable only to life insurance companies. Net income shown in the statistics was based on gain from operations and was derived from the tax return by including the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss and by adding back the statutory special deductions allowed corporations in general.

A mandatory 25 percent rate was imposed on long-term capital gain. The regular normal tax and surtax rates were imposed on the balance of income subject to tax. (The additional 2 percent tax on consolidated returns was also applicable.) The tax on long-term capital gain was imposed even though the company had no other income subject to tax, and even though its tax return showed no net income as defined above. In table 14, for life insurance companies, income taxed at normal tax and surtax rates and long-term capital gain taxed at 25 percent are shown separately.

Taxable income as defined by the Code included subtractions from a special policyholders' surplus account which is described under Changes in Law. This account was not required before 1959, and subtractions from it were taxable for the first time in 1959. To temper the impact of new taxes under the 1959 law, only about one-third of the tax which would have been due on this income at the regular rates was included in the income tax for 1959. But for 1960, about two-thirds of the tax was included in the income tax and the remaining third, constituting the reduction in tax, is shown in the statistics.

A few inconsistencies in the life insurance company income-subject-to-tax statistics may be attributable to unfamiliarity with the 1959 law or failure to carry all computations to lines on the tax return. As in the case of long-term capital gain, it was possible for a return to show income subject to tax attributable to subtractions from the policyholders' surplus account even though there was no other taxable income and even though the return showed no net income.

The life insurance company tax provisions also accounted for some income subject to tax and tax on returns of mutual savings banks without net income. Mutual savings banks maintaining separate life insurance departments computed tax separately for such departments under the insurance company tax provisions. For Statistics of Income, data for separate insurance and banking departments were combined and insurance department income subject to tax and income tax were included in the industry statistics for mutual savings banks and in the Form 1120 statistics in table 14.

Table N summarizes the amounts of income subject to tax and tax on returns classified for Statistics of Income as without net income. Except for table 14, these amounts were added to the statistics for returns with net income.

Table N.—TAXABLE RETURNS WITHOUT NET INCOME: DEFICIT, INCOME SUBJECT TO TAX, AND INCOME TAX, 1960-61

3. Mutual insurance companies filing Form 1120M

Mutual insurance companies (other than life or marine and other than fire insurance companies issuing perpetual policies) were taxed on net investment income, but if the income tax was larger, they were uniquely subject to a special tax on gross income. Income subject to tax for these companies was the sum of these alternate tax bases, whichever was applicable.

If the tax on net investment income was larger than the tax on gross income, income subject to tax was defined as net investment income including capital gains, minus the one statutory special deduction for dividends received. This income was taxed at the regular normal tax rates, or at the alternative tax rates. The amounts so taxed are shown in table 14.

Since the alternative tax computation could be elected by these companies, occasionally the long-term-capital gain was the only amount included in income subject to tax. In this situation, analogous to the one described above, capital gain comprising income subject to tax could be greater than the total net investment income or the total net investment income reduced by the special deduction for dividends received. This situation is shown in the statistics.

If the tax on gross income was larger, income subject to tax was defined as the gross amount of taxable income from investments (other than capital gains), plus net premiums reduced by dividends paid to policyholders. (Net premiums were premiums including assessments and deposits, less return premiums paid or incurred for reinsurance.) Gross income taxed at the special rates is shown.

Mutual insurance companies reported only investment income and expenses in their tax return income statement. (Net premiums were reported in the tax computation schedules, but no related deductions were available on the tax return.) Therefore, the net income used for this report was the net investment income. Because of the tax on gross income, returns classified as without net income showed both income subject to tax and income tax. See table N.

The tax rates for these companies were, in general, 1 percent of gross income, or the regular normal tax and surtax (or alternative tax) rates applied to net investment income. However, mutual insurance companies with gross income of $75,000 or less were exempt from taxation under Code section 501 and are excluded from this report. (Certain modifications and limitations in the tax were applicable to other mutual companies with comparatively small incomes.)

Income tax was the gross amount of liability reported on the tax return before credit for foreign taxes paid or accrued. As such it could not represent the final income tax liability for the 1960-61 period which would reflect (1) increase or decrease resulting from subsequent audit, (2) decrease caused by the carryback of future-year net operating losses applied against current-year taxable income, and (3) decrease due to a recomputation of the current-year foreign tax credit owing to the carryback of certain foreign taxes paid or accrued in future years.

Income tax consisted of normal tax, surtax, and alternative tax, as well as the tax imposed on the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss of life insurance and regulated investment companies, and a special tax applicable under prescribed conditions to certain mutual insurance company gross income.

Normal tax was 30 percent of taxable income as defined by the Internal Revenue Code. Surtax was 22 percent of taxable income (plus partially tax-exempt interest) in excess of $25,000. Alternative tax under Code section 1201 consisted of a tax amounting to 25 percent of net long-term capital gain reduced by any net short-term capital loss, plus the regular normal tax and surtax on the balance of taxable income. (Certain modifications and limitations of rates were prescribed for various types of mutual insurance companies with comparatively small incomes.) The alternative tax computation formula was elective and could be used only if the tax so computed was less than the normal tax and surtax on total taxable income. Life insurance and regulated investment companies did not have the alternative tax privilege, but they were subject to the 25 percent rate, on a mandatory basis, on the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss. The tax on such capital gain was in addition to the regular normal tax and surtax on the balance of income subject to tax. Excluded from the statistics was the tax on those net long-term capital gains of regulated investment companies which were deemed distributed and taxed to shareholders. For life insurance companies, the income tax on amounts subtracted from the special policyholders' surplus account (described under Changes in Law and Income subject to tax), at the regular normal tax and surtax rates, was reduced by one-third for 1960-61 under transitory provisions of the 1959 law. (It was reduced by two-thirds for 1959-60.) In lieu of the regular or alternative tax, certain mutual insurance companies could have been liable to a special tax on gross income. This tax generally amounted to 1 percent. The special tax was imposed if it was larger than the normal tax and surtax, or alternative tax, on net investment income. (See Income subject to tax.)

As a result of the special provisions affecting insurance companies and mutual savings banks having separate life insurance departments, there was included with the income tax shown (in other than table 14) for returns with net income, a relatively small amount of tax reported on returns without net income (shown separately in table 14).

Income tax also included the 2 percent additional tax on consolidated returns. It did not include the income tax liability of small business corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders. The taxable income of these firms was not subject to the corporate rates and was included in the income of shareholders and the amount of individual (or fiduciary) income tax attributable to the corporate profits could not be separately identified. Because the income tax which otherwise would have been due from these corporations is not available, historical statistics since 1958-59 are not altogether comparable with previous years.

Information on tax rates affecting the year-to-year comparability of historical statistics on income tax may be found in table A of the Synopsis of Laws section of this report.

The tax liability as reported on returns for the 1960-61 period in which income was earned as shown in this report is not completely comparable with the amount of tax collected for any given period as reported in the Annual Report of the Secretary of Treasury on the State of the Finances, the Annual Report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and Federal Tax Collections because of factors such as the following: (1) While most of the tax reported for 1960-61 was collected and included in the collection statistics for the fiscal year ended June 1961 as presented in the Annual Reports, certain payments of estimated tax for 1960-61 would have been collected during the fiscal year ended June 1960, while certain installment payments made within three months of filing as prescribed by law were collected during the fiscal year ended June 1962. Other differences in comparability occur when using statistics in Federal Tax Collections which are based on a calendar year. Collections based on returns included in Statistics of Income were made primarily during calendar year 1961, but certain timely collections were also made during 1960 and 1962. (2) Statistics of Income excluded the 1957 life insurance company tax adjustment reported in full for 1959-60 but collectible over a ten-year period under an installment privilege. (3) Collection statistics were based on the income tax liability after foreign tax credit. (4) Tax collected for any year included results of audit, both of current-year returns and of prior-year returns currently audited. Income tax in this report was before audit. (5) Delinquent taxes and related interest and penalties were not reflected in Statistics of Income. But the income tax in this report included relatively small amounts of tax which may have been uncollectible. (6) Included among collections were the 2 percent income tax withheld at source by issuing corporations on interest earned on tax-free covenant bonds issued before 1934 and which was deemed taxed to bondholders, as well as the 25 percent income tax withheld at source by regulated investment companies on certain undistributed net long-term capital gains which were deemed distributed and taxed to shareholders. Neither of these taxes was included in Statistics of Income. (7) Collection statistics also included personal holding company tax under Code section 541, tax on unincorporated businesses electing to be taxed as corporations under Code section 1361, tax on income derived from United States sources by nonresident foreign corporations, tax on retained earnings of farmers' cooperatives designated tax-exempt under Code section 521, and tax on unrelated business income of organizations designated tax-exempt under Code section 501.

Industrial divisions and groups shown in Statistics of Income reports conform closely to the industrial classification structure presented in the 1957 edition of the Standard Industrial Classification issued by the Office of Statistical Standards, Bureau of the Budget, Executive Office of the President. As in past years, the Standard Industrial Classification system, developed to classify separate establishments, has been applied to a legal entity or ownership basis for Statistics of Income by combining appropriate groups. Although definitions conform closely to the Standard Industrial Classification, particular provisions of the Internal Revenue Code have also been considered. Thus, regulated investment companies, small business investment companies, and life and mutual insurance companies are among the 218 groups for which information is provided in Statistics of Income tables.

Each income tax return was classified by industry based on the source of the largest percent of total receipts. If no receipts were reported, it was often possible to classify by industry based on information provided in the return or based on information obtained from reference books. Even though a corporation had numerous kinds of activities, all of the data from its tax return were included in a single industry group.

Year-to-year changes in the classification of specific corporations resulted from mergers, or other alterations in corporation activity or organization, and from the privilege of filing consolidated returns. Changes in the industrial classification structure also resulted in the reclassification of some corporations. Although the basic structure of industrial classification has not changed since 1958-59, one additional subgroup is introduced for 1960-61 in the finance division to accommodate "Small Business Investment Companies, 1958 Act." For a description of these companies see the Changes in Law section of Statistics of Income—1959-60, Corporation Income Tax Returns. Returns for these companies in 1959-60 were included in the industrial subgroup statistics for Other holding and investment companies. Therefore, the 1960-61 statistics for Other holding and investment companies are not altogether comparable with 1959-60. (Both Small business investment companies, 1958 Act and Other holding and investment companies are included in the industrial group statistics for Holding and other investment companies.)

Intangible assets were separately reported on the balance sheet if they were amortizable. Other intangible assets, not amortizable, were included with Other assets. Intangible assets could be amortized for income tax purposes only if they had a definite life and value. Since definition, valuation, and life of intangible assets subject to amortization varied from business to business, no definitive description of this item can be given. Accumulated amortization represented the cumulative adjustment to intangible assets shown on the corporations' books of account.

Interest on Government obligations issued by the United States or its instrumentalities on or after March 1, 1941, was wholly taxable.

Interest on United States savings bonds and Treasury bonds owned in excess of the principal amount of $5,000 issued prior to March 1, 1941, and interest on obligations of instrumentalities of the United States issued prior to March 1, 1941, was subject to surtax only. However, this interest, when included in the net income of a small business corporation reporting on Form 1120-S, lost its identity and was fully taxable to the shareholder.

Interest on obligations of a State, Territory, United States possession, or their political subdivisions, or of the District of Columbia, and interest on United States obligations issued on or before September 1, 1917, and on all postal savings bonds was wholly tax-exempt. Amounts shown are less amortizable bond premium.

Interest paid in connection with business indebtedness was deductible as an ordinary and necessary expense. Included was interest or so-called dividends paid on deposits and withdrawable shares by banking and savings institutions.

On returns with accounting periods ended July through November 1960, interest paid was sometimes reported in combination with taxes paid. When such combinations could not be separately identified from supporting schedules, the total was allocated to Other deductions.

Internal Revenue districts and regions in which the returns were filed, is the only geographic basis for classifying corporation income tax returns used in Statistics of Income. This classification shows the location of a domestic corporation's principal office or principal place of business in the United States including the former Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, except that returns with addresses in the District of Columbia were filed in the Baltimore, Maryland, district. However, returns of domestic corporations with foreign addresses including addresses in United States possessions were filed with the Office of International Operations in Washington, D. C. Returns of resident foreign corporations including those incorporated in United States possessions, although filed in the district wherein the principal office or principal place of business in the United States was located, were also included in the statistics for the Office of International Operations. A map showing the Internal Revenue district and region boundaries for 1960-61 is shown on page 172.

Data on the tax return are the sum of all units and activities of a corporation regardless of the location of the units and regardless of whether its activities occur in one State or many. This applies to both consolidated and nonconsolidated returns. Therefore it is not possible to relate with accuracy the place of filing with the place of origin of the income or tax. This is particularly true in the case of large corporations. Returns of large corporations show most of the income and tax.

Because of the limitations of a geographical classification of corporation return data, it is not emphasized in this report and only selected items on the return were so classified. Also, no attempt was made to combine district data in order to show separate statistics by States.

Inventories, as shown in the corporation return balance sheet, included such items as raw materials, finished and unfinished goods, merchandise on hand or in transit, and growing crops reported as assets by agricultural concerns. Amounts reported on non-consolidated returns by investment and holding companies (other than operating holding companies), security and commodity brokers, dealers and exchanges, and real estate developers and operative builders, were included in Other investments.

Identification of inventories was accomplished by use of generally accepted methods such as "first-in, first-out" (FIFO), but the special method known as "last-in, first-out" (LIFO) was also used by corporations in their books of account. LIFO was recognized for tax accounting purposes but with certain modifications and under certain conditions specified in Code section 472. According to Code section 472, inventory under LIFO was taken at cost and not the lower of cost or market value, and items identified in inventory by the LIFO method were treated as being those contained in the opening inventory (to the extent thereof), plus those acquired during the year. Items treated as having been in the opening inventory were taken in order of acquisition. Additions to inventory during the year were taken according to several optional methods: (1) in order of acquisition, (2) on the basis of most recent purchases, (3) at an average cost of acquisitions, or (4) by any other method which was determined to reflect income clearly.

Inventory change ratio is discussed on pages 7-8.

Investments, Government obligations, listed as an asset on the balance sheet, comprised bonds or other obligations of a State, Territory, or United States possession, including obligations of political subdivisions and of the District of Columbia. United States obligations included those of instrumentalities of the Federal Government. Government obligations which could not be identified as to type were classified as Investments, Government obligations, Not stated.

Land owned by a corporation was reported as a separate capital asset on the balance sheet. Although land was not ordinarily subject to depreciation, land acquired and certified as an emergency facility for the national defense was amortizable under the provisions of section 168 of the 1954 Code relating to emergency facilities. The corporation was required to report only the net value of such land after reduction by this amortization.

Loans to stockholders and Loans from stockholders are discussed on page 5.

Long-term debt, in the historical tables, consisted of Bonds, notes, and mortgages payable with date of maturity one year or more from the date of the balance sheet for years beginning 1955-56. Prior to 1954-55, long-term debt comprised Bonds, notes, and mortgages payable with original maturity one year or more. The definition was revised during 1954-55 so that statistics for this one period comprised data reported under both the old and new definitions.

Mortgage and real estate loans were reportable apart from other receivables on the balance sheet. Because the return form did not provide a separate place for reporting any reserve for uncollectible mortgage and real estate loan accounts, such reserves were often included in the reserve for bad debts, which is shown in this report as an adjustment to Notes and accounts receivable. If a separate reserve was indicated in supporting schedules, it was therefore added to the bad debt reserve.

Mortgages, loans, and other noncurrent investments, as shown in table 4, is the sum of the three asset accounts, Mortgages and real estate loans, Loans to stockholders, and Other investments, each of which is discussed under separate heading.

Net capital assets except land in the historical tables consisted of Depreciable, Depletable, and Intangible assets less accumulated depreciation, amortization, and depletion.

Net capital gains comprised net short-term capital gain reduced by any net long-term capital loss and net long-term capital gain reduced by any net short-term capital loss. Short-term related to gains or losses from property held six months or less. Long-term related to gains or losses from property held more than six months.

Capital gain or loss was (1) the gain or loss from sales or exchanges of "capital assets" as defined by section 1221 of the 1954 Code, and (2) the aggregate net gain from sales or exchanges of certain business property and from the involuntary conversion of such property and of capital assets held more than six months as provided in section 1231. An aggregate net loss from the sale of these assets and from certain involuntary conversions was fully deductible as a net loss from sales or exchanges of property other than capital assets. Involuntary conversions of business property and capital assets resulted from theft, seizure, destruction, requisition, or condemnation. But uninsured losses from theft, or from fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty were excluded in determining gain or loss from involuntary conversions. Such losses were fully deductible as ordinary losses and are included in Other deductions.

According to section 1221, capital assets consisted of all property held by the taxpayer except: (1) property includible in inventory, or property held primarily for sale in the ordinary course of trade or business; (2) depreciable and real property used in trade or business; (3) accounts and notes receivable acquired in the ordinary course of trade or business for services rendered or from sale of property includible in inventory or ordinarily held for sale; (4) Government obligations issued on or after March 1, 1941, on a discount basis and payable without interest at a fixed maturity date not exceeding one year from date of issue; and, (5) certain copyrights, literary, musical, or artistic compositions or similar property.

Some of the property specifically excluded from the definition of capital assets by Code section 1221, was eligible for capital gains treatment under certain conditions by Code section 1231. Property eligible for capital gains treatment under section 1231 was that used in trade or business, including real and depreciable property, held for more than six months (but not certain copyrights and similar property), as well as timber, coal, unharvested crops, and livestock.

Losses from sale or exchange of capital assets were allowed only to the extent of capital gains, but a net capital loss on assets as described in section 1221, reduced by capital gains in intervening years, could be carried over to the five succeeding years as a short-term loss. If the capital loss carryover was not eliminated during the five-year period, it could not be used.

On certain returns, the corporation made no distinction in its income statement between gain or loss from sales or exchanges of capital assets and gain or loss from sales or exchanges of other property, and no Schedule D was filed in support of such sales or exchanges. In such cases, the entire amount was treated as net gain or loss, sales other than capital assets.

For a description of the tax rates applicable to net long-term capital gain reduced by net short-term capital loss, see Alternative tax and Income subject to tax, and for small business corporations filing Form 1120-S, see Net long-term capital gain taxable to shareholders. For a discussion of capital gains and losses under the 1939 Code to be used in connection with the historical statistics for 1951-52 through part of 1954-55, see table B of the Synopsis of Laws at the end of this report.

Net gain or loss, sales other than capital assets was the net gain or loss from sale or exchange of: (1) depreciable and real property used in trade or business; (2) accounts and notes receivable acquired in the ordinary course of trade or business for services rendered or from sale of property includible in inventory or ordinarily held for sale; (3) Government obligations issued on or after March 1, 1941, on a discount basis and payable without interest at a fixed maturity date not exceeding one year from date of issue; (4) certain copyrights, literary, musical, or artistic compositions or similar properties; and, (5) securities by dealers. Although an aggregate net gain from sales or exchanges of certain depreciable and real property used in trade or business, and from the involuntary conversion of such property and of capital assets held for over six months was treated as a capital gain under section 1231 of the Code, an aggregate net loss was reportable as a net loss, sales other than capital assets. Losses arising from involuntary conversions of uninsured property by casualty or theft were excluded from the computation of net gain or loss under section 1231. These losses were fully deductible as ordinary losses and were included in Other deductions.

Also included in net gain or loss were amounts reported as profit or loss from sales of securities and real estate by security and commodity brokers, dealers, and exchanges, and profit or loss from sales of real estate by real estate subdividers, developers, and operative builders. These amounts were transferred from Business receipts and adjusted for any cost of sales.

On returns where no distinction was made, or could be estimated, between sales or exchanges of capital assets and sales or exchanges of other property, the amounts reported were included in the statistical items for net gain (or loss), sales other than capital assets.

Net income or deficit was the difference between gross taxable receipts and the ordinary and necessary business deductions allowed by the Code. Net income or deficit of mutual insurance companies other than life or marine and other than fire insurance companies issuing perpetual policies, was limited to net investment income or deficit and did not take into account operating income, premiums in this instance, or operating expenses.

Beginning with 1958-59, life insurance company net income or deficit was derived from the gain or loss from operations reported on the Form 1120L return form, modified (1) to include, beginning with 1959-60, the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss, and (2) to exclude the statutory special deductions allowed corporations in general. Net income or deficit for these companies may thus be defined as gross taxable receipts reduced by ordinary and necessary business deductions and by the reserve and other deductions which were pertinent only to life insurance companies. In using the historical statistics prior to 1958-59, the net income or deficit attributable to life insurance companies, based on the statutory reporting requirement, was defined as gross taxable receipts from investments only, reduced by investment deductions, but not by those additional deductions which were unique to life insurance companies.

The difference between compiled net profit and the smaller amount of net income as shown in this report was attributable to tax-exempt interest. The difference between net income and the generally smaller amount on which the corporation income tax was imposed is described under Income subject to tax. But for small business corporations for which an election was made to be taxed through shareholders, net income equaled taxable income.

Net income or deficit of these small business corporations was allocable to shareholders for taxation purposes. Net income was either distributed or retained. But retained net income (Undistributed net income in the statistics) was deemed distributed among end-of-year shareholders for taxation. A net deficit was allocated as a net operating loss to each shareholder who was an owner during the year for use in computing his taxable income.

Net income to business receipts ratio is discussed on pages 6-7.

Net long-term capital gain taxable to shareholders of electing small business corporations consisted of net long-term capital gain reduced by net short-term capital loss, but only to the extent of net income for the year. Such net gains, distributed or deemed distributed for taxation, retained their character in the hands of the shareholders. The excess of net capital losses (long-term or short-term) over net capital gains was not distributable and could only be used by the corporation in computing its capital loss carryover as described in the explanation of Net capital gains.

Net long-term capital gain taxable to shareholders was obtained from the schedule of income and distributions (Schedule K) on Form 1120-S. Because reporting in Schedule K was not always consistent, certain anomalies are apparent in the statistics, such as long-term capital gain distributions in excess of the amount reported in the income statement and distributions reported even though the corporation was without net income.

Net operating loss carryforward statistics were included in Statutory special deductions, explained under separate heading. For 1958-59 through 1960-61, the amounts shown were based on (1) the net operating loss deduction allowed most corporations under Code section 172, and (2) the operations loss deduction allowed life insurance companies under Code section 812. The amounts shown, as explained below, were for losses incurred in previous years and carried forward as an offset against an available amount of current-year net income.

A "net operating loss" for a year could be used to reduce taxable income over a specified carryback and carryover period unless fully absorbed before the end of the period. Such a loss arose when business deductions used in arriving at net income exceeded receipts so that the corporation reported a deficit for the year, and when certain special nonbusiness deductions from net income actually were greater than net income. Only two of the special deductions, those for dividends received and dividends paid, could either contribute to, or cause, a "net operating loss." In order for these two deductions to contribute to a "net operating loss," the corporation must have reported a deficit for the year, in which case, the entire amount of what otherwise would have been deductions from net income, was combined with the deficit to produce the "net operating loss." In order for the deductions to cause a "net operating loss," they had to exceed net income and the excess over net income became the "net operating loss."

Losses first had to be carried back over the specified carryback period. Such carrybacks applied to prior-year net income could not be shown on the current-year tax return and are therefore not shown in Statistics of Income. Amounts remaining after the carryback could be carried forward over a period not exceeding five years beyond the loss year. Losses sustained after 1957 could be carried back three years; losses sustained in 1954 through 1957 could be carried back only two years. The net operating loss deduction shown for 1960-61 was from losses incurred since 1954-55, which were in excess of available net income during the appropriate write-off periods before 1960-61. As such, it could not reflect the final net operating loss deduction for 1960-61 which would include, in addition to the results of subsequent audit, the carryback of future-year net operating losses.

The net operating loss deduction for prior-year losses carried forward to 1960-61 as shown in this report was, in general, the effective amount for the year, that is, the amount of prior-year loss which could be offset against an available amount of current-year net income after adjustments for dividends received and dividends paid on public utility stock. However, some corporations failed to report the two special dividend deductions to which they were entitled. Had they claimed these deductions they would have reduced the amount of net income available for offsetting net operating losses. The amounts shown may therefore be somewhat greater than the true effective deduction because of the failure of these corporations to limit their net operating loss carryforward to net income after the two dividend deductions.

No deduction for net operating losses was allowed regulated investment companies taxed under Code section 852, mutual insurance companies taxed under Code section 821, and small business corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders under Code section 1372. However, net operating losses of the latter type of corporation were allocable as deductions to shareholders. The net operating loss carry-forward statistics in the historical tables for 1951-52 through 1954-55, and to a decreasing extent for 1955-56 through 1959-60, were based on provisions of the 1939 Code. For a summary of the 1939 provisions, see the Synopsis of Laws section at the end of this report.

A life insurance company "operations loss," similar to the "net operating loss" of other companies, could be used to reduce taxable income over the appropriate writeoff periods, but, because of the multi-base character of life insurance company taxable income, the application of such loss was somewhat limited.

While the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss was included in life insurance company net income for Statistics of Income, it was taxed separately from other insurance company income and was excluded from operating income, from which the balance of net income was derived. Therefore, unlike other corporations, because of the separate taxation of long-term capital gain, a net operating loss deduction could not be used to reduce that part of net income which was attributable to such gain. In addition, life insurance company taxable income (but not net income) included amounts subtracted from policyholders' accounts which were also taxed separately and which could not be reduced by an operations loss deduction.

An "operations loss" arose when a company's total allowable deductions exclusive of an operations loss carryforward from some previous year, exceeded operating income (including investment income other than from long-term capital gain). Allowable deductions which could either cause or contribute to an "operations loss" included the statutory special deduction for dividends received and the deductions unique to life insurance companies.

Life insurance companies were taxed primarily on the lesser of investment income and operating income (which included investment income), and neither of these alternate tax bases included the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss or subtractions from policyholders' surplus accounts. (See Income subject to tax.) Since the operations loss deduction reduced operating income only, the deduction reduced taxable income only to the extent that it was based on operating income. Taxable income when based primarily on investment income was increased by half of total operating income, and therefore taxable income was reduced by only one-half of the operations loss deduction. Even so, the full amount was included in the statistics, regardless of which tax base was used.

The life insurance company operations loss deduction for prior-year losses carried forward to 1960 as reflected in the statistics, was also the effective amount for the year, that is, the amount of prior-year loss which could be offset against an available amount for net income reduced, for the most part, by the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss and by the special deduction for dividends received.

A net operating loss deduction first became available to life insurance companies as a result of the Life Insurance Company Income Tax Act of 1959. Provisions of this Act were retroactive, under certain transitional rules, to operations losses sustained after 1954. Since operating income and deductions were not reported or reflected in taxable income before 1958, they were computed for 1955 through 1957 as if the 1959 law were in effect for these years. Although the life insurance company carry-forward period of five years was similar to that allowed corporations in general, certain new companies could carry losses forward eight years. Under the transitional rules, losses incurred after 1957 could be carried back three years, but not to years before 1958, and losses incurred for 1955 through 1957 could be carried back two years, but not to years before 1955. The transitional rules further provided that amounts carried back to years before 1958 would have no effect on taxable income and would be used only to reduce the amount eligible for carryforward. The operations loss deduction reflected in this report was therefore from losses, incurred since 1954, which were in excess of an available amount of net income adjusted in the manner described above, during the appropriate writeoff periods before 1960-61.

Net worth, in general, consists of capital stock and surplus. In the statistics, it is the sum of Capital stock, preferred or common, Paid-in or capital surplus, Surplus reserves, and Earned surplus and undivided profits, each of which is separately explained. In the historical tables, net worth for 1954-55 included the Reserves for estimated expenses, which were shown on the corporation return balance sheet for the one year only.

Net worth to total assets ratio is discussed on page 7.

Noncalendar year returns were returns with full-year accounting periods ended during the span of months, July through November 1960 and January through June 1961.

Nondividend distributions as reported in the schedule of income and distributions on returns of electing small business corporations taxed through shareholders consisted of (1) distributions not out of earnings and profits, such as those resulting from deductions not recognized for tax purposes, for book depreciation in excess of tax depreciation for example, and (2) cash distributions during the current year of any portion of the shareholders' share of the corporation's retained net income accumulated during the years of operation as a small business corporation, reduced by operating deficits for any year. The income was deemed (but not actually) distributed to the same shareholders for taxation in the year earned and was not again taxable upon actual distribution; operating deficits were allocable to shareholders in the year incurred. Nondividend distributions are included in distributions to stockholders in cash and assets other than in the company's own stock in the summary tables for all active corporation returns and for small business corporation returns. The amounts were used as reported.

Nontaxable returns were defined as returns which showed no corporation income tax liability. They did not include returns without net income of small business corporations since these companies are taxed through shareholders and are not subject to the corporation income tax. The tax liability used in determining taxable and nontaxable returns was before foreign tax credit. No provision was made for returns which became nontaxable as a result of the foreign tax credit.

Most nontaxable returns were returns without net income. But returns with net income could become nontaxable if the net operating loss or other statutory special deductions from net income, either equaled net income or exceeded net income. Returns with net income of regulated investment companies could become nontaxable if these companies chose to distribute their entire taxable income to shareholders for taxation.

However, not all returns without net income were nontaxable. There were a few returns of insurance companies and mutual savings banks with separate life insurance departments which showed no net income, but which became taxable in these instances based on special provisions of the law affecting insurance businesses. Because of their rarity, no attempt was made to classify taxable returns without net income by size of deficit, or, with the exception of table 14, to separate them from other returns without net income except by footnote. Therefore, total nontaxable returns in table 13 would be slightly overstated if total returns without net income were included. Taxable returns without net income are discussed under Income subject to tax and are shown in text table N and in table 14.

Notes and accounts receivable were, in general, the gross amounts of current trade items, that is, items arising from sales or services to customers on credit during the ordinary course of trade or business, which were convertible to another form, such as cash, usually within a year. Nontrade receivables were generally included in Other current assets. Railroad company short-term loans and bills receivable, included in Notes and accounts receivable for 1959-60, were treated as Other current assets for 1960-61.

The reserve for bad debts shown as an adjustment to Notes and accounts receivable includes the reserves for the separate account, Mortgages and real estate loans. As a result, it was possible for the reserve to exceed the amount of Notes and accounts receivable.

Number of returns excludes returns of inactive corporations except in tables D and 44 where inactive corporation returns are included in the total number and are also shown separately. (See Inactive corporation returns.) The number of Form 1120-S returns filed by small business corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders is included in each total and is also shown separately in each appropriate table. The few returns of unincorporated businesses for which elections were made to be taxed as corporations under Code section 1361 were excluded from all tables. For a more comprehensive statement on the returns included in this report, see Population of corporations for the period covered, on pages 11 and 12.

Number of shareholders of small business corporations for which an election was made to be taxed through shareholders, according to law, could not exceed ten. All shareholders were individuals (or estates), and none could be nonresident aliens. Each had to consent to the election, and each new shareholder during the year had to signify consent so that the election could be continued. If stock was held jointly, each owner was ordinarily regarded as a separate shareholder. But stock which was community property of a husband and wife, or which was held jointly by them, was regarded as owned by one shareholder for purposes of qualifying for the election by the corporation to be taxed through shareholders. Even if the husband or wife owned stock individually and both also were joint owners of stock, the law prescribed that they be counted only once with respect to all of their stock. But if each of them owned stock separately and also owned stock jointly, they continued to be regarded as two shareholders, unless the stock was community property.

Although the husband and wife were thus generally considered as one shareholder, each had to consent to the election by the corporation and each had to include in his gross income his share of the distributed and undistributed net income of the company. Actual distributions of net income were made to all shareholders who were owners during the year. A net operating loss for the year was allocated in a similar manner. However, amounts of net income deemed, but not actually distributed, were allocated only among end-of-year shareholders.

Number of shareholders as shown in the statistics is based on the number of shareholder names listed in the schedule of income and distributions (Schedule K). If the holding period of stock ended on the last day of the corporation's tax year, the shareholder was counted among the Number of shareholders, end-of-tax year. If the end of the holding period of stock preceded the end of the corporation's tax year, the shareholder was counted among the Number of other shareholders during the year.

With regard to the enumerating of husband and wife shareholders, a general rule was applied whereby both were counted as one shareholder. In order to facilitate statistical processing, no allowance was made for the one situation in which both husband and wife owned stock individually as well as jointly and should have been counted as two separate shareholders.

Other assets, in general, comprised assets regarded as noncurrent which were not allocable to specific accounts, as well as certain accounts for which no distinction could be made between current and noncurrent status. Noncurrent means that the accounts probably will be held for more than a year before being converted to another form. Included are such assets as sinking or other funds, deferred charges regarded as noncurrent by the taxpayer, construction contracts, interest discounts, guaranty and other deposits, and intangible assets not subject to amortization. Other assets of banks included property held in trust if included in the banks' assets, while other assets of life insurance companies included market value of real estate, and bonds and stocks in excess of book value.

Other current assets, including short-term marketable investments, comprised current assets not allocable to a specific current account. In general, current means convertible to another form, such as cash, within a year. Identifiable amounts of nontrade receivables which until 1959-60 were included with trade accounts in Notes and accounts receivable, were for the most part included in Other current assets. Included in nontrade receivables were items not arising during the ordinary course of trade or business, such as prepaid items and deferred charges, capital stock subscriptions, and loans to officers and employees. Loans to stockholders, a nontrade receivable formerly included in this account, is shown separately in this report and is regarded as a noncurrent or long-term account. Other current assets for 1960-61 includes identifiable amounts of railroad company short-term loans and bills receivable. These were treated as Notes and accounts receivable for 1959-60.

Other current liabilities included for the most part certain amounts due and payable within the coming year. The account comprised accrued expenses, as well as current payables not arising from the purchase of goods and services and not evidenced by bonds, notes, or mortgages. Examples of Other current liabilities were taxes accrued or payable, accrued employee accounts such as for payrolls and contributions to benefit plans, dividends payable, overdrafts, and accrued interest or rent.

Added to the 1960-61 statistics for Other current liabilities were identifiable amounts of railroad company short-term loans and bills payable. These liabilities were included in Accounts payable for 1959-60.

Other deductions included administrative, general, and office expenses; salaries and wages, but only the amount so specified on the line appearing on the tax returns and not those salary and wage payments deducted as part of cost of sales and operations or in other specified deductions; bonuses and commissions; delivery charges; freight and shipping expenses; payments in connection with lawsuits; sales discount; selling costs; travel and entertainment expenses; unrealized profits on current-year installment sales; negative amounts reported under income; and Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation assessments reported by banks. Also included were business expenses not itemized on life insurance company returns, as well as reserve and other deductions unique to these companies. In addition, small amounts deducted for bad debts, rents, taxes, interest, amortization, and depletion which could not be separately identified on tax returns of corporations with accounting periods ended July through November 1960, were allocated to Other deductions.

Added to Other deductions were losses by abandonment, fire, storm, or other casualty, or by theft. Casualty and theft losses excluded any losses on capital assets and on real and depreciable property if such assets were held for more than six months and if any compensation from insurance was received for such losses. Losses incurred on insured property were aggregated with income and losses from the sale or exchange of real and depreciable property held for more than six months, and with gains from the involuntary conversion of such property and of capital assets used in the production of income and held for more than six months. Net losses resulting from this aggregating were included in Net losses from sales other than capital assets which are described above.

The amount included in the statistics for Other deductions representing losses by fire, storm, other casualty, and theft is summarized in table O. Also shown in this table is the amount of salaries and wages included in Other deductions. The salary and wage deduction is discussed further under its own heading and is shown in more detail in table 28.

Other gross capital assets as shown in table 5, consists of the gross amounts of the three end-of-year balance sheet accounts, Depletable and Intangible assets, and Land. Depreciable assets, the other capital asset account on the balance sheet, is shown separately. These capital assets should not be confused with the capital assets defined for tax purposes in section 1221 of the Code and described above in the explanation of Net capital gains.

Other interest consisted of amounts received on loans, notes, mortgages, bonds, bank deposits, and corporate bonds less amortizable bond premium. Corporate bonds included bonds, debentures, notes, certificates of indebtedness, or other evidences of indebtedness issued by a corporation and bearing interest, with interest coupons, or in registered form.

Other investments were, in general, long-term nongovernment investments and investments which could not be classified at all. Nongovernment investments generally not held for conversion to another form within the coming year included certain stocks, bonds, loans on notes or bonds, loans to subsidiaries, and other types of financial securities. Real estate not reported as a capital asset could also be included.

In certain instances, land and buildings owned by real estate operators (except lessors of real property other than buildings), and real holdings of insurance carriers, other than their home office and branch office buildings and equipment, were reported as Other investments.

Also included in Other investments were amounts reported as inventories on nonconsolidated returns of investment and holding companies (other than operating holding companies), security and commodity brokers, dealers, and exchanges, and real estate subdividers, developers, and operative builders.

In the historical tables, Other investments also include mortgage and real estate loans of other than bank and trust companies, and beginning 1960-61, loans to stockholders.

Other liabilities were either noncurrent accounts in general not convertible to another form within a year, and not evidenced by bonds, notes, and mortgages, or other accounts which could not be identified as current or long term. Other liabilities of life insurance companies included policy reserves and borrowed money, while other liabilities of banks included bank notes in circulation.

Additional examples of other liabilities were provisions for future taxes based on the effects of either accelerated depreciation, or possible income tax adjustments, principal of employee and other funds, deferred or unearned income, and borrowed securities.

For 1959-60, this account included identifiable amounts of loans from stockholders and surplus reserves of mutual insurance companies filing Form 1120M. For 1960-61, these loans are shown separately and the reserves are included in Surplus reserves.

Other noncategorized deductions consisted of those amounts included in the statistics for Other deductions for which no separate detail was prepared. Selected components of Other deductions are presented in table O and table 28 only. Other deductions are described above.

Other receipts included amounts not elsewhere reported on the return such as: profits from sales of commodities other than the principal commodity in which the corporation dealt; income from minor operations; bad debts recovered; cash discounts; income from claims, license rights, judgments, and joint ventures; net amount under operating agreements; profit from commissaries; profit on prior years' collections (installment basis); profit on purchase of corporation's own bonds; recoveries of bonds, stocks, and other securities; refunds for cancellation of contracts, insurance management expenses, and processing taxes; and income from sales of scrap, salvage, or waste. Also regarded as Other receipts were dividends received from special classes of corporations comprising those known as China Trade Act corporations, corporations deriving a large percent of their gross income from sources within a United States possession, and charitable, educational, religious, scientific, and literary organizations and mutual and cooperative societies including farmers' cooperatives, each designated tax-exempt. In addition, where rents could not be separated from royalties on returns with accounting periods ended July through November 1960, the combined amounts were allocated to Other receipts.

Overpayments of income tax were derived amounts and not the amounts reported on the line on the tax return. The amounts shown were obtained from those returns on which the sum of payments on declarations of estimated tax, payments with requests for extension of time in which to file, and any other payments unidentified on the tax return as to type, exceeded the income tax liability after foreign tax credit. The amounts therefore represent the excess of payments over income tax after foreign tax credit.

At the election of the corporation, overpayments could be refunded or credited against income tax for 1961-62. The amounts shown do not represent the final overpayments for 1960-61. Final overpayments would take into account the results of audit, the carryback of net operating losses incurred in future years, or the carryback of certain foreign taxes paid or accrued in future years used to increase the current-year foreign tax credit.

Ownership of corporate stock is discussed on page 5.

Paid-in or capital surplus for additions to capital from other than earnings, is a net figure after deduction of any deficit amounts reported. Includible were surpluses by donation, appreciation of assets, premiums on capital stock, sales of stock in excess of stated value, stock redemptions or conversions, and other.

Part year returns were those with accounting periods of less than 12 months resulting from newly organized businesses, liquidations, reorganizations, mergers, and changes to new annual accounting periods. Part-year returns used in preparing this volume were those with accounting periods ended in the months July 1960 through June 1961.

Partially tax-exempt interest is discussed under Interest on Government obligations. See also, Income subject to tax.

Payments on declaration of estimated tax were required of a corporation if its estimated income tax liability could reasonably be expected to exceed $100,000 plus any overpayment credit from previous years, any estimated foreign tax credit for the current tax year, any estimated credit for tax withheld by regulated investment companies on retained capital gains deemed distributed for taxation, plus any other payment credits. The amounts shown in the statistics are the sum of estimated taxpayments plus any credits claimed for taxes previously paid, such as for overpayments in previous years or for taxes withheld at source.

Fifty percent of the estimated tax was payable either (a) in full with the declaration on the fifteenth day of the ninth month of the corporation's tax year, or (b) in two equal installments due on the fifteenth days of the ninth and twelfth months of the corporation's tax year. If a corporation did not meet the requirements for filing a declaration of estimated tax in time for payment during the ninth month, the entire amount of estimated tax was combined into a single payment during the twelfth month. If the requirements for filing were not met in time for the twelfth month payment, no declaration or payment of estimated tax was required for the year. An amended declaration could be filed under certain conditions showing either more or less estimated tax and payments on the declaration could be adjusted accordingly. In any case, the balance of tax was payable either in full at time of filing the tax return, or in two equal installments, one due at time of filing, and the other within three months thereafter.

Payments with request for extension of time in which to file income tax returns are shown in the taxpayment statistics in table 16. Payment of the income tax was required on or before the regular due date even though a corporation was granted an extension of time in which to file its return. The tax was due within two and one-half months after the end of the accounting period, except that half of the taxpayment could be deferred for three months under an installment privilege. When an extension of time in which to file a return was requested, at least half of the unpaid balance of the tax liability tentatively determined was due with the application. If the installment privilege was not used, the entire unpaid tentative tax was due. (Payments on declarations of estimated tax and any other payment credits were subtracted from the tentative liability in determining the unpaid balance.) If the tax liability as finally determined exceeded the tentative amount shown on the request for extension of filing time, the additional tax was subject to 6 percent interest beginning with the original due date two and one-half months after the close of the accounting period.

Corporations providing reasons for delay were granted an automatic extension of three months in which to file returns. Under certain conditions, a second extension of three months could be granted.

In some instances, the tax return showed only a combined total for payments with request for extension of time in which to file and payments on declaration of estimated tax so that the amounts shown in the statistics for payments with request for extension of time in which to file are slightly understated.

Prior-year net income or deficit statistics are discussed on pages 8-9.

Regular tax was the income tax liability computed, as a rule, at the normal tax and surtax rates. Normal tax was 30 percent of taxable income as defined by the Code. Surtax was 22 percent of taxable income (plus partially tax-exempt interest) in excess of $25,000.

All taxable returns other than those on which alternative tax was elected were regarded as returns with regular tax. Therefore, estimates of regular tax also include amounts of tax on the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss computed at the 25 percent rate under nonelective provisions of the Code applicable to life insurance and regulated investment companies. Regular tax also included amounts taxed under special provisions of the Code applicable to taxable mutual insurance companies other than life or marine and other than mutual fire insurance companies issuing perpetual policies. This tax was, in general, 1 percent of the gross income base and was imposed if the tax so computed was greater than the regular or alternative tax on the net investment income base. Also included in the statistics for regular tax was the 2 percent additional tax reported on consolidated returns with regular tax.

Rent paid on business property was deductible as an ordinary and necessary expense. Identifiable amounts of taxes and other expenses paid by lessees in connection with rent paid were included in their respective deduction headings.

On returns with accounting periods ended July through November 1960, small amounts of rents paid on business property were sometimes reported in combination with the bad debts deduction. When such combinations could not be separately identified from supporting schedules, the total was allocated to Other deductions.

Rents received from use or occupancy of property consisted of the gross amounts. Depreciation, repairs, interest, taxes, and other expenses, which were deductible from gross rents, were included in the respective deduction items. However, certain rents were included in Business receipts as described above. Also, if rents were not separated from royalties on the tax return form, the combined amount was allocated to Other receipts.

Repairs reported as an ordinary and necessary business expense were the costs of maintenance and incidental repairs and could include the cost of labor, supplies, and other items, which did not add to the value or appreciably prolong the life of the property. Expenditures for new buildings, machinery or equipment, or for permanent improvements which increased the value of the property were not deductible currently and were charged to capital expenditures, which were generally depreciable.

Resident foreign corporations filing on Form 1120-F, new for 1960-61, are discussed on pages 5-6. See also, Income subject to tax.

Returns with foreign tax credit were those returns of domestic corporations which showed a tax credit for taxes paid or accrued to foreign countries or United States possessions regardless of whether or not Form 1118 was filed with the return in support of the credit claimed. Taxable income from foreign sources (including U. S. possessions) was the net income after allowable deductions. The totals shown are after reduction by net losses. See also, Dividends received and Foreign tax credit.

Returns with net income were returns showing gross taxable receipts exceeding the ordinary and necessary business deductions allowed by the Internal Revenue Code. See Net income above. Returns without net income were returns for which business deductions exceeded gross taxable receipts. Returns with a breakeven between income and deductions were included with returns without net income.

Returns with net income were not necessarily taxable returns. Some returns with net income showed no income tax liability because net income was prior to the additional adjustments for any net operating loss and other statutory special deductions. Since small business corporations filing Form 1120-S were not allowed these statutory special deductions from net income, a return with net income for these corporations was equivalent to a taxable return.

Returns without net income were returns for which the ordinary and necessary business deductions recognized for tax purposes exceeded or equaled gross taxable receipts. Almost all returns without net income were nontaxable. However, because of special provisions affecting life and mutual insurance companies and mutual savings banks having separate life insurance departments, a few returns without net income were taxable. Except for table 14, the income subject to tax and tax found on these taxable returns without net income were added to the statistics for returns with net income throughout this report.

Royalties consisted of gross amounts received for the use of property and the exhaustion of the value of property. Included were earnings from such items as copyrights, patents, trademarks, and natural resources under lease such as timber, mineral mines, and oil wells. Expenses relating to this income, depletion or taxes for example, were not deducted from the income, but were reported among the deductions from total receipts.

Small amounts of royalties were sometimes reported in combination with rents on returns with accounting periods ended July through November 1960. When such combinations could not be separately identified from supporting schedules, the total was allocated to Other receipts.

Salaries and wages not included in cost of sales and operations or in other specific deductions on the return form was the largest single component of the statistics for Other deductions. These statistics do not represent the total amount of employee compensation. Such a total would have to include relatively large amounts of salaries and wages deducted in cost of sales and operations. Although compensation of officers was specifically called for on the tax return form, many corporations did not identify this compensation apart from other salaries and wages paid. Employee compensation undoubtedly was included in certain other specified deductions, such as repairs and advertising, where the component part attributable to salaries and wages paid was not identified.

Shareholders' undistributed taxable income was a special capital account on the return form balance sheet of small business corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders. It consisted of retained net income accumulated during years, including the current year, of operation under the 1958 Act, which was deemed distributed and taxed to shareholders in the year earned. The amounts contained in this special account were reduced by operating losses for any year; such losses were allocable to shareholders. Distributions of previously taxed income (reduced by deficits) could be made at any time to shareholders as nondividend distributions.

In the summary tables for all returns including small business corporation returns, the two capital accounts, Shareholders' undistributed taxable income and Earned surplus and undivided profits accumulated, were combined in the statistics for Earned surplus and undivided profits.

Size of income taxed at normal tax and surtax rates was used to classify income-subject-to-tax data on returns for which the regular tax was applicable; on returns for which the alternative tax computation was elected; on life insurance and regulated investment company returns which had an excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss, subject to the nonelective tax rate of 25 percent; and, on returns of mutual insurance companies (except life or marine, and except mutual fire insurance companies issuing perpetual policies), but only if these insurance companies were subject to the regular normal tax and surtax, or alternative tax. This size classification was not applicable in those instances where the mutual insurance company was taxed on gross income at the special rates. See also, Income subject to tax.

Size of business receipts, for all industrial divisions except Finance, insurance, and real estate, was based on the gross amounts from sales and operations. For the finance division in which investment income is a large component, total compiled receipts, which is the sum of business receipts and investment income, was used as the basis for the classification. Within the finance division, mutual insurance company returns (Form 1120M) occasionally showed no total compiled receipts, but yet showed income subject to tax and income tax. See Total compiled receipts.

Size of net income or deficit classification of corporation income tax returns was based on the difference between gross taxable receipts and the ordinary and necessary business deductions allowed for tax purposes. The classification by size of net income is not equivalent to a distribution by size of taxable income, because net income is before the net operating loss and other special nonbusiness deductions. Not all returns with net income are taxable for this reason. Also, not all returns without net income are nontaxable because of the special provisions of the Code affecting insurance companies and mutual savings banks with life insurance departments.

Size of total assets was based on the amount reported on the end-of-year balance sheet. Returns with zero assets were used as a classification for returns of (1) liquidating or dissolving corporations which had disposed of all assets and liabilities and whose income tax returns were final returns, (2) merging corporations whose assets and liabilities were included in the returns of the acquiring corporations, and (3) foreign corporations doing business in the United States (except foreign insurance companies providing balance sheet information for United States branches). See also, Assets greater than zero, Assets zero or not reported, and Total assets and total liabilities.

Small business corporation returns, Form 1120-S, were information returns of income filed by corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders under section 1372, added to the Code by the Technical Amendments Act of 1958.

To qualify as a small business corporation, a firm had to be a domestic corporation with no more than ten shareholders, each of which was an individual (or an estate) and no one of which was a non-resident alien. The corporation could have only one class of stock and could not be a member of an affiliated group eligible to file a consolidated return. Also, it could not receive more than 20 percent of its gross receipts from personal holding company income (rents, royalties, interest, annuities, and gains from sales or exchanges of stock and securities), and could not receive more than 80 percent of its gross receipts from sources outside the United States.

Net income of small business corporations, whether or not distributed, was taxed directly through each shareholder. It was computed in the same manner as for most corporations. However, the net operating loss deduction and the additional statutory special deductions allowed corporations, such as those for partially tax-exempt interest and dividends received, could not be taken. No foreign tax credit was available to the corporation.

Generally, the income of the small business corporation was taxable to its shareholders as ordinary income. But net long-term capital gain retained its character in the hands of the shareholders. Shareholders were allowed to deduct their share of the corporate net operating loss from other forms of individual (or fiduciary) income. Undistributed income earned in previous years was taxable to shareholders in the year it was earned, and could be distributed during the current year without any further tax.

Specified current assets, except investments as shown in the historical tables consisted of Cash; Notes and accounts receivable less reserve for bad debts; Inventories; and for banks and trust companies, Mortgage and real estate loans. For 1954-55 through 1958-59, Specified current assets also included Prepaid expenses and supplies, an account that was encompassed in Other current assets for 1959-60 and the more inclusive Other current assets account was substituted in Specified current assets beginning with 1959-60. (Included in the Other current assets account were short-term marketable securities, not previously considered as part of Specified current assets.) Therefore, for 1960-61 and 1959-60, Specified current assets actually included all of the current accounts identified on the tax return balance sheet except certain investments. Previously, the total amount of current assets could not be obtained from the tax return, hence the designation in the historical tables.

Specified current liabilities for 1951-52 through 1953-54 as shown in the historical tables consisted of Accounts payable and Bonds, notes, and mortgages payable with original maturity of less than one year. Beginning with 1955-56, it consisted of Accounts payable and Bonds, notes, and mortgages payable with maturity less than one year from date of balance sheet. The definition of Bonds, notes, and mortgages payable was revised during 1954-55 so that the statistics for this one period comprised data reported under both the old and new definitions. Beginning with 1957-58, Specified current liabilities also included Deposits and withdrawable shares. For 1954-55 through 1958-59, the statistics included Accrued expenses. This account was encompassed in Other current liabilities for 1959-60 and 1960-61, and the more inclusive Other current liabilities account was substituted in Specified current liabilities for 1959-60 and 1960-61. Therefore, beginning with 1959-60, Specified current liabilities included all of the current accounts on the balance sheet. Previously, the total amount of current liabilities could not be obtained from the tax return, hence the designation in the historical tables.

Statutory special deductions from net income in arriving at income subject to tax were the sum of the net operating loss carryforward (Code sections 172 and 812), the dividends received deduction (Code sections 243-246 and 809), the deduction for dividends paid on certain preferred stock of public utilities (Code section 247), and the Western Hemisphere trade corporation deduction (Code section 922).

Although partially tax-exempt interest was described as a special deduction under Code section 242, and was deducted in computing income subject to normal tax, such interest, for this report, was used in income subject to tax because it was subject to the 22 percent surtax. Also excluded from statutory special deductions were certain deductions of limited applicability such as for dividends paid by regulated investment companies and for those unique to life insurance companies. Also excluded is the deduction resulting from the carryback of net operating losses occurring after 1960-61.

The two dividend deductions were available to corporations even though the corporations had no net income for the current year. In such cases, the deductions became part of the current-year "net operating loss." Also, these deductions could serve to wipe out any net income, reducing income subject to tax to zero. As a result, the statistics for statutory special deductions include amounts used by certain corporations in arriving at income subject to tax, as well as amounts used by corporations whose income subject to tax was zero.

The amount presented as statutory special deductions is subject to certain limitations inherent in the nature of the deductions. Thus, if a deduction could not be used in arriving at income subject to tax, the corporation may have omitted it, and as a result, understated the actual amount allowable. For example, where there was no net income to reduce, a special deduction for the dividends received and included in total receipts may not have been reported. On the other hand, where both a net operating loss deduction and a dividends received deduction were available, the corporation may have failed to limit properly the net operating loss deduction in offsetting net income, resulting in an overstatement of total statutory special deductions.

Surplus reserves were those retained earnings set aside for specific purposes and not available for distribution to stockholders. Included were guaranty funds and reserves such as those for plant expansion, bond retirements, and contingencies for extraordinary losses. Specifically excluded were the reserves for bad debts, depreciation, depletion, and amortization, which were shown separately, and reserves for taxes, and unrealized profits or unearned income, which were included in Other liabilities or Other current liabilities.

Also included were mutual insurance company (Form 1120M) surplus reserves. For 1959-60, these reserves were included in Other liabilities.

Surplus and undivided profits in table 4 consists of Surplus reserves, Paid-in or capital surplus, and Earned surplus and undivided profits.

Taxable returns were defined as showing income tax before foreign tax credit. The number after credit was not tabulated. Returns of small business corporations which elected to be taxed through shareholders were excluded. Most taxable returns showed net income, but many net income returns became nontaxable if income was offset by statutory special deductions, or if income of regulated investment companies was distributed to stockholders for taxation. A few taxable returns filed for insurance businesses showed no net income and though identified in tables N and 14, are excluded from taxable returns in table 13. Except for table 14, income subject to tax and tax on these returns were added to the statistics for net income returns.

Taxes paid included the amounts reported as an ordinary and necessary business deduction as well as identifiable amounts reported as part of the cost of sales and operations. Deductible were ordinary State and local taxes paid or accrued during the year; social security and payroll taxes; unemployment insurance taxes; import and tariff duties; and, business, license, and privilege taxes. Excise and stamp taxes were deductible, but when included in Business receipts or in Cost of sales and operations, these taxes often could not be identified. Income and profits taxes paid to foreign countries or United States possessions were also deductible unless claimed as a credit against income tax.

Not deductible were such taxes as Federal income and excess profits taxes, gift taxes, taxes assessed against local benefits, and Federal taxes paid on interest from tax-free covenant bonds.

On returns with accounting periods ended July through November 1960, small amounts of taxes paid were sometimes reported in combination with interest paid. When such combinations could not be separately identified from supporting schedules, the total was allocated to Other deductions.

Total assets and total liabilities were those reported in the end-of-year balance sheet in the corporations' books of account. Total assets were net after reduction by accumulated depreciation, amortization, and depletion, and by the reserve for bad debts. When these reserves were reported as liabilities, they were treated as reductions from the asset accounts to which they related and the totals of assets and liabilities were adjusted accordingly.

Asset and liability estimates for the few returns of corporations which failed to provide balance sheet information were based on schedules in the tax return other than the balance sheet, for example, the schedules for depreciation, bad debts, and cost of goods sold; from reference books; and, from relationships between income statement and balance sheet items on similar returns which had both statements and which were classified in the same industrial group.

Asset and liability estimates for the returns of corporations which failed to provide balance sheet information were not made before 1959-60. Therefore, historical statistics for total assets and total liabilities are not completely comparable with the amounts shown for 1960-61 and 1959-60. See also, Assets greater than zero, Assets zero or not reported, and Zero assets.

Because Forms 1120L and 1120M used by life and certain mutual insurance companies did not provide for the complete reporting of balance sheet information, asset and liability data for these companies were obtained from balance sheets filed with the returns (or from reference books) in the form required by State law. These sources were also used for any other insurance companies, not filing returns on Forms 1120L or 1120M, which filed balance sheets in the form required by State law in lieu of the income tax return schedule.

Total compiled deductions included the ordinary and necessary business deductions from gross income, as well as cost of sales and operations, and net loss from sales other than capital assets. (For mutual insurance companies other than life or marine and other than fire insurance companies issuing perpetual policies, total compiled deductions, reflecting the statutory reporting requirements, were limited to investment expenses and net loss from sales other than capital assets.) These deductions were applied against Total compiled receipts in arriving at Net profit or loss as shown in this report. Components of Total compiled deductions are shown in the income statement, table 2.

Total compiled receipts included the gross taxable receipts before deduction of cost of sales and operations and net losses from sales of property other than capital assets. It also included nontaxable interest, but excluded all other nontaxable income recognized by the corporation. The income statement in table 2 shows the components of total compiled receipts.

Beginning with 1958-59, life insurance company underwriting income was included with investment income in total compiled receipts, reflecting the revised statutory reporting requirement, and capital gains became part of life insurance company investment income beginning with 1959-60. The items of investment income included in life insurance company total compiled receipts prior to 1958-59 may be found in the Synopsis of Laws section of this report.

Total compiled receipts for mutual insurance companies (other than life or marine, and other than fire insurance companies issuing perpetual policies) consisted of gross investment income and did not include underwriting income. By law, these mutual companies reported only items of investment income and expense in their income statements. But, in those instances where income tax was imposed on gross income as described under Income subject to tax, underwriting income was reported, but only for purposes of the tax computation. Occasionally, gross income consisted only of underwriting income and there was no investment income. In this situation, it became possible for some returns to show no total compiled receipts, but yet show income subject to tax and income tax.

Undistributed net income of small business corporations for which an election was made to be taxed at the shareholder level is discussed under the heading, Net income or deficit.

Western Hemisphere trade corporation deduction, included in the statistics for Statutory special deductions, was allowed certain domestic corporations under Code section 922. Before the deduction could be taken, conditions for qualifying as a Western Hemisphere trade corporation had to be met over a three-year period, including the year of the deduction. These conditions are described below in connection with the explanation of Western Hemisphere trade corporation returns.

The Western Hemisphere trade corporation deduction was equal to 26.923 percent of taxable income (net income minus partially tax-exempt interest, and the statutory special deductions for net operating losses, and dividends received and paid). This deduction could not be taken if the corporation had a deficit for the year or if net income minus the dividends received and paid deductions resulted in a net operating loss.

Western Hemisphere trade corporation returns were returns filed by domestic corporations (1) all of whose business (except incidental purchases) was done in North, Central, or South America, or in the West Indies including Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, (2) 95 percent or more of whose gross income for the three-year period ending with the close of the income year (or for which part of the period as the corporation was in existence) was derived from sources outside the United States, and (3) 90 percent or more of whose gross income for such period was derived from active conduct of trade or business. These companies were granted a tax concession equal in effect to about a 27 percent reduction of taxable income. (See the description of the Western Hemisphere trade corporation deduction.)

Income and tax statistics shown for Western Hemisphere trade corporations reflected operations other than Western Hemisphere trade activity since aggregate data from 58 predominantly large consolidated returns of affiliated corporations were included. Data from a consolidated return were included if any member of the affiliated group qualified as a Western Hemisphere trade corporation, although in many cases the consolidated return reflected only a small amount of Western Hemisphere trade corporation experience. When included in an affiliated group of companies filing a consolidated return, the income of the Western Hemisphere trade corporation was exempt from the 2 percent additional tax imposed on corporations filing consolidated returns.

The number of Western Hemisphere trade corporation returns is probably understated because in most instances the only means of identifying them was by the presence of the 27 percent special deduction. The understatement is probably concentrated among returns without net income where there was no taxable income to reduce by means of the deduction and consequently no deduction was shown. But the deduction may have also been omitted on certain returns with net income where a net operating loss carry-forward, or in some instances a special deduction for dividends received, or both, completely offset the taxable income before Western Hemisphere trade corporation deduction. Also, a consolidated return with net income may not have shown a Western Hemisphere trade corporation deduction if the Western Hemisphere trade corporation member of the affiliated group had a deficit for the year. An understatement in the number of Western Hemisphere trade corporations could also result from the fact that several members of an affiliated group filing a consolidated return may have been Western Hemisphere trade corporations, but since they were represented by a single tax return, they were counted only once.

Year of incorporation reported on the Form 1120-S return form by small business corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders was the year the firm incorporated and not necessarily the year business began. Some incorporations represented corporate reorganizations or changes in legal form by a previously existing business. Differences between the number of Form 1120-S returns classified by each year of incorporation prior to 1960 and similar data in Statistics of Income for 1959-60 may be attributable to (1) an increase in the number of older corporations electing to be taxed under provisions of Code section 1372 for the first time, (2) liquidations, mergers, or changes in active or inactive status, (3) terminations or revocations of elections to be taxed as small business corporations, and (4) corporations reporting the year of incorporation on the return for one year, but not on the return for the other year. (See the instructions to the Form 1120-S return reproduced at the end of this report for a description of the conditions for termination or revocation of an election.)

Zero assets, as a category used in classifying returns by size of total assets, was introduced with the statistics for 1959-60. Returns in this category were (1) final returns of liquidating or dissolving corporations which had disposed of all assets and liabilities, (2) final returns of merging corporations whose assets and liabilities were reported in the returns of the acquiring corporations, and (3) returns of resident foreign corporations (corporations incorporated abroad but conducting business in the United States) other than foreign insurance company returns with balance sheet information for United States branches. See also, Assets zero or not reported.

¹Includes data from returns not allocable to an industrial division. Computations for the Finance, Insurance, and real estate divisions are based on total compiled receipts rather than business receipts.

²Includes returns with zero business receipts and large returns processed in thousands of dollars with either business receipts or net income of less than $500.

Not shown separately because of high sampling variability. However, the data are included in the totals.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data."

Amounts reported on 184 returns without net income are included in the totals but not in the detail. Income subject to tax on these returns was $6,020,000 and income tax was $343,000. Tax on returns without net income occurs because of special provisions applicable to insurance businesses under sections 802(a), 803(a)(2), and 594 of the Internal Revenue Code. See Income Subject to Tax on pp. 25-27. Other items for these returns were included in columns (10) through (12).

Not shown separately because of high sampling variability. However, the data are included in the totals.

¹Amounts reported on 184 returns without net income are included in the totals but not in the detail. Income subject to tax on these returns included $679,000 of long-term capital gain and $5,341,000 of other income subject to tax. Income tax was $393,000. Tax on returns without net income occurs because of special provisions applicable to insurance businesses under sections 802(a), 821(a)(2), and 594 of the Internal Revenue Code. See Income Subject to Tax on pp. 25-27. Other items for these returns were included in columns (22) through (25).

¹Deficit.²Amounts from a few life insurance company returns with no income tax shown but with small amounts of net long-term capital gain or subtractions from policyholders' surplus accounts are included in these statistics.³Not shown separately because of high sampling variability. However, the data are included in totals.⁴Less than $500 per return.⁵Includes Form 1120 returns determined as having been filed by resident foreign corporations.⁶Not shown separately because of high sampling variability. However, the data are included in totals. Tax with no income subject to tax shown results from the exclusion from income subject to tax of small amounts of undistributed regulated investment company long-term capital gain.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data." Income subject to tax is explained on pp. 25-27.

¹Includes amounts reported on three life insurance companies returns without net income under section 802 of the Internal Revenue Code. Income subject to tax on these returns included $170,000 of net long-term capital gain and $95,000 of other taxable income. Income tax on these returns was $70,000. See Income Subject to Tax, pp. 25-27. Other items for these returns were included in columns 9 through 11.

²Not shown separately because of high sampling variability. However, the data are included in the totals.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data."

¹Includes returns with zero assets.²Not shown separately because of high sampling variability. However, the data are included in the totals.³This office receives returns of domestic corporations with foreign addresses and returns of resident foreign corporations.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data." Weights used in statistics classified by internal revenue district are described on pp. 12-17, totals based on these weights may differ slightly from those based on national weights.

¹Includes amounts reported on certain returns without net income classified in the Finance, insurance, and real estate division. Total income subject to tax on such returns was $6,020,000 and total income tax $393,000. Tax on returns without net income occurs because of special provisions applicable to insurance businesses under sections 802(a), 821(a)(2), and 594 of Internal Revenue Code. See Income Subject to Tax, pp 25-27. Other items for these returns were included in table 7.

³Not shown separately because of high sampling variability. However, the data are included in the totals.

NOTE: See text for explanatory statements and for "Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data."

HISTORICAL TABLES, CORPORATION INCOME TAX RETURNS 1951-52 THROUGH 1960-61

Statistics on corporation income and tax first became available when an excise tax, based on corporation income, was imposed by the Tariff Act of 1909. A so-called direct tax on income was imposed in 1913 following adoption of the Sixteenth Amendment to the Constitution. Three years later the Revenue Act of 1916 directed that statistics concerning the operation of the income tax laws be published annually. This provision has been retained through each succeeding change in the revenue law.

From 1909 through 1915, some corporation statistics were published in the Annual Report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. The first volume of Statistics of Income was published for 1916-17. It contained only five items for corporations, which were distributed geographically and by type of industry. Information for 1909-10 through 1949-50 is summarized in the Statistics of Income for 1949, Part 2. Although the time period measured by Statistics of Income has always been the same as that depicted in chart 1 on page 3, there has been a gradual increase over the years in noncalendar year reporting by corporations. Thus the statistics for 1925-26 for example show that all but about 4 percent of the returns were filed for calendar year accounting periods. But for 1960-61, less than 50 percent of the returns were filed for calendar year accounting periods. It is interesting to note though that the calendar year returns accounted for about three-fourths of the combined net income less deficit and income tax reported for 1960-61.

The historical information in tables 44 through 49 were selected from tables published in Statistics of Income for 1951-52 through 1960-61. Statistics shown in the historical tables are, in general, comparable from year to year. But for 1951-52 through 1958-59, balance sheet items are from returns with assets greater than zero. Beginning with 1959-60, asset and liability estimates are included in the statistics for the few returns of corporations which failed to supply balance sheet information. All items in the tables are described in the Explanation of Terms section of this report. All amounts are in current dollars.

SOURCE BOOK OF STATISTICS OF INCOME

Worksheets showing corporation income tax return data in more detail than are published in Statistics of Income are gathered each year into a Source Book of Statistics of Income. On these worksheets, the assets, liabilities, receipts, deductions, net income, income tax liability, and distributions to stockholders as shown in table 2 of this report are presented by size of total assets for more than 200 industrial groups. In addition to the more detailed classifications of the data regularly published, the Source Book contains unpublished information on various special subjects some of which are noted below.

The use of the Source Book, for research purposes, may be requested by writing to the Director, Statistics Division, Internal Revenue Service, Washington 25, D. C. After securing permission, the user or his representative may copy the data at the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service in Washington, D. C. Occasionally, however, analysts who need an unusually large volume of data may arrange to borrow, for a short time, microfilm of the Source Book. The microfilm covers only the basic Source Book of industry data as described below. A request to use the Source Book microfilm should specify the desired items, industrial groups, total asset size classes, and years.

Basic Source Book

A sample sheet from the 1960-61 Source Book is reproduced on page 317. For 1960-61, there are similar sheets for each of the 271 industrial groupings shown in table 1 of this report. One set of Source Book sheets provides statistics for the total number of returns for an industry group and another set provides information on the number of these returns which showed net income. Prior to 1955-56, the sets available relate to returns with net income and to returns without net income.

Source Book information available for 1926-27 through 1951-52 and for 1953-54 through 1956-57 is described on pages 134-142 of Statistics of Income—1956-57, Corporation Income Tax Returns. The relatively few changes in content since 1948-49 are listed below. Prior to 1954-55, there were fewer asset size classes than appear in the 1960-61 sample sheet. A new category for returns with "zero assets" was introduced beginning with 1959-60.

General revisions of the industrial groups to conform with the revisions of the Standard Industrial Classification issued by the Bureau of the Budget were reflected in the statistics for 1958-59, 1948-49, and 1938-39. Additional changes in the industrial classification of certain groups were made for 1960-61, 1953-54, and 1949-50:

Small business investment companies recognized under the Small Business Investment Act of 1958 became a separate subgroup in 1960-61. For 1959-60, they were included in Other holding and investment companies.

Mutual savings banks and Savings and loan associations became subgroups in 1953-54 after they were made taxable by law.

Jewelry stores became a separate retail subgroup in 1949-50. Formerly they were included in Other retail stores.

The following items in the 1960-61 Source Book were first shown for the periods indicated below:

Item	Period
Loans to stockholders.....	1960-61
Loans from stockholders.....	1960-61
Income subject to tax.....	1959-60
Statutory special deductions (including net operating loss carryforward, formerly shown separately).....	1959-60
Other current assets, including short-term marketable investments.....	1959-60
Other current liabilities.....	1959-60
Net income, corporations electing to be taxed through shareholders, 1958 Act.....	1958-59
Business receipts (sum of gross sales plus receipts from operations, formerly shown separately).....	1958-59
Cost of sales and operations (sum of cost of goods sold and cost of operations, formerly shown separately).....	1958-59
Mortgage and real estate loans.....	1957-58
Deposits and withdrawable shares.....	1957-58
Inventories, last-in, first-out.....	1955-56
Inventories, other than last-in, first-out.....	1955-56
Paid-in or capital surplus.....	1955-56
Earned surplus and undivided profits.....	1955-56
Intangible assets (gross amount and accumulated amortization) (net intangible assets were available for 1954-55).....	1955-56
Investments in Government obligations: United States obligations.....	1954-55
Investments in Government obligations: States, Territories, and United States possessions.....	1954-55
Depreciable assets (and accumulated amortization and depreciation).....	1954-55
Depletable assets (and accumulated depletion).....	1954-55
Amounts contributed under other employee benefit plans.....	1952-53
Excess profits tax and related data.. 1950-51 through 1954-55

Prior to the periods specified above, totals only were available for Inventories, Surplus, Investments in Government obligations, and Capital assets. Explanations of terms are presented in each of the published reports.

Unpublished Information on Special Subjects

The basic 1958-59 Source Book is supplemented by a frequency Source Book which shows the number of returns associated with each of the income statement and balance sheet amounts in the basic Source Book.

A supplement to the 1960-61 Source Book relates net income and statutory special deductions to income subject to tax and the income tax in greater industry detail than that published in table 11 of this volume. The industry data are classified by size of total assets.

Various statistics classified by Internal Revenue regions and districts are prepared annually and are part of the Source Book. For the limitations of this type of information, see the Explanation of Terms section of this report.

The 1957-58 Source Book contains unpublished data on methods used by corporations to compute depreciation for tax purposes. This information is distributed by industrial groups and by size of total assets. More limited information on depreciation methods is available for 1954-55 through 1956-57 and for 1958-59 and 1960-61.

The 1959-60 Source Book contains more comprehensive depreciation information than has been heretofore available. This information is provided in tables showing the cost of property that was subject to depreciation in 1959-60, the depreciation claimed in 1959-60, and the accumulated depreciation claimed in prior years. These estimates are presented in distributions by asset type, depreciation method, useful life class, period of acquisition, size of corporation (as indicated by total assets) and major industrial group. Also shown is the average life of property for each classification of property.

The depreciation estimates for 1959-60 were based on depreciation schedule data from 55,000, of the 163,000 corporation returns included in the regular Statistics of Income sample. Fewer returns were used to arrive at the depreciation estimates for two main reasons. First, in order to keep the processing workload of these detailed data within manageable proportions while retaining the basic validity of the information, a random subsample at one-half the normal rate was instituted for certain large returns, and life (Form 1120L) and mutual (Form 1120M) insurance companies were not covered. Secondly, not all returns included in this modified sample contained depreciation schedules sufficiently complete to be usable in the tabulations. As a rule, those return schedules which did not contain detailed information supporting 90 percent or more of the depreciation deduction were excluded from the study. However, a field followup procedure was devised to obtain supplemental data for corporation returns with total assets of $50,000,000 or more.

The statistics in this study are subject to the same limitations described in the Description of the Sample and Limitations of the Data section of the 1959-60 report, and also to certain other limitations. The estimates are subject to a higher relative sampling variability than that associated with the 1959-60 published estimates because they were based on fewer sample returns. In addition, since not all the returns in the regular sample yielded usable data and because the resulting areas of non-response did not represent a random distribution, a possible bias is inherent in the estimates. Also, although the depreciation schedule in the tax return called for seven specific entries, in practice corporations reported their depreciable assets and depreciation deduction in various ways. It was not felt that the variations in reporting methods caused significant distortions in the statistics presented.

Based on the returns in the sample for which complete information on depreciation practices was available, the number of returns represented in the study was 557,000, which was 52 percent of the total number filed, and the amount of depreciation covered was $12,000,000,000, which was 59 percent of the total amount claimed. The depreciable assets shown in the balance sheets of the 557,000 returns totaled $281,000,000,000, or 71 percent of the amount shown in the balance sheet statistics for 1959-60.

Table B.—PROVISIONS PERTAINING TO CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES UNDER CORPORATION INCOME AND PROFITS TAX LAW, 1951-1960¹

General tax law: Revenue Acts amending Code (date of enactment)	Income year ²	Definition of capital assets and period held	Treatment of net capital gain ³	Treatment of net capital loss ⁴
(1)	(2)	(3)	(4)	(5)
Internal Revenue Act of 1936, as amended, 1954, as amended. Technical Amendments Act of 1958 (Sept. 2, 1958).	1958-60	1 All property, whether or not connected with trade or business, except : (a) Stock in trade or other property which would properly be included in inventory, or property held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of trade or business. (b) Property used in trade or business of a character which was subject to allowance for depreciation. (c) Real property used in trade or business. (d) Accounts and notes receivable acquired in the ordinary course of trade or business for services rendered or from sale of property includible in inventory or ordinarily held for sale. (e) Government obligations issued on or after Mar. 1, 1941, on a discount basis and payable without interest at a fixed maturity date not exceeding one year from date of issue. (f) Certain copyrights, literary, musical, or artistic compositions, or similar properties (but not a patent or invention). 2 Gains and losses were considered as from capital assets, under certain conditions, with respect to: ⁹ a Retirement of certain bonds, etc. b Short sales. c Failure to exercise options. d Involuntary conversions, and sale or exchange of certain business property, if a net gain was realized. ¹⁰ e Securities held for investment by security dealers. ¹¹ f Worthless stocks and other securities. (g) Cancellation of leases or certain distributors' agreements. (h) Sale or exchange of patents. 3 Gains and losses were not considered as from capital assets, under certain conditions, with respect to: ⁹ (a) Certain gain on property to which amortization deduction (sec. 168) was applicable. (b) Net loss from sales or exchanges of certain bonds, etc., by banks. (c) Involuntary conversions, and sale or exchange of certain business property if a net loss was realized. ¹⁰ (d) Certain sales or exchanges of stock in a collapsible corporation. (e) Certain sales or exchanges of depreciable property of a controlled corporation. ¹² (f) Loss on Small Business Investment Company stock. ¹³ (g) Loss on certain convertible debentures (or stock after conversion) held by Small Business Investment Companies. ¹³ (4) Short-term capital gains and losses were those from capital assets held 6 months or less; long-term gains and losses were from capital assets held over 6 months.	Included in taxable income and taxed at regular rates unless the net long-term capital gain exceeded the net short-term capital loss in which case the alternative tax could be used if it was less than the regular tax. The alternative tax was the sum of (1) the regular tax on taxable income reduced by the amount of the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss and (2) 25 percent of such excess.	Carried forward and treated as a net short-term capital loss (deductible against any capital gains) for a period not to exceed 5 years.
	1954-57	Same as 1958-60, except 3(f) and 3(g) were not applicable.	Same as 1958-60, except that tax on excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss was 26 percent for taxable years beginning before Apr. 1, 1954.	Same as 1958-60.
Internal Revenue Code of 1939 as amended. Revenue Act of 1951 (Oct. 20, 1951).	1951-53	Same as 1958-60, except 1(d) and 2(g), 3(f) and 3(g) were not applicable.	Same as 1958-60, except that tax on excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss was 26 percent for taxable years beginning on or after Apr. 1, 1951, (see table A). Net capital gain was excluded from the excess profits net income.	Carried forward and treated as a net short-term capital loss (deductible against any capital gains) for a period not to exceed 5 years. Capital gains and losses were excluded in the computation of the excess profits net income.

Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (Aug. 16, 1954), as amended. Technical Amendments Act of 1952 (Sept. 2, 1952).	1954-60	Income tax and, under certain conditions, personal holding com- pany tax. ¹⁴	Any corporation except (1) Corporations exempt from taxation under 1954 Code sec. 501. (2) Life and mutual insurance compa- nies, but they were considered as includible corporations if two or more such companies alone filed a consolidated return and each was subject to tax under the same section of the 1954 Code. (3) Foreign corporations. ¹⁵ (4) Corporations subject to sec. 991 (relative to income from sources within possessions of the United States). (5) Corporations organized under the China Trade Act, 1922. (6) Regulated investment companies (taxable under subch. M, ch. 1, of the 1954 Code). (7) Unincorporated business enter- prises taxed as corporations under sec. 1361 of the 1954 Code.	One or more chains of in- cludible corporations connected through stock ownership with a common parent corporation which was an includible cor- poration if (1) stock possessing at least 80 percent of the voting power of all classes of stock and at least 80 percent of each class of the nonvoting stock of each of the includ- ible corporations, ex- cept the common parent corporation, was owned directly by one or more of the other includible corporations; and (2) the common parent cor- poration owned directly stock possessing at least 80 percent of the voting power of all classes of stock and at least 80 percent of each class of the nonvoting stock of at least one of the other includible corporations. The term "stock" did not includ- nonvoting stock which was limited and pre- ferred as to dividends.	Optional upon consent of all members of affiliated group. Election was bind- ing for subsequent taxable years of the affiliated group unless (1) a corpora- tion (other than one created directly or in- directly by a member of the group) became an affiliate during a subsequent taxable year, (2) the Commissioner, for good cause, granted permission to change, or (3) amendment to the Code or Regulations made filing of consolidated returns less advantageous to af- filiated groups as a class. Because of such amendments affiliated groups filing consolidated returns for the preceding taxable year were given two options with respect to— First return due to be filed after Sept. 1, 1954, including those filed under an exten- sion of time for fil- ing. First return due to be filed after Aug. 16, 1954, including those filed under an exten- sion of time for fil- ing) or with respect to the first taxable year ended after Aug. 16, 1954.	Same as nonconsolidated returns plus 2 percent of taxable income be- fore deduction of par- tially tax-exempt in- terest. However, if Western Hemisphere trade corporations or regulated public utili- ties were included in the consolidated group, the 2 percent addi- tional tax was applied to an amount which excluded the taxable income of such corpo- rations.
Internal Revenue Code of 1939 as amended.)	1951-53	Income tax, and excess profits tax.	Any corporation except (1) Corporations exempt from taxation under 1939 Code sec. 101. (2) Life and mutual insurance compa- nies, but they were considered as includible corporations if two or more such companies alone filed a consolidated return and each was subject to tax under the same section of the 1939 Code. (3) Foreign corporations. ¹⁵ (4) Corporations subject to 1939 Code sec. 261 relative to income from sources within possessions of the United States). (5) Corporations organized under the China Trade Act, 1922. (6) Regulated investment companies (taxable under supplement 2 of 1939 Code). (7) Personal service corporations, personal holding companies, for- eign trade corporations as de- fined in 1939 Code sec. 454(f), and certain airmail carriers as defined in 1939 Code sec. 454(g); but such a corporation might be included in a consolidated return if it had filed a consent to be treated as an includible corpora- tion. (8) Regulated public utilities which elected to compute their excess profits credit under the alterna- tive method provided for such companies in sec. 442 of the In- ternal Revenue Code (1939). How- ever, two or more such companies alone were permitted to file a consolidated return.	Same as 1954-60, except that "80 percent" should read "95 percent."	See 1954-60. ¹For income years before 1951, see Statistics of Income-1954, Corporation Income Tax Returns, and Statistics of Income for 1950, Part 2.

²Returns for the income years 1954-1960 were filed under the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended. Returns for 1951-1953 were filed under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code approved Feb. 10, 1939, and the various amendments thereto. There was usually no one effective date for all provisions of an internal revenue law—some of the provisions could have been retroactive, some could have applied to the year in which enacted, and some to a future tax year. Only acts substantially amending pertinent provisions of the Codes were cited in these tables.

³The income year was the calendar year and tax years beginning therein.

(a) The net operating loss deduction was allowed as a deduction against the gross income by sec. 172 of the 1954 Code (sec. 23(s) of the 1939 Code). The net income presented in Statistics of Income was the net income for the designated year, i.e., before the deduction permitted with respect to a prior or future loss year. Therefore, the net operating loss deduction has to be taken into account in relating net income to the tax base. The net operating loss of any tax year was first carried back against the income of certain preceding tax years and the excess, if any, could then be carried over to certain succeeding tax years. The amount reported on the return and shown in Statistics of Income was the net operating loss carryover from prior tax years. The carryback period for a net operating loss sustained in the years 1958-1961 was 3 years; for losses sustained in the years 1954-1957, it was 2 years; and for losses sustained in the years 1951-1953, it was 1 year. The carryover period in each case was 5 years, except that certain regulated transportation corporations could carry losses sustained after 1955 forward 7 years. Carryovers affecting taxable income for the period 1951-1960 included those from 1948-1950. For 1948-1949, the carryback was 2 years and the carryover 3 years. For 1950 the carryback was 1 year and the carryover 5 years.

There were substantial differences between the net operating loss provisions of the 1954 and 1939 Codes. Under the 1954 Code, all deductions allowed in computing taxable income except those for partially tax-exempt interest, Western Hemisphere trade corporations, and net operating losses were allowed in computing the amount of a net operating loss. The deductions for dividends were not restricted by the amount of net income before statutory deductions. Taxable income against which the loss could be deducted was computed without deductions for partially tax-exempt interest, Western Hemisphere trade corporations, and net operating losses for years succeeding the loss year.

^aSee footnote 7 for proration of deductions.

^bUnder the 1954 Code if the sum of any of the deductions for dividends, lines 2 through 5 of the table, exceeded net income there was a net operating loss for the year. If the dividend deductions did not exceed net income, the sum of the dividends received deductions, lines 2 through 4, could not exceed 85 percent of the net income after the deductions in lines 1 and 6; and the deduction for dividends paid, line 5, could not exceed the percentage in column 1 times the taxable income computed without regard to such deduction.

Under the 1939 Code, the sum of the dividends received deductions, lines 2 through 4, could never exceed 85 percent of the net income after the deduction in line 1; and the deduction for dividends paid, line 5, could never exceed the applicable percentage times the net income after the net operating loss deduction and the deductions in lines 1 through 4.

^cThis percentage was derived from a formula contained in the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 which related the amount of deduction to the tax rate.

^dFor treatment of dividends paid with respect to dividends unpaid and accumulated for prior tax years, and for definitions of public utility and preferred stocks as used for this deduction, see sec. 247 of the 1954 Code and sec. 26(h) of the 1939 Code.

^eA domestic corporation, all of whose business was done in any country or countries of North, Central, or South America, or in the West Indies, was classified as a Western Hemisphere trade corporation if (1) 95 percent or more of its gross income for the 3-year period immediately preceding the close of the tax year (or for such part of that period as the corporation was in existence) was derived from sources outside the United States and (2) 90 percent or more of its gross income for such period was derived from the active conduct of a trade or business.

Under the 1939 Code only ordinary and necessary business deductions were allowed in computing the amount of net operating loss and the net income against which it could be deducted. The statutory percentage and discovery value methods of computing depletion were not permitted for these computations. Nontaxable interest less nondeductible interest paid on money borrowed to purchase tax-exempt securities was included in gross income. Statutory deductions (credits), permitted in determining taxable income, were not permitted for net operating loss and deduction computations.

(b) Taxable income.—Under the 1954 Code the tax base, subject to normal tax, was designated "taxable income." It was the net income less any net operating loss deduction and the statutory deductions shown in the table above. As indicated in footnote (b), under the 1954 Code these deductions could result in a net operating loss. The surtax base was the taxable income computed without deduction of partially tax-exempt interest.

The tax bases under the 1939 Code were computed in essentially the same way but were designated "normal-tax net income" and "surtax net income" and were derived from net income less net operating loss deduction through use of limited credits which could never completely eliminate taxable income.

The terms "taxable income" and "deductions" were used throughout these footnotes in lieu of the "normal-tax net income," "surtax net income" and "credit" designations of the 1939 Code.

(c) Net long-term capital gain in excess of net short-term capital loss.—Capital gain and loss provisions are shown in table B of this synopsis.

(d) Consolidated return provisions are shown in table C of this synopsis.

(e) The adjusted excess profits net income for 1951-53 was the excess profits net income less the amounts of the excess profits credit and the unused excess profits credit adjustment. A minimum credit of $25,000 was provided. Excess profits net income and methods of credit computation were discussed on pp. 9-11 of Statistics of Income for 1951, Part 2. A change in the percentage of average base period net income used in computing the excess profits credit under the income credit method was made on July 1, 1951. For the period July 1, 1950 through June 30, 1951, this percentage was 85 percent. Beginning July 1, 1951, it was 83 percent. The credit was prorated for tax years which began before and ended after July 1, 1951, and an 84 percent intermediate rate was provided for the calendar year 1951 by the 1939 Code.

Special provisions applicable to computation of excess profits credit of certain companies were shown in Statistics of Income for 1951, Part 2, pp. 11-12.

The unused excess profits credit, which was the excess of the excess profits credit over the excess profits net income for the tax year, was carried back as an unused excess profits credit adjustment to the first preceding tax year, and the remainder, if any, could then be carried forward as an adjustment to succeeding years. The carryforward period was 5 years. No carryback of unused excess profits credit could be made to tax years ended before July 1, 1950, and no portion of the minimum $25,000 credit could be considered as unused excess profits credit. For computation of the unused excess profits credit adjustment for the years 1951-53, see sec. 432 of the 1939 Code.

(f) Life insurance companies.—Beginning with 1958, life insurance companies were subject to tax on both underwriting and investment income under the Life Insurance Company Income Tax Act of 1959. Computation of alternative tax bases and the net amounts from which they were derived are shown in the facsimile of the return form, pp. 361-36c. The 1959 law, including transitional provisions, was also discussed in the text of this volume.

For 1951-1957, only investment income was taxed. For 1955 through 1957 tax was imposed under the Life Insurance Company Tax Act of 1955. Net investment income was defined under this act as the gross amount of interest, dividends, rents, royalties, and income from trade or business other than insurance and from leases, less deductions for investment and real estate expenses, tax-free interest, depreciation on investment property, depletion, and noninsurance trade or business expenses. A multiple-tax-base system was in effect, and the income tax was computed according to formulas which embodied in part the normal tax and surtax rates applicable to other corporations but which included a special alternative tax in the case of life insurance companies having nonlife insurance reserves.

For 1951-1954 the composition of net investment income was substantially the same as above, but royalties, income from noninsurance trade or business, and from leases, as well as the allowances for noninsurance trade or business deductions and for depletion were not specifically delineated. Taxable income and excess profits tax net income were derived from the net investment income base in the same manner as for other corporations except that no deduction was allowed for a net operating loss. Before imposition of tax, however, recognition was made of requirements for reserve earnings, deferred dividends, and interest paid. In lieu of deductions for these items, for income tax purposes special income tax rates (footnote 5(c)) and a reserve interest credit for companies whose adjusted net income was less than 105 percent of their required interest were used. These provisions were offset, in case of nonlife insurance business, by an adjustment for certain nonlife insurance reserves. For excess profits tax purposes a deduction based on a reserve and other policy liability credit was allowed in computing excess profits net income. The regular excess profits tax rates were imposed.

Facsimiles of Form 1120L, filed by life insurance companies, were included in the Statistics of Income, Corporation Income Tax Returns volumes for each year and provide additional information on the computation of the taxable income and tax.

(g) Mutual insurance companies.—Net income for mutual insurance companies was the net investment income (see definition under "Life insurance companies," above). For mutual insurance companies, however, net investment income included net gain from sale or exchange of capital assets, and deductions were allowed for interest expense and for capital losses incurred because of abnormal insurance losses or because of distributions to policyholders. Taxable income was derived in the same manner as for other corporations except that no net operating loss deduction was allowed. However, an alternative gross income base which included net premiums was part of the taxing provisions for these companies. Beginning with 1959-60 this gross income base was included in income subject to tax for Statistics of Income. Income subject to tax in Statistics of Income-1958-59 included only the regular taxable income. This item was not shown in earlier volumes. See sec. 822 of the 1954 Code (sec. 207 of the 1939 Code). See footnote 5(d) for imposition of tax.

(h) Insurance companies other than life or mutual.—Gross income of these companies included investment and underwriting incomes, and deductions allowed included general business expenses, losses, and distributions to policyholders as provided by sec. 832 of the 1954 Code (sec. 204 of the 1939 Code). Taxable income was derived as shown in (b) above and the regular tax rates were imposed.

(i) Regulated investment companies meeting the requirements of subch. M, ch. 1 of the 1954 Code (Supplement Q of the 1939 Code) were taxed only on undistributed income. One of the requirements was that distributions to shareholders, exclusive of capital gain dividends, should equal 90 percent or more of investment company taxable income (exclusive of capital gains).

Undistributed capital gains were taxed at 25 percent. The regular normal tax and surtax rates applied to all other undistributed taxable income.

(j) Mutual savings banks conducting separate life insurance departments computed net income and tax for such departments under Internal Revenue Code provisions applicable to life insurance companies (see par. (f) above). For Statistics of Income tables, the life insurance department income and tax were added to those reported for the bank department. These banks were exempt from taxation under sec. 101 of the 1939 Code prior to 1952 and were exempt from excess profits tax for 1952-53 under sec. 454 of the 1939 Code.

⁵The tax rates shown are those applicable, in general, to all corporations, domestic and foreign. Credits against the tax and certain exceptions to the rates are shown in (a) through (j) below.

(a) Credits against the tax.—Income and profits taxes paid to foreign countries and possessions of the United States could be used as a credit against the income and excess profits taxes in the manner and to the extent allowed by section 901 of the 1954 Code and section 131 of the 1939 Code. In general, the credit was limited to the same proportion of the United States income tax as the foreign income for the year bore to the total income. For 1954-1960, this limit was applied on a per country basis. For 1951-1953 both a per country and an overall limit were applicable. This change in limitation was discussed also in Statistics of Income-1954, Corporation Income Tax Returns, p. 11.

Beginning with 1958, foreign taxes not credited against the income tax in the year incurred because of the limitation provisions could be carried back 2 years and forward 5 years. (A carryback could not be made to years before 1958.) The amount carried to any year was an amount which would fall within the regular limitation shown above.

For 1951-1953, foreign taxes in excess of the allowable credit against income tax could be used as a credit against excess profits tax. This credit was limited in the same way as that against the income tax, based on the relationship between foreign and total excess profits net income.

The tax shown in Statistics of Income was before any credits for foreign taxes paid.

(b) Small business corporations which elected to be taxed through shareholders.—For taxable years beginning after Dec. 31, 1957 and ended after Sept. 2, 1958, certain corporations could elect not to pay the corporate tax but to be taxed through their shareholders under subchapter S, Chapter 1 of the Code. Net income of these corporations was considered as distributed to the shareholders and was subject to tax at the rates applicable to the shareholders who were required to be individuals or estates. In addition to meeting the type of shareholder qualification, to make this election corporations had to—

1. Be a domestic corporation
2. Have no more than 10 shareholders
3. Have only one class of stock
4. Not be a member of an affiliated group eligible to file a consolidated return
5. Not receive more than 20 percent of gross receipts from personal holding company income (rents, royalties, dividends, interest, annuities, gains from sale or exchange of stocks or securities)
6. Not receive more than 80 percent of gross receipts from outside the United States.

Data from the information returns filed by corporations which made this election were included in Statistics of Income, Corporation Income Tax Returns.

(c) Life insurance companies.—For 1959-1960, there was no provision for alternative tax, but the income tax included a flat 25 percent rate on net long-term capital gain reduced by net short-term capital loss. Special income tax rates were provided for the years 1951-54. They were: 3-3/4 percent on the first $200,000 of life insurance company taxable income and 6-1/2 percent on that in excess of $200,000. (As an offset to these rates, adjustments for nonlife reserves were multiplied by 8.) The regular corporate tax rates were applied in other years. For 1955 through 1957, an alternative one percent tax was applicable to nonlife insurance income if it resulted in a larger total tax. See also, footnote 4(f).

(d) Mutual insurance companies, except life or marine, or fire insurance companies issuing perpetual policies.—Sec. 501 of the 1954 Code (sec. 101(11) of the 1939 Code) exempted certain of these companies from taxation (in general, if gross income from investments and premiums did not exceed $75,000). Sec. 821 (sec. 207 of the 1939 Code) provided income taxation of those not exempt, based, in general, on the regular corporate rates, but with certain alternative provisions and limitations. The rates applicable to the alternative gross income base (footnote 4(g)) were (1) two percent on amount over $75,000 if gross income did not exceed $150,000, and (2) one percent of total gross income if the gross income exceeded $150,000. The excess profits tax rate was the same as that for regular corporations with the exception of a limitation for companies whose gross income from interest, dividends, rents, and premiums (including deposits and assessments) was less than $125,000. See sec. 430(d) of the 1939 Code.

(e) Nonresident foreign corporations, not engaged in trade or business within the United States, were taxed, under sec. 881 of the 1954 Code (sec. 231(a) of the 1939 Code), on income (except interest on bank deposits) from sources within the United States. The tax was 30 percent of such income except as modified by treaties with other nations. Such corporations were not subject to the excess profits tax. The returns of nonresident foreign corporations were not included in Statistics of Income.

Under the provisions of sec. 551 of the 1954 Code (Supplement P of the 1939 Code), income of certain foreign personal holding companies was includible in the income of the shareholders and was not reported by the company for taxation.

(f) Corporations exempt from taxation under sec. 501 of the 1954 Code or sec. 101 of the 1939 Code.—Such corporations included labor, agricultural or horticultural organizations, certain types of cooperative and mutual organizations, corporations organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, nonprofit civic, business, and social organizations, and for 1951, certain mutual savings banks, building and loan associations, and cooperative banks. Beginning with 1951 a normal tax and a surtax were imposed on the unrelated business net income in excess of $1,000 of certain of these corporations by Supplement U of the 1939 Code. Secs. 501 and 511-515 of the 1954 Code expanded and continued these taxes. The rates were similar to the regular corporate income tax rates. However, the returns filed by these corporations were not included in Statistics of Income, Corporation Income Tax Returns.

(g) Additional corporations exempt from the excess profits tax (unless a member of an affiliated group of corporations filing a consolidated return).—Specific exemption from the excess profits tax under the 1939 Code was granted to: (1) Regulated investment companies (defined in sec. 361 of the 1939 Code); (2) personal holding companies (defined in sec. 501); (3) domestic corporations if 95 percent of gross income for the 3-year period immediately preceding the close of the tax year was derived from sources outside of the United States and 50 percent of such income was derived from active conduct of a trade or business; (4) certain corporations subject to provisions of Title IV of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938; and (5) beginning in 1952, certain mutual savings banks, building and loan associations, and cooperative banks formerly exempt from taxation under sec. 101 of the 1939 Code. In addition, personal service corporations might elect to be exempt from the tax on excess profits, tax being imposed under Supplement S of the 1939 Code on the individual shareholders.

(h) Western Hemisphere trade corporations (defined in footnote "e" of note 4(b) above). See table C of this synopsis for exemption from the consolidated return tax for 1951-1960.

(i) Personal holding companies.—Personal holding companies were subject to an additional tax (not included in the income tax), imposed under sec. 541 of the 1954 Code (ch. 2, subch. A of the 1939 Code), and based on the undistributed personal holding company income. For the years 1951-1960 the tax was 75 percent of the undistributed personal holding company income not in excess of $2,000 plus 85 percent of such income in excess of $2,000.

General definitions and differences between the 1954 and 1939 Code provisions affecting this tax were discussed in Statistics of Income-1954, Corporation Income Tax Returns, pp. 14-15.

(j) Mutual savings banks conducting separate life insurance departments.—See note 4(j).

Limitations on the excess profits tax.—The excess profits tax under the Excess Profits Tax Act of 1950 ended Dec. 31, 1953. For tax years which ended after that date, the tax was the prorated portion applicable to that part of the year the tax was in effect. See footnote 7. Ceiling rates and special provisions affecting certain companies were discussed on pp. 12-13 of Statistics of Income for 1951, Part 2.

⁷When a return was filed for a tax year during which a change in tax rates occurred, tentative taxes were computed, applying each rate in effect during the tax year to the entire taxable income. The amounts so determined were then prorated on the basis of the number of days in the year during which each rate was in effect. The prorated portions of the tentative taxes were then combined to determine the actual liability which was the amount used for Statistics of Income. To give effect to changes in the deductions from net income used in computing the tax bases, taxable income used in calculating each tentative tax was computed with the deductions applicable to the period to which the tax rate applied.

⁸Net capital gain was the excess of gains from sales or exchanges of capital assets over losses from such sales or exchanges. Both short- and long-term gains and losses were included. Conversely net capital loss was the excess of losses over gains.

⁹See secs. 1231-1243, 165, 341, and 582 of the 1954 Code (secs. 117(f) through (o) and sec. 23(g), (j), and (k) of the 1939 Code).

¹⁰Applicable to involuntary conversion of capital assets, involuntary conversion, sale, or exchange of real property and property subject to depreciation which was used in the trade or business, amounts received for timber and amounts received or accrued for coal where disposal was by contract under which owner retained an economic interest, all of above property having been held for more than 6 months; timber held for more than 6 months before beginning of tax year in which cut, if taxpayer so elected; certain unharvested crops on business real property held for more than 6 months; and livestock, except poultry, held for draft, breeding, or dairy purposes for 12 months. Depreciable property in items 3(a) and (e) of table were excluded.

Beginning with 1958, casualty or theft losses on uninsured property used in the trade or business (as defined by sec. 1231 of the Code) or on capital assets (as defined by sec. 1221) held more than 6 months and held for production of income were deductible as ordinary losses.

¹¹Applicable to sales or exchanges made after Nov. 19, 1951.

¹²Applicable to sales or exchanges made after May 3, 1951.

¹³Small Business Investment Companies were defined as those operating under the Small Business Investment Act of 1958. Secs. 1242 and 1243 dealing with the specified losses were effective for tax years which began after Sept. 2, 1958.

¹⁴See sec. 542(b) of the 1954 Code for application of the personal holding company tax in the case of consolidated returns.

How To Prepare Your 1960 Corporation Income Tax Return ON FORM 1120

(References are to the Internal Revenue Code).

Note: All foreign corporations, whether resident or nonresident, file Form 1120-F. See General Instruction H.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

A. Corporations required to make a return on Form 1120.—Every domestic corporation not expressly exempt from taxation under chapter 1 (Section 501), whether or not having any taxable income, must file a return. The term "corporation" is defined by the Code to include associations, joint-stock companies, and insurance companies.

Partnerships and proprietorships may elect to be taxed as domestic corporations if an election is made not later than 60 days after the close of the taxable year and if certain qualifications are met. (Section 1361.) If the return is filed by a proprietorship or partnership, electing to be taxed as a corporation under section 1361, it must be signed by the proprietor or a partner.

If a receiver, trustee in dissolution, trustee in bankruptcy, or assignee has possession of or holds title to all or substantially all the property or business of a corporation, whether or not the property or business is being operated, he must make a return of income for the corporation in the same manner and form required of other corporations. (Section 6012.)

A mutual savings bank not having capital stock represented by shares; a domestic building and loan association, a domestic savings and loan association, a Federal savings and loan association, substantially all the business of which is confined to making loans to members; and a cooperative bank without capital stock, operated for mutual purposes and without profit, are subject to income tax and must file returns.

B. Period to be covered by return.—Returns shall be filed for the calendar year 1960 or fiscal year beginning in 1960 and ending in 1961. A fiscal year is an accounting period of 12 months ending on the last day of a calendar month other than December, but if a taxpayer has made the election provided in section 441 (f), the term "fiscal year" means an annual period varying from 52 to 53 weeks. If a taxpayer has no annual accounting period, or keeps no books, or has an accounting period which does not qualify as a fiscal year, the return must be filed for the calendar year, except as provided in section 443.

For the procedure to follow in changing an established accounting period, see your District Director.

C. Accounting methods.—Taxable income shall be computed in accordance with the method of accounting regularly used by the taxpayer in maintaining its books and records. In all cases the method adopted should clearly reflect taxable income. The basic methods of accounting are the "cash receipts and disbursements method" and the "accrual method." Section 446 permits the use of these methods or any other method permitted under the Code or any combination of these methods in accordance with regulations. If a taxpayer engages in more than one trade or business, it may, with respect to each trade or business, use a different method of accounting. Each method must, however, clearly reflect the income of the particular trade or business with which it is used, and separate profit and loss statements for each trade or business must be submitted. Except in those cases where the law specifically permits it, a taxpayer may not change the method of accounting upon the basis of which it has reported its income in prior years (for its income as a whole or with respect to any separate trade or business) without first securing consent. For procedure to be followed in securing consent, see your District Director.

Cash receipts and disbursements method.—Under this method, a taxpayer includes all items of taxable income (whether cash, property, or services) in the year when it is actually or constructively received and claims as deductible expenses only those expenses actually paid. Income is constructively received when the amount is credited to the taxpayer's account, or set aside for it, and is unconditionally subject to its command. This includes uncashed checks, bank interest credited, matured bond coupons, and other similar items which can be immediately turned into cash. Do not deduct capital expenditures.

Accrual method.—Under this method income is reported in the year when the taxpayer first has a definite right to income, the amount of which can be ascertained with reasonable accuracy while deductions are taken in the year in which there is first established a specific liability, the amount of which can be ascertained with reasonable accuracy. Where the right to income or the liability for expense is uncertain, or the amount of such income or expense cannot be ascertained with reasonable accuracy, accrual is generally postponed until a determination is possible.

Other methods.—Separate provisions are contained in section 453 for installment method of accounting. For other information on accounting methods, see your District Director.

Rounding off to whole-dollar amounts.—If you wish, the money items on your return or accompanying schedules required by such return may be shown as whole-dollar amounts. This means that you eliminate any amount less than 50 cents, and increase any amount from 50 cents through 99 cents to the next highest dollar.

D. Filing of return and payment of tax.—Returns of corporations must be filed on or before the 15th day of the third month following the close of the taxable year with the District Director of Internal Revenue for the district in which the corporation's principal place of business or principal office or agency is located. (Section 6072.)

Request for additional extension of 3 months for filing of return must be made on Form 7004. (Section 6081 (b).)

The balance of tax due as shown on line 34, page 1 of the return, must be paid in full when the return is filed or in two installments, 50 percent on or before the 15th day of the third month and 50 percent on or before the 15th day of the sixth month following the close of the taxable year.

If any installment is not paid on or before the date fixed for its payment, the whole amount of the tax unpaid shall be paid upon notice and demand by the District Director. The tax may be paid in cash or by check or money order drawn to the order of "Internal Revenue Service." Cash payment should be made only in person at the District Director's office.

A declaration of estimated tax must be made by every corporation which is subject to income tax under section 11 or 1201 (a), or subchapter L of chapter 1 (relating to insurance companies), if its income tax for the taxable year can reasonably be expected to exceed $100,000 plus the amount of any estimated credits against tax. (See Form 1120-ES.) In the case of affiliated corporations filing a consolidated return, see consolidated return regulations prescribed under section 1502.

Additional charge for underpayment of estimated tax.—Underpayment of installments of estimated tax will result in additional charges for the period from the due date of each installment until paid, or until the due date for filing the tax return, whichever is the earlier.

The charge with respect to any underpayment of any installment is mandatory and will be made unless the exceptions specified in section 6655 (d) are applicable.

If you have an underpayment of estimated tax and believe the additional charge should not be asserted due to the applicability of the "relief provisions" of section 6655 (d), attach a statement to your return explaining which of the provisions applies to you, showing any necessary computations. If you wish, you may obtain Form 2220 from the nearest Internal Revenue Service office for this purpose.

E. Signature and verification.—The return must be signed either by the president, vice-president, treasurer, assistant treasurer or chief accounting officer, or by any other corporate officer (such as tax officer) who is authorized to sign. A receiver, trustee, or assignee must sign any return which he is required to file on behalf of a corporation. The return must also be signed by any person, firm, or corporation who prepared the taxpayer's return for compensation. If the return is prepared by a firm or corporation, it should be signed in the name of the firm or corporation. This verification is not required if the return is prepared by a regular, full-time employee of the taxpayer.

F. Failure to file, etc.—Substantial additions to the tax are imposed for failing to file a return, for late filing, and for filing a false or fraudulent return.

G-(1). Information at the source.—Every corporation making payments in the course of its trade or business of (1) interest, rents, commissions, or other fixed or determinable income of $600 or more during the calendar year 1960 to an individual, a partnership, or a fiduciary, or (2) salaries or wages of $600 or more shall make returns on Forms 1096 and 1099, except that the making of such returns will not be required with respect to salary or wage payments included on Form W-2, provided copies of withholding statements on Form W-2 are furnished. If a portion of such salary or wage payments was reported on a Withholding Statement (Form W-2), only the remainder must be reported on Form 1099.

Except as stated below, the returns on Forms 1096 and 1099 shall also include dividend payments totaling $10 or more during the calendar year 1960 to each shareholder who is an individual (citizen or resident of the United States), a resident fiduciary, or a resident partnership any member of which is a citizen or resident. In the case of payments by a building and loan association, a cooperative bank, a homestead association, a credit union, or a savings and loan association, such total shall be $600 or more. In the case of payments by a corporation described in sections 501 (c) (12), (15), (16), 521 and 522, or in the case of a national farm loan association or a production credit association, such total shall be $100 or more.

The returns on Forms 1096 and 1099 shall also include (except in the case of insurance companies taxable under Subchapter L and corporations exempt under section 501 (c) (12) or (15)) patronage dividends, rebates, and refunds totaling $100 or more during the calendar year 1960, whether in cash, merchandise, capital stock, revolving fund certificates, retain certificates, certificates of indebtedness, letters of advice, or in some other manner.

G-(2). Information regarding dissolution or liquidation.—Every corporation shall, within 30 days after the adoption by the corporation of a resolution or plan for the dissolution of the corporation or for the liquidation of the whole or any part of its capital stock, render a correct return on Form 966 setting forth the terms of such resolution or plan.

Every corporation making distributions in liquidation of the whole or any part of its capital stock shall also make returns on Forms 1096 and 1099L, as required by instructions on Form 1096, for the calendar year 1960.

G-(3). Certain transfers of property on or after January 1, 1951.—Under certain circumstances the $25,000 exemption from surtax and the $100,000 accumulated earnings credit are not allowed or may be reduced to a lesser figure. Section 1551 provides that if a corporation on or after January 1, 1951, transfers all or part of its property (other than money) to another corporation which was created for the purpose of acquiring such property or which was not actively engaged in business at the time of such acquisition and if after such transfer the transferor corporation or its stockholders, or both, are in control of such transferee corporation during any part of the taxable year of such transferee corporation, the transferee corporation shall not for such taxable year (except as may be otherwise determined under section 269 (b)) be allowed either the $25,000 exemption from surtax provided in section 11 (c) or the $100,000 accumulated earnings credit provided in section 535 (c), unless such transferee corporation shall establish by the clear preponderance of the evidence that the securing of such exemption or credit was not a major purpose of such transfer. For the purposes of section 1551, control means the ownership of stock possessing at least 80 percent of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote or at least 80 percent of the total value of shares of all classes of stock of the corporation. Rules are provided in sections 544 and 1551 for determining ownership of stock. For allocation of the surtax exemption and the accumulated earnings credit in certain cases, see section 269 (b).

G-(4). Information regarding renegotiable contracts.—Every corporation which held, during the taxable year, contracts or subcontracts which were subject to the Renegotiation Act of 1951 shall, in answer to question K, page 3, state the actual or, if not accurately determinable, its best estimate of the aggregate gross dollar amount billed during the current taxable year under all contracts and/or subcontracts.

H. Returns of certain corporations. Domestic corporations entitled to benefits of section 931.—Domestic corporations within the possessions of the United States (except the Virgin Islands) may report as gross income only gross income from sources within the United States, provided (a) 80 percent or more of the gross income for the 3-year period immediately preceding the close of the taxable year (or such part thereof as may be applicable) was derived from sources within a possession of the United States, and (b) 50 percent or more of the gross income for such period or such part thereof was derived from the active conduct of a trade or business within a possession of the United States.

Foreign corporations.—Foreign corporations whether or not engaged in trade or business within the United States shall make returns on Form 1120-F of income derived from sources within the United States. (See sections 861 through 864, and 882.)

Insurance companies.—Life insurance companies subject to tax imposed by section 802 shall make returns on Form 1120L. Mutual insurance companies subject to tax imposed by section 821 shall make returns on Form 1120M. Insurance companies described in section 831, and mutual savings banks described in section 594 and conducting life insurance business, shall make returns on Form 1120. There should be filed with the return a copy of the 1960 annual statement approved by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners which contains the underwriting and investment exhibit.

Regulated investment companies.—If for any given year the investment company satisfies the requirements of section 851 it will be considered a regulated investment company for that year.

Personal holding companies.—Section 541 imposes a tax upon the undistributed personal holding company income (as defined in section 545) of corporations classified as personal holding companies. Every personal holding company must file a schedule 1120PH with its return on Form 1120.

Under the provisions of section 542, a corporation is a "personal holding company" if at least 80 percent of its gross income for the taxable year is personal holding company income as defined in section 543, and if at any time during the last half of the taxable year more than 50 percent in value of its outstanding stock is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for not more than five individuals. (Sections 541-547.)

Foreign personal holding companies.—Section 551 (a) requires that the undistributed foreign personal holding company income of a foreign personal holding company, as defined in section 552, shall be included as a dividend in the gross income of the United States shareholders in the amount provided by subsection (b). Schedule 1120PH is not required, but information returns on Forms 957 and 958 must be filed by the officers, directors, and certain United States shareholders as provided by section 6035 and the regulations thereunder.

A foreign corporation which is a personal holding company, as defined in section 542 but not within the definition of section 552, is subject to the tax imposed by section 541 on undistributed personal holding company income and must file a schedule 1120PH with its return.

Exempt organizations.—Section 511 imposes a tax upon the income derived from an unrelated trade or business of certain exempt organizations. Every such organization subject to this tax must file a Form 990-T.

Exempt farmers' cooperatives.—Section 522 imposes a tax upon certain cooperatives exempt under section 521. Every such organization subject to tax must file Form 990-C.

Small business corporations.—Corporations which qualify and elect under section 1372 (a) to have their taxable income taxed directly to the shareholders (rather than to the corporation), must file Form 1120-S, instead of Form 1120. To qualify for this treatment, a company must be a domestic corporation which is not a member of an affiliated group (as defined in section 1504) and which does not have (1) more than 10 shareholders; (2) a shareholder (other than an estate) who is not an individual; (3) a shareholder who is a nonresident alien; and (4) more than one class of stock. The election, accompanied by the written consent of all shareholders, must be completed and filed for any calendar year during (a) the first calendar month of such taxable year, or (b) the calendar month preceding such first calendar month. Form 2553 is provided for this purpose.

I. Consolidated returns.—Subject to the provisions of sections 1501 through 1552 and the regulations, an affiliated group of corporations may make a consolidated income tax return in lieu of separate returns. The making of a consolidated return shall be upon the condition that all corporations which at any time during the taxable year have been members of the affiliated group consent to all the consolidated return regulations prescribed under section 1502 prior to the last day prescribed by law for the filing of such return. The common parent corporation, when filing a consolidated return, shall attach thereto a schedule showing the names and addresses of all the corporations included in the return. Form 851, Affiliations Schedule, should be obtained from the District Director of Internal Revenue and filed as a part of the return. Each subsidiary must prepare two signed copies of Form 1122 authorizing the making of the return on its behalf. One such form shall be attached to the consolidated return as a part thereof, and the other shall be filed, at or before the time the consolidated return is filed, in the office of the District Director for the subsidiary's district.

Supporting schedules shall be filed with the consolidated return. These schedules shall be prepared in columnar form, one column being provided for each corporation included in the consolidation, showing in detail the items of gross income and deductions and the computation of taxable income; one column for a total of like items before adjustments are made; one column for intercompany eliminations and adjustments; and one column for a total of like items after giving effect to the eliminations and adjustments. The items included in the column for eliminations and adjustments should be symbolized to identify contra items affected, and suitable explanations appended, if necessary. Similar schedules shall also contain in columnar form a reconciliation of surplus for each corporation, together with a reconciliation of the consolidated surplus. A schedule which sets forth the basis of property transferred to or received from an affiliated, subsidiary, or parent corporation must also be attached.

Consolidated balance sheets as of the beginning and close of the taxable year of the group shall accompany the consolidated return in a form similar to that required for reconciliation of surplus.

J. Tax on improperly accumulated earnings.—In order to prevent accumulation of earnings and profits for the purpose of enabling shareholders to avoid the tax on individuals, section 531 provides an additional tax upon the accumulated taxable income of corporations formed or availed of for the purpose of such tax avoidance.

K. Stock ownership in foreign corporations.—In addition to the information to be shown in Schedule C of the return, a corporation owning directly or indirectly any stock of a foreign corporation must attach a statement showing the name and address of each company and the total number of shares of each class of outstanding stock owned during the taxable year. If the corporation owned 5 percent or more in value of the outstanding stock of a foreign personal holding company, attach a statement setting forth in complete detail the information required by section 551 (d).

L. Balance sheets.—The balance sheets, Schedule L, should agree with the books of account or any differences should be reconciled. The balance sheets for a consolidated return of affiliated corporations should be furnished in accordance with Instruction I. All corporations reporting to the Interstate Commerce Commission or to any National, State, municipal, or other public officer, may submit, in lieu of Schedule L, copies of their balance sheets prescribed by such authorities as at the beginning and end of the taxable year.

Line 11, Schedule L, should show land less any accumulated amortization of the land as an emergency facility under the authority of section 168.

Line 16, Schedule L, should be used by banks, building and loan associations, and other financial institutions to report demand and time deposits of customers, including withdrawable shares, share accounts, and investment certificates.

M. Forms other than prescribed by return.—Banks, insurance companies, and other corporations required to submit substantially similar statements of income and expenses to any National, State, municipal, or other public officer may submit with the return a statement of income and expenses in the form furnished to such officer, in lieu of the information requested in lines 1 to 31, page 1, except that a railroad company may submit with the return a statement on Form 1090. In such cases the taxable income will be reconciled by means of Schedule M with the net profits shown by the income and expense statement submitted, and should be entered as line 31, page 1.

N. Attachments.—Attachments may be used in the preparation of your return and supplemental schedules, provided they contain all of the required information and that summarized totals of the items shown in the attachments are entered on the return and schedules. This does not apply to any tax computation portion of a form or schedule.

O. Total assets.—Enter the total assets as of the end of the taxable year as shown on line 13, Schedule L. In the event there are no assets at the end of the taxable year, show the total assets as of the beginning of the taxable year.

SPECIFIC INSTRUCTIONS (Numbered to correspond with the line numbers on page 1)

2. Cost of goods sold.—If the production, manufacture, purchase, or sale of merchandise is an income-determining factor in the trade or business, inventories of merchandise on hand should be taken at the beginning and end of the taxable year, and may be valued at cost, or at cost or market, whichever is lower, or by any other permissible method.

An inventory method once properly adopted is controlling until permission to change is obtained from the Commissioner. Application for permission to change an inventory method shall be made in writing and filed with the Commissioner within 90 days after the beginning of the taxable year in which it is desired to effect a change. In case the inventories reported do not agree with the balance sheet, attach a statement explaining the difference.

A corporation electing to use the last-in, first-out method of valuing inventory provided for in section 472 must file Form 970 with the return for the first year of the election. Thereafter, attach separate schedule showing: (1) a summary of all inventories; (2) with respect to any inventories computed under section 472, the computation of the quantities and cost by acquisition levels.

Cost of operations (where inventories are not an income-determining factor).—If the amount entered on line 2 includes an amount applicable to cost of operations, attach a schedule showing: (1) Salaries and wages; and (2) other costs in detail.

5. Interest on obligations of the United States, etc.—Enter the interest on line 5; and in Schedule L, the amounts of the various obligations owned. Also enter on line 3, Schedule M, all interest received or accrued during the year on the various obligations listed therein. The net amount of interest reported on line 5 (a) is also allowable as a deduction. See the instructions for Schedule 1. The amount of interest received or accrued on obligations issued after February 28, 1941, by the United States or any agency or instrumentality thereof should be entered on line 5 (b). For provisions relating to amortizable bond premiums, see section 171.

For special rules applicable to dealers in securities, with respect to premium attributable to certain tax-exempt securities, see section 75.

Non-interest-bearing obligations issued at a discount.—Taxpayers on the cash basis may elect, as to all non-interest-bearing obligations issued at a discount and redeemable for fixed amounts increasing at stated intervals (for example, United States Savings Bonds), to include the increase in redemption price applicable to the current year. For the year of election the total increase in redemption price of such obligations occurring between the date of acquisition and the end of the year must be included. Attach statement listing obligations owned and computation of the increase. (Section 454.)

6. Other interest.—Enter on line 6, the amount of interest on loans, notes, mortgages, bonds, bank deposits, corporate bonds, etc. The term "corporate bonds" includes bonds, debentures, notes, certificates of indebtedness, or other evidences of indebtedness issued by any corporation and bearing interest, with interest coupons or in registered form. For provisions relating to amortizable bond premium, see section 171.

7. (a) Rents.—Enter the gross amount received for the rent of property. Any expenses, including repairs, interest, taxes, and depreciation should be included in the proper lines for deductions. In the case of a lease entered into prior to January 1, 1954, if both lessor and lessee are corporations and if under the lease the lessee is obligated to pay any part of the lessor's income tax on the rental payment, this tax is excluded from lessor's gross income and may not be deducted by lessee. (Section 110.)

(b) Royalties.—Enter the gross amount received as royalties. If a deduction is claimed for depletion, it must be reported on line 22.

8. Gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets and other property.—The computation of gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets and property other than capital assets should be made on separate Schedule D and filed with Form 1120. Every sale or exchange of property, even though no gain or loss is indicated, must be reported in detail. If for any taxable year the net long-term capital gain exceeds the net short-term capital loss, or in case of only a net long-term capital gain, a computation of the alternative tax should be made on separate Schedule D.

9. Other income.—Enter total amount of other income not reported elsewhere in the return and attach schedule showing details.

13. Repairs.—Enter the cost of incidental repairs, including labor, supplies, and other items, which do not add to the value or appreciably prolong the life of the property. Expenditures for new buildings, machinery, equipment, or for permanent improvements or betterments which increase the value of the property are chargeable to capital account.

14. Bad debts.—Bad debts may be treated in either of two ways—(1) by a deduction from income in respect of debts which become worthless in whole or in part, or (2) by a deduction from income of a reasonable addition to a reserve for bad debts. (Section 166.)

A taxpayer filing a first return of income may select either of the two methods, and that method must be followed for subsequent years, unless permission is granted by the Commissioner to change to the other method. Application for permission to change the method shall be made in writing at least 30 days prior to the close of the taxable year for which it is desired to effect the change.

Worthless debts arising from unpaid rents, and similar items of taxable income, will not be allowed as a deduction unless the income such items represent has been included in the return of income for the year for which the bad debt deduction is claimed, or for a previous year.

For treatment of bad debts of a mutual savings bank not having capital stock represented by shares, a domestic building and loan association, and a cooperative bank without capital stock organized and operated for mutual purposes and without profit, see section 593 and the regulations thereunder.

15. Rents.—Enter rent paid or accrued for business property in which the corporation has no equity. With respect to leases entered into prior to January 1, 1954, see instruction No. 7(a).

16. Taxes.—Enter taxes paid or accrued during the taxable year. Do not include Federal income, war-profits, and excess-profits taxes; estate, inheritance, legacy, succession, and gift taxes; foreign or United States possession income taxes if any credit is claimed in line 6 (tax computation); Federal taxes paid on bonds containing a tax-free covenant, nor taxes not imposed upon the taxpayer. See section 164 (d) regarding apportionment of taxes on real property between seller and purchaser.

17. Interest.—Enter interest paid or accrued on business indebtedness. Do not include interest on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry obligations (other than obligations of the United States issued after September 24, 1917, and originally subscribed for by the taxpayer) the interest on which is wholly exempt from income tax. (Section 265.)

See section 267 for limitation on deductions for unpaid expenses and interest in the case of transactions between related taxpayers.

18. Contributions or gifts paid.—Enter contributions or gifts actually paid within the taxable year to or for the use of (1) a State, a possession of the United States, or any political subdivision of any of the foregoing, or the United States or the District of Columbia for exclusively public purposes; (2) a corporation, trust, or community chest, fund, or foundation, created or organized in the United States or in any possession thereof or under the law of the United States, or of any State, or of the District of Columbia, or of any possession of the United States, organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes or the prevention of cruelty to children or animals (but in the case of contributions or gifts to a trust, chest, fund, or foundation only if such contributions or gifts are to be used within the United States or any of its possessions exclusively for such purposes), no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting to influence legislation; (3) posts or organizations of war veterans, or auxiliary units of, or trusts or foundations for, any such posts or organizations, if such posts, organizations, units, trusts, or foundations are organized in the United States or any of its possessions, and if no part of their net earnings inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual; or (4) nonprofit cemetery or burial companies. The amount claimed shall not exceed 5 percent of the corporation's taxable income computed without regard to (1) this deduction, (2) the "special deductions" in line 30, and (3) any net operating loss carryback to the taxable year under section 172.

In the case of a corporation on the accrual basis, any contribution or gift will, at the election of the taxpayer made at the time the return is filed, be considered as paid during the taxable year if payment is actually made on or before the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of the taxable year, and if the contribution or gift has during the taxable year been authorized by the board of directors of the corporation. A copy of such authorization must be attached to the return.

Do not deduct as a business expense charitable contributions which come within the above description, but which are unallowable in whole or in part because of the limitation contained in section 170. (Section 162 (b).)

Any contributions paid during the taxable year in excess of the amount deductible may be carried over and deducted in the two succeeding taxable years subject to the 5 percent limitation provided in section 170 (b) (2). In a taxable year to which there is a net operating loss carryover and charitable contributions in excess of the amount deductible (or a charitable contribution carryover from a preceding taxable year), see section 170 (b) (3).

Attach a schedule showing the name and address of each organization and the amount paid. If there is included a contribution carryover, show the amount and how the carryover was determined.

19. Losses by fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty, or theft.—Enter losses sustained during the year, arising from fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty. For determination of the amount deductible, see section 165 (b). Theft losses are deductible only in the year in which discovered.

20. Amortization.—If a deduction is claimed on account of amortization, attach a schedule showing: (1) A description of the facilities or expenditures being amortized; (2) date acquired, completed, or expended; (3) amount being amortized; (4) amortization deducted in prior years; (5) amortization period (number of months); (6) amortization for this year; and (7) the total amount of amortization less the amount claimed in Schedule A and elsewhere on the return. A summary of the total amortization for each facility or expenditure must be shown in Schedule H.

The law makes special provisions for amortization of the following kinds of assets and expenditures:

- (a) Emergency facilities.—Section 168;
- (b) Grain storage facilities.—Section 169;
- (c) Research and experimental expenditures.—Section 174;
- (d) Exploration expenditures.—Section 615;
- (e) Development expenditures.—Section 616;
- (f) Organizational expenses.—Section 248; and
- (g) Trade-mark and trade-name expenditures.—Section 177.

For details concerning the information which must be furnished in the statements of election required by these sections, consult your District Director.

21. Depreciation.—If a deduction is claimed on account of depreciation, fill in Schedule G. A reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear, and obsolescence of property used in the trade or business or of property held by the taxpayer for the production of income shall be allowed as a depreciation deduction. (Section 167.) The allowance does not apply to inventories or stock-in-trade nor to land apart from the improvements or physical developments added to it. Depreciation on leasehold improvements, patents and copyrights shall be included in Schedule G.

The useful life of an asset can be measured in units of production, etc., but the ordinary practice is to measure useful life in years. Business experience, engineering information, and other relevant factors provide a reasonable basis for estimating the useful life of property. The cost (or other basis) to be recovered should be charged off over the expected life of the property to the taxpayer. For guidance, comprehensive tables of "average useful lives" of various kinds of buildings, machines, and equipment in many industries and businesses have been published in a booklet called Bulletin F, which may be purchased for 30 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. A brief description of the various methods of depreciation follows:

(a) Straight line method.—The most common method of computing depreciation is the "straight line" method. It allows for the recovery of cost in equal annual amounts over the estimated useful life of the property, with only salvage value remaining at the end of its useful life. To compute the deduction, add the cost of improvements to the cost (or other basis) of the asset and deduct both the estimated salvage value and the total depreciation allowed or allowable in past years. Divide the result by the number of years of useful life remaining to the asset—the quotient is the depreciation deduction.

(b) Declining balance method.—Under this method a uniform rate is applied each year to the remaining cost or other basis of property (without adjustment for salvage value) determined at the beginning of such year. For property acquired before January 1, 1954, or used property whenever acquired, the rate of depreciation under this method may not exceed one and one-half times the applicable straight-line rate.

(c) Special rules for new assets acquired after December 31, 1953.—The cost or other basis of an asset acquired after December 31, 1953, may be depreciated under methods proper in the past; or, it may be depreciated under any of the following methods provided (1) that the asset is tangible, (2) that it has an estimated useful life of three years or more to the taxpayer, and (3) that the original use of the asset commenced with the taxpayer and commenced after December 31, 1953. If an asset is constructed, reconstructed, or erected by the taxpayer, so much of the basis of the asset as is attributable to construction, reconstruction, or erection after December 31, 1953, may be depreciated under methods proper in the past; or, it may be depreciated under any of the following methods provided that the asset meets qualifications (1) and (2) above.

(1) Declining balance method.—This method may be used with a rate not in excess of twice the applicable straight-line rate.

(2) Sum of the years-digit method.—Under this method annual allowances for depreciation are computed by applying changing fractions to the taxpayer's cost or other basis of property (reduced by estimated salvage).

The deduction for each year is computed by multiplying the cost or other basis of the asset (reduced by estimated salvage value) by the number of years of useful life remaining (including the year for which the deduction is computed) and dividing the product by the sum of all the digits corresponding to the years of the estimated useful life of the asset. In the case of a 5-year life this sum would be 15 or $(5+4+3+2+1)$. For the first year five-fifteenths of the cost reduced by estimated salvage value would be allowable, for the second year four-fifteenths, etc.

(3) Other methods.—A taxpayer may use any consistent method which does not result in accumulated allowances at the end of any year greater than the total of the accumulated allowances which would have resulted from the use of the declining balance method. This limitation applies only during the first two-thirds of the useful life of the property.

(d) Section 179—Additional first-year depreciation allowance.—Corporations may elect to write off in the year of acquisition 20 percent of the cost of tangible personal property having an aggregate value of not more than $10,000. For details which must be furnished in the statement of election, see the regulations under section 179. This additional first-year depreciation is allowed in full for the first taxable year for which a deduction is allowable under section 167, regardless of the date of acquisition. The cost of property does not include so much of the basis of such property as is determined by reference to the basis of other property held at any time by the person acquiring such property. This additional depreciation is limited to property acquired after December 31, 1957, with a remaining useful life of 6 years or more and which is not acquired from an affiliated corporation (as defined in section 1504, except that "more than 50 percent" stock ownership is substituted for "at least 80 percent" wherever it appears in section 1504 (a)). All members of the affiliated group will be treated as one taxpayer, and the $10,000 limitation will be apportioned among the members in the manner prescribed by regulations. Further, for this allowance to apply in any case, the basis of the property must not be determined in whole or in part by reference to the transferor's basis. Depreciation on the remaining cost of the property may be taken under any of the methods indicated above. The additional first-year depreciation of an asset should be shown on a separate line of the depreciation schedule rather than included on the line used to show the regular depreciation of the asset.

A summary of the total depreciation for each method must be shown in Schedule H.

22. Depletion.—If a deduction is claimed on account of depletion, procure from the District Director: Form M (mines and other natural deposits), Form O (oil and gas), or Form T (timber), fill in and file with return. If complete valuation data have been filed with questionnaire in previous years, then file with your return information necessary to bring your depletion schedule up to date, setting forth in full statement of all transactions bearing on deductions from or additions to value of physical assets during the taxable year with explanation of how depletion deduction for the taxable year has been determined. (Sections 611, 612, and 613.) Expenditures to be deferred and deducted ratably under the election provided in sections 616 (b), relating to certain expenditures in the development of mines, and 615 (b), relating to deductions for mine exploration, are not to be taken into account in determining the adjusted basis for property for the purpose of computing a deduction for depletion under section 611.

23. Advertising.—Enter the total amount paid or incurred during the year for advertising. Expenditures for advertising, to be deductible, must be ordinary and necessary and bear a reasonable relation to the business activities in which the corporation is engaged.

24. Note: A form is available to report the information required in (a) and (b) below for years other than the first year a deduction is claimed. The Form 2950 may be obtained from your District Director.

(a) Pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, annuity plans.—Enter on line 24 (a) the total amount deductible under section 404. A corporation claiming a deduction under section 404 must submit with its return, in addition to the information specified in the regulations concerning such deduction, a statement with respect to each plan showing the type of plan, i. e., pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, annuity, or other plan deferring the receipt of compensation, whether or not the plan is qualified under section 401 (a), and if trustee, whether or not the trust is exempt under section 501 (a), and the method of funding, i. e., individual annuity or insurance contracts, group annuity contract, group permanent contract, or self-insured trust. If not funded, so indicate. Contributions paid by an employer to or under a pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, annuity plan or compensation paid or accrued on account of any employee under a plan deferring the receipt of such compensation, are deductible only under section 404, and are not deductible under section 162.

(b) Other employee benefit plans.—Enter on line 24 (b) deductions for contributions to employee benefit plans other than those claimed on line 24 (a), such as insurance, health, or welfare plans. Submit with the return a schedule for each plan showing (1) the nature of benefits, i. e., group term life insurance, group permanent life insurance, noninsured death benefit, hospitalization, surgical, medical, sickness, accident, major medical expense, unemployment benefit, or other welfare benefits; (2) method of financing, i. e., insured, industry or areawide fund, self-insured fund, or direct benefit payments; (3) the amount of deduction; (4) the amount of employee contributions; (5) the number of employees covered; and (6) if a self-insured plan, the amount of benefits paid during the taxable year. Also show the number of employees employed by the corporation.

25. Other deductions authorized by law.—Enter any other authorized deductions for which no space is provided on the return. Any deduction claimed should be explained in an attached schedule.

No deduction is allowable for the amount of any item or part thereof allocable to a class of exempt income other than interest. For nonallowance of interest on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry tax-exempt securities, see instruction 17. Items directly attributable to wholly exempt income shall be allocated thereto, and items directly attributable to any class of taxable income shall be allocated to such taxable income. If an item is indirectly attributable both to taxable income and exempt income, a reasonable proportion thereof, determined in the light of all the facts and circumstances in each case, shall be allocated to each. A taxpayer receiving any such exempt income, or holding any property or engaging in any activity the income from which is exempt shall submit with its return as a part thereof an itemized statement, in detail, showing (1) the amount of each class of exempt income, and (2) the amount of expense items allocated to each such class (the amount allocated by apportionment being shown separately).

In the case of mutual savings banks, cooperative banks, and domestic building and loan associations, any amounts paid or credited to the accounts of depositors or holders of accounts as dividends on their deposits or withdrawable accounts, if such amounts may be withdrawn on demand subject only to customary notice of intention to withdraw, are allowable deductions in computing taxable income. (Section 591.)

Under section 592 a special deduction in computing taxable income is allowed a mutual savings bank not having capital stock represented by shares, a domestic building and loan association, or a cooperative bank without capital stock organized and operated for mutual purposes and without profit, for repayment during the taxable year of loans made before September 1, 1951, by the United States or its wholly owned agencies, or by a mutual fund established under the authority of State law.

28. Net operating loss deduction.—The "net operating loss deduction" is the sum of the net operating loss carryovers and carrybacks to the taxable year. (Section 172 (a).) A net operating loss for taxable years ending after December 31, 1957, may be carried back 3 years and carried over 5 years. The net operating loss must first be carried to the earliest of the 8 taxable years to which it may be carried, then to the next earliest year, etc. The portion of such loss which shall be carried to each of the other 7 taxable years shall be the excess, if any, of the amount of such loss over the sum of the taxable income for each of the prior taxable years to which such loss may be carried. (Section 172 (b).)

The term "net operating loss" means, for taxable years ending after December 31, 1953, the excess of allowable deductions over gross income, computed with the following modifications:

- (a) No net operating loss deduction is allowed.
- (b) The special deductions provided in section 242 (partially tax-exempt interest) and section 922 (Western Hemisphere trade corporations) are not allowed.
- (c) The special deductions allowed by section 243 (dividends received by corporations), section 244 (dividends received on certain preferred stock of public utilities), and section 245 (dividends received from certain foreign corporations) are computed without regard to the 85-percent limitation provided in section 246 (b). See section 1.172-2 of the regulations.
- (d) The special deduction allowed by section 247 (dividends paid on certain preferred stock of public utilities) is computed without regard to the provisions of subsection (a) (1) (B) of such section. (Section 172 (d).)

As stated, the net operating loss deduction is the sum of the carryovers and carrybacks. However, the following modifications must be taken into account in determining the taxable income for any year which must be subtracted from a net operating loss to determine the portion of such loss which will still be available to carry to a subsequent year:

(a) The special deductions provided in sections 242 (partially tax-exempt interest) and 922 (Western Hemisphere trade corporations) are not allowed.

(b) The amount of the net operating loss deduction is determined without regard to the net operating loss for the loss year or any taxable year thereafter.

With respect to all taxable years, whether they begin before, on, or after January 1, 1954, in determining the amount of any net operating loss carryback or carryover to any taxable year, the necessary computations involving any other taxable year must be made under the law applicable to such other taxable year. (Section 172 (e).)

If the corporation desires prompt adjustment for an overpayment attributable to a net operating loss carryback, an application for a tentative adjustment should be filed on Form 1139 within 12 months after the close of the taxable year in which the net operating loss is sustained. (Section 6411.)

For treatment of net operating loss carryovers in certain corporate acquisitions, see section 381.

For special limitation on net operating loss carryovers in case of a corporate change of ownership, see section 382.

Section 852 (b) (2) provides that no net operating loss deduction shall be allowed in the case of a regulated investment company.

30. Special deductions.—See the instructions for Schedule I.

EXPENSE ACCOUNT ALLOWANCES—SCHEDULE E, COLUMN 7

Expense account allowance means: (1) amounts, other than compensation, received as advances or reimbursements, and (2) amounts paid by or for the corporation, for expenses incurred by or on behalf of an officer including all amounts charged through any type of credit card.

However, this term does not include amounts paid for: (a) the purchase of goods for resale or use in your business; (b) incidental expenses, such as the purchase of office supplies for the corporation or local transportation in connection with an errand; and (c) such fringe benefits as hospitalization insurance, approved pension trust funds and unemployment insurance.

Column 7 of Schedule E is to be completed for your 25 highest paid officers. To determine the highest paid officers for this purpose all allowances including expense account allowances as described above must be added to each officer's compensation. Column 7 need not be completed for any officer for which the combined amount is less than $10,000.

The information is to be submitted by each member of an affiliated group which files a consolidated return.

For this purpose an officer is a person who is elected or appointed to office or who is designated as such in the corporation's charter or bylaws such as regular officers, chairman of the board, etc.

SCHEDULE I—SPECIAL DEDUCTIONS

1. Partially tax-exempt interest.—Enter the amount received as interest on obligations of the United States or on obligations of corporations organized under Act of Congress which are instrumentalities of the United States, but only if (1) such interest is included in gross income; and (2) such interest is exempt from normal tax under the Act authorizing the issuance of such obligations. This deduction must be reduced by any amortizable bond premium as provided in section 171.

2. Dividends-received deductions.—(a) Dividends received from a domestic corporation.—Enter an amount equal to 85 percent of the amount received as dividends (except dividends on certain preferred stock of public utilities) from a domestic corporation subject to income tax. Amounts received as dividends from mutual savings banks, cooperative banks, and domestic building and loan associations and allowed as a deduction to such banks or building and loan associations shall not be treated as dividends. In the case of dividends received from a regulated investment company, see section 854 regarding limitations on amount deductible. For taxable years beginning after September 2, 1958, a small business investment company operating under the Small Business Investment Act of 1958 can take as a deduction an amount equal to 100 percent of the dividends received.

(b) Dividends received on certain preferred stock of public utilities.—Enter 62.115 percent of the amount received as dividends on the preferred stock of a public utility which is subject to income tax and is allowed a deduction, as provided in section 247, for dividends paid.

(c) Dividends received from certain foreign corporations.—Enter 85 percent of dividends received from certain foreign corporations. See sections 243 (d) and 245 for qualifications and limitations on the amount of this deduction.

In general, no dividend-received deduction will be allowed on any share of stock (A) which is sold or otherwise disposed of in any case in which the corporation has held such share for 15 days or less, or (B) to the extent the corporation is under an obligation to make corresponding payments with respect to substantially identical stock or securities. Where the stock has preference in dividends, the holding period is 90 days instead of 15 if the corporation receives dividends with respect to such stock which are attributable to a period or periods aggregating in excess of 366 days.

3. Total dividends-received deductions.—In a year in which a net operating loss occurs, sections 172 (d) and 246 (b) provide that the 85-percent limitation on the amount of these special deductions shall not apply. In the case of a small business investment company, the dividends-received deduction of 100 percent reported on line 3 is not subject to the overall 85-percent limitation.

4. Deduction for dividends paid on certain preferred stock of public utilities.—In the case of a public utility there is allowed in accordance with section 247, an amount equal to 26.923 percent of the lesser of (1) the amount of dividends paid on its preferred stock during the taxable year, or (2) the taxable income for the taxable year computed without regard to the deduction provided in section 247. In a year in which a net operating loss occurs, section 172 (d) provides that this special deduction shall be computed without regard to section 247 (a) (1) (B).

5. Deductions for Western Hemisphere trade corporations.—In the case of a Western Hemisphere trade corporation, as defined in section 921, there is allowed under section 922 a deduction equal to 26.923 percent of the taxable income of such corporation computed without regard to the deduction provided in section 922. Under the provisions of section 172 (d), this special deduction is not allowed in a year in which a net operating loss occurs.

TAX COMPUTATION INSTRUCTIONS

1. Normal tax.—Section 11 provides a normal tax for taxable years beginning before July 1, 1961, equal to 30 percent of taxable income. In the case of a taxable year beginning after June 30, 1961, the normal tax is equal to 25 percent of taxable income.

2. Surtax.—Section 11 provides a surtax equal to 22 percent of the amount by which the taxable income (computed without regard to the deduction, if any, provided in section 242 for partially tax-exempt interest) exceeds $25,000.

3. Exceptions.—The tax imposed by section 11 shall not apply to a corporation subject to a tax imposed by—(1) section 594 (relating to mutual savings banks conducting life insurance business), (2) subchapter L (section 801 and following, relating to insurance companies), (3) subchapter M (section 851 and following, relating to regulated investment companies), or (4) section 881 (a) (relating to foreign corporations not engaged in business in United States).

4. Change in accounting period.—Under the provisions of section 443 (b) (1) if a corporation changes its accounting period, the taxable income for the short period beginning on the day after the close of the former taxable year and ending at the close of the day before the day designated as the first day of the new taxable year shall be placed on an annual basis by multiplying the amount thereof by 12 and dividing by the number of months in the short period. The tax shall be that same part of the tax computed on the annual basis which the number of months in the short period is of 12 months.

However, taxpayers may elect to compute the tax for the short period according to the method described below if an application to do so is filed not later than the date when (giving effect to any extensions granted) the return for the first full taxable year after the beginning of the short period must be filed. (Section 443 (b) (2).) For details concerning the form and content of such an application, consult your District Director.

If a proper application is filed, the taxpayer may elect to pay whichever tax under the following two methods is greater, in place of the short period tax under section 443 (b) (1): (1) Establish the actual taxable income for the 12 months beginning with the first day of the short period; then compute the tax on that income. Then determine as a short period tax that part of the tax so computed which bears the same proportion to the total tax so computed as the taxable income of the short period bears to the taxable income of the 12 months. However, a taxpayer which distributes substantially all its assets before the end of the 12-month period described above, shall employ in the above computation the 12-month period ending with the last day of the short period. (2) Compute a tax on the taxable income of the short period as if the short period were a full taxable year.

In annualizing income of a short period consisting of 7 days or more, but less than 359 days, by reason of a change to a 52-53-week fiscal year, the annualization is made on a daily basis as provided in section 441 (f) (2) (B) (iii).

5. Consolidated returns.—Section 1503 provides that the tax imposed under section 11 (c) or section 831 shall be increased for any taxable year for which an affiliated group of includible corporations makes or is required to make a consolidated return by 2 percent of the consolidated taxable income (computed without regard to the deduction, if any, provided in section 242 for partially tax-exempt interest). If the affiliated group includes one or more Western Hemisphere trade corporations or one or more regulated public utilities, the increase of 2 percent shall be applied only on the amount by which the consolidated taxable income of the affiliated group exceeds the portion (if any) of the consolidated taxable income attributable to the Western Hemisphere trade corporations and regulated public utilities included in such group.

6. Insurance companies other than life or mutual.—All insurance companies (other than life or mutual insurance companies), including mutual marine insurance companies and mutual fire insurance companies exclusively issuing either perpetual policies or policies for which the sole premium charged is a single deposit, are subject to the taxes imposed by section 11. The taxable income of such insurance companies is defined in section 832 and differs from the taxable income of other corporations. This paragraph does not apply to foreign insurance companies not carrying on an insurance business within the United States. (Section 831.)

7. Life insurance departments of mutual savings banks.—A mutual savings bank not having capital stock represented by shares, authorized under State law to conduct a life insurance business and which conducts such business in a separate department the accounts of which are maintained separately from the accounts of other departments of the bank is taxable under section 594 provided the life insurance department would, if it were treated as a separate corporation, qualify as a life insurance company under section 801.

The tax consists of the sum of—(1) a partial tax computed under section 11 upon the taxable income of the bank determined without regard to any items of gross income or deductions properly allocable to the business of the life insurance department; and (2) a partial tax upon the taxable income (computed as provided in section 802) of the life insurance department determined without regard to any items of gross income or deductions not properly allocable to such department, at the rates and in the manner provided in subchapter L with respect to life insurance companies.

Tax computation.—For the purpose of computing the first partial tax, a mutual savings bank should use Form 1120, filling in all applicable items (except lines 5 and 7) and schedules. The first partial tax should be computed by using lines 1 to 5. For the purpose of computing the second partial tax Form 1120L should be used. The first partial tax should be added to the second partial tax and the sum thereof entered on line 5 as the total income tax. Subtract from line 5 the sum of any credits on line 6 and enter on line 7 the balance of income tax. Form 1120L properly filled in should be attached to and made a part of Form 1120 and properly identified as an accompanying schedule. However, any Form 1120L so used need not be separately executed under the penalty of perjury.

8. Credit for taxes.—If, in accordance with section 901, a credit is claimed by a domestic corporation on line 6 (Tax Computation), page 3, on account of income, war profits and excess profits taxes paid or accrued to a foreign country or a possession of the United States, Form 1118 should be submitted with the return. In case credit is sought for taxes accrued but not paid, the District Director may require a bond on Form 1119 as a condition precedent to the allowance of the credit. For carryback and carryover of a foreign tax credit, see section 904 (c).

If the corporation is entitled to a credit for taxes paid by a regulated investment company on undistributed capital gains, include the credit on line 33 (b), page 1, and indicate by amount that such a credit is being claimed. Attach Copy B of Form 2439 to page 1 of the Form 1120.

9. Overpayment credited to estimated tax.—If the taxpayer elects to have all or part of the overpayment shown by his return applied to his estimated tax for his succeeding taxable year, no interest shall be allowed on such portion of the overpayment credited.

10. Regulated investment companies.—For provisions relating to the method of taxation of regulated investment companies, see sections 851 through 855.

PRINCIPAL BUSINESS ACTIVITY

In reporting the "Principal business activity," on page 1, give the one business activity that accounts for the largest percentage of "total receipts." "Total receipts" means gross receipts (line 1), plus all other income (lines 4 through 9). State the broad field of business activity as well as the specific product or service, such as "Mining copper," "Manufacturing cotton broad woven fabric," "Wholesale meat," or "Retail apparel." Where receipts are derived from two or more of the detailed industry groups listed below, show only the one which is the major source of receipts. Use the appropriate group under the heading "FINANCE" if over 50 percent of "total receipts" consists of investment income.

Enter the business group "code number" on page 1 from the following list. Give the code for the specific industry group from which the largest percentage of "total receipts" is derived.

Gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets and other property.—Report sales or exchanges of capital assets and sales or exchanges of property other than capital assets in Schedule D. Every sale or exchange of property, even though no gain or loss may be indicated, must be reported in detail.

Losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets shall be allowed only to the extent of gains from such sales or exchanges. However, the amount of a net capital loss sustained in any taxable year may be carried over to each of the five succeeding taxable years and treated in each such succeeding taxable year as a short-term capital loss to the extent not allowed as a deduction against any net capital gains of any taxable year intervening between the taxable year in which the net capital loss was sustained and the taxable year to which carried.

Definition of capital assets.—The term "capital assets" means property held by the taxpayer (whether or not connected with its trade or business), but does not include (1) stock in trade of the taxpayer or other property of a kind which would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of its trade or business; or (2) property used in the trade or business, of a character which is subject to the allowance for depreciation provided in section 167, or real property used in the trade or business of the taxpayer; or (3) certain copyrights, literary, musical, or artistic compositions, or similar properties; or (4) accounts or notes receivable acquired in the ordinary course of trade or business for services rendered or from the sale of property described in (1) above; or (5) an obligation of the United States or any of its possessions, or of a State or Territory, or any political subdivision thereof, or of the District of Columbia, issued on or after March 1, 1941, on a discount basis and payable without interest at a fixed maturity date not exceeding 1 year from the date of issue.

Classification of capital gains and losses.—The phrase "short-term" applies to the category of gains and losses arising from the sale or exchange of capital assets held for 6 months or less, and the phrase "long-term" to the category of gains and losses arising from the sale or exchange of capital assets held for more than 6 months.

Enter full description of each item of property sold or exchanged, even though no gain or loss may be indicated. Such description should include the following facts: (a) For real estate, location and description of land, description of improvements, details explaining depreciation; (b) for bonds or other evidences of indebtedness, name of issuing corporation, description of the particular issue, denomination, and amount; (c) for stocks, name of issuing corporation, class of stock, number of shares, and capital changes affecting basis (nontaxable stock dividends, other nontaxable distributions, stock rights, etc.).

The "basis" for the property is not subject to the same rule for reporting gains as for losses, if the property was acquired before March 1, 1913. If the property sold or exchanged was acquired prior to March 1, 1913, the basis for determining GAIN is the cost or the fair market value as of March 1, 1913, adjusted as provided in section 1016, whichever is greater, but in determining LOSS the basis is cost so adjusted. If property was acquired after February 28, 1913, basis for both gain and loss is the cost of such property, except as otherwise provided. The exceptions arise chiefly where property was acquired by bequest, gift, tax-free exchange, involuntary conversion, or wash sale of stock; see sections 1014, 1015, 1031, 1033, and 1091, respectively. If the amount shown as the basis is other than actual cash cost of the property sold or exchanged, full details must be furnished regarding the acquisition of the property.

Enter in column "e," the amount of depreciation, exhaustion, wear and tear, obsolescence, amortization and depletion in respect of the property. This amount shall be the sum of the following:

(a) The amount of depreciation, exhaustion, wear and tear, obsolescence, amortization, and depletion which has been allowed (but not less than the amount allowable) in respect of such property since date of acquisition, or since February 28, 1913, if the property was acquired before that date. For any period after December 31, 1951, the amount of depreciation, etc., allowed (and which is in excess of the amount allowable) shall be disregarded to the extent that such excess does not result in a reduction for any taxable year of the taxpayer's income or excess profits taxes. In respect of any period after February 28, 1913, and before January 1, 1952, the taxpayer may disregard depreciation, etc., which was in excess of the amount allowable and which did not result in reduction of income or excess profits taxes only if an election is made in accordance with regulations. See section 1020; and

(b) The amount of depreciation, exhaustion, wear and tear, obsolescence, amortization, and depletion actually sustained prior to March 1, 1913, if the property was acquired before that date.

Subsequent improvements to be entered in column "f" include expenditures for additions, improvements, renewals, and replacements made to restore the property or prolong its useful life. Do not include ordinary repairs, interest, or taxes in column "f" or elsewhere in computing gain or loss.

If emergency facilities are sold or exchanged, see section 1238.

Losses on securities becoming worthless.—If any securities (as defined below) become worthless within the taxable year and are capital assets, the loss resulting therefrom shall, in the case of a taxpayer other than a bank, as defined in section 581, be considered as a loss from the sale or exchange, on the last day of such taxable year, of capital assets. Section 165(g) (1).

Definition of security.—For the purpose of determining capital losses under section 165, the term "security" means a share of stock in a corporation; a right to subscribe for, or to receive, a share of stock in a corporation; or a bond, debenture, note, or certificate, or other evidence of indebtedness, issued by a corporation or by a government or political subdivision thereof, with interest coupons or in registered form. However, securities issued by certain affiliated corporations shall not be deemed capital assets. Section 165 (g) (3).

Losses not allowable.—No loss shall be recognized in any sale or other disposition of shares of stock or securities where there has been acquired substantially identical stock or securities, or there has been entered into a contract or option to acquire substantially identical stock or securities, within 30 days before or after the date of such sale or disposition, except in cases of dealers in stocks and securities which have sustained the loss in a transaction made in the ordinary course of business. Section 1091.

Except in the case of distributions in liquidation, no deduction shall be allowed in respect of losses from sales or exchanges of property, directly or indirectly, between an individual and a corporation in which such individual owns, directly or indirectly, more than 50 percent in value of the outstanding stock; or (except in the case of distributions in liquidation) between two corporations more than 50 percent in value of the outstanding stock of each of which is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for the same individual, if either one of such corporations, with respect to the taxable year of the corporation preceding the date of the sale or exchange was, under the law applicable to such taxable year, (1) a personal holding company, as defined in section 542, or (2) a foreign personal holding company, as defined in section 552. (For the purpose of determining the ownership of stock, in applying this paragraph, see section 267.)

Gain on sales by a "controlled" corporation.—In the case of a sale or exchange, directly or indirectly, of property between an individual and a corporation more than 80 percent in value of the outstanding stock of which is owned by such individual, his spouse, and his minor children and minor grandchildren, any gain recognized to the transferor from such sale or exchange shall be treated as gain from the sale or exchange of property which is neither a capital asset nor property described in section 1231, if such property in the hands of the transferee is depreciable under section 167. Section 1239.

Gains and losses from involuntary conversion and from the sale or exchange of certain property used in the trade or business.—The term "property used in the trade or business," as used in section 1231, means property which has been held more than 6 months, which is used in the trade or business, and which is either real property or property subject to depreciation under section 167, and which is not (a) property of a kind which would properly be includible in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, (b) property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of its trade or business, or (c) certain copyrights or similar properties. Such term also includes timber and coal with respect to which section 631 applies as well as unharvested crops to which section 1231 (b) (4) applies. Such term also includes livestock (but not poultry) held for draft, breeding, or dairy purposes and held for 12 months or more from the date of acquisition.

Section 1231 provides special treatment for the gains and losses upon the sale or exchange of "property used in the trade or business" and upon the compulsory or involuntary conversion of (1) such property and (2) capital assets held for more than 6 months. Such gains and losses during the taxable year are treated as gains and losses from the sale or exchange of capital assets held for more than 6 months, if the aggregate of such gains exceeds the aggregate of such losses. If, however, such gains do not exceed such losses, such gains and losses shall not be treated as gains and losses from the sale or exchange of capital assets.

In determining whether gains do or do not exceed losses, it is necessary to include the gains and losses to the extent that they would be included if they were all ordinary gains and losses. The limitation of section 1211 on the deductibility of capital losses does not operate to exclude any such losses from the computation as to the excess of gains over losses, but all such losses are included in full. The total shown on line 2 determines whether the items reflected therein represent a long-term capital gain or an ordinary loss. The total must be entered on the first line of the appropriate Schedules of Part II or Part III.

For special treatment of gain or loss upon the cutting of timber, or upon the disposal of timber or coal under a contract by which the owner retains an economic interest in such timber or coal, see section 631.

Long-term capital gains from regulated investment companies.—Include in income as a long-term capital gain the amount the corporation has been notified constitutes its share of the undistributed capital gains of a regulated investment company. See Instruction 8 of Tax Computation Instructions, Form 1120, for method of claiming credit of tax paid on such gains.

Additional Instructions For Insurance Companies Using This Schedule

Companies taxable under section 831 and having losses from capital assets sold or exchanged in order to obtain funds to meet abnormal insurance losses, etc., shall attach a schedule corresponding to Schedule B, Form 1120M.

For companies taxable under section 831 or section 821, "net capital loss" means the amount by which the losses for the taxable year from sales or exchanges of capital assets exceed the sum of the gains from such sales or exchanges and the lesser of (1) the taxable income (computed without regard to gains or losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets or to the deduction for partially tax-

Alternative tax.—If for any taxable year the net long-term capital gain exceeds the net short-term capital loss, or if there is only a net long-term capital gain, section 1201 imposes an alternative tax in lieu of the normal tax and surtax imposed upon taxable income, if any, only if such tax is less than the tax imposed by section 11 (relating to normal tax and surtax on corporations), sections 821 and 831 (relating to normal tax and surtax on insurance companies, other than life insurance companies), or section 511 (a) (1) (relating to taxation of business income of certain organizations described in section 511 (a) (2)). The alternative tax is the sum of (1) a partial tax, computed at the normal tax and surtax rates on the taxable income decreased by the amount of the excess of the net long-term capital gain over the net short-term capital loss, and (2) 25 percent of such excess.

If the corporation computes an alternative tax under section 1201 and is entitled to special deductions for dividends received (sections 243, 244, 245), the special deduction for dividends paid (section 247), the special deduction for a Western Hemisphere trade corporation (section 922), or the special deduction for a China Trade Act corporation (section 941), such special deductions are to be based upon taxable income including the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss.

Bonds, etc., losses of banks.—In the case of a bank, as defined in section 581, if the losses in the taxable year from sales or exchanges of bonds, debentures, notes, or certificates, or other evidences of indebtedness, issued by any corporation (including one issued by a government or political subdivision thereof) exceed the gains from such sales or exchanges, such excess shall be considered as an ordinary loss and deductible in full against other income. Section 582.

Dealers in securities. Capital gains and ordinary losses.—Under the provisions of section 1236, gain by a dealer in securities from the sale or exchange of a security, as defined in section 1236, shall in no event be considered as gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset unless (a) the security was, before the expiration of the thirtieth day after the date of its acquisition, clearly identified in the dealer's records as a security held for investment or, if acquired before October 20, 1951, was so identified before November 20, 1951; and (b) the security was not, at any time after the expiration of such thirtieth day, held by the dealer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of trade or business. A loss from the sale or exchange of a security shall, if section 582 (c) is not applicable, be considered a capital loss if at any time after November 19, 1951, the security was clearly identified in the dealer's records as a security held for investment.

Short sales of capital assets.—For rules regarding tax consequences of certain short sales of stock or other securities (including those dealt with on a "when issued" basis), and transactions in commodity futures, see section 1233.

exempt interest provided in section 242) or (2) losses from the sale or exchange of capital assets sold or exchanged to obtain funds to meet abnormal insurance losses and to provide for the payment of dividends and similar distributions to policyholders.

For companies taxable under section 821, all references to "line" numbers, Form 1120, shall be considered as references to the appropriate "line" in Form 1120M.

Life insurance companies taxable under section 802, see Schedule D (Form 1120L).

How To Prepare Your 1960 U.S. Income Tax Return of Foreign Corporation on Form 1120-F

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

A. Corporations required to make a return on Form 1120-F.—All foreign corporations (except a foreign life insurance company subject to the tax imposed by section 802 and foreign mutual insurance companies subject to the tax imposed by section 821) doing business within the United States or receiving income from sources within the United States consisting of fixed or determinable annual or periodical income and amounts described in section 631(b) and (c) (relating to disposal of timber and coal with a retained economic interest) which are considered to be capital gains must file Form 1120-F. The term "foreign corporation" means a corporation not created or organized in the United States or under the law of the United States or of any State.

If a receiver, trustee in dissolution, trustee in bankruptcy, or assignee has possession of or holds title to all or substantially all the property or business of a corporation, whether or not the property or business is being operated, he must make a return of income for the corporation in the same manner and form required of other corporations. (Section 6012.)

B. Period to be covered by return.—Returns shall be filed for the calendar year 1960 or fiscal year beginning in 1960 and ending in 1961. A fiscal year is an accounting period of 12 months ending on the last day of a calendar month other than December, but if a taxpayer has made the election provided in section 441(f), the term "fiscal year" means an annual period varying from 52 to 53 weeks. If a taxpayer has no annual accounting period, or keeps no books, or has an accounting period which does not qualify as a fiscal year, the return must be filed for the calendar year, except as provided in section 443.

For the procedure to follow in changing an established accounting period, see your District Director.

C. Personal holding companies.—A foreign corporation which is a personal holding company, as defined in section 542 but not within the definition of section 552, is subject to the tax imposed by section 541 on undistributed personal holding company income. Section 541 imposes a tax upon the undistributed personal holding company income (as defined in section 545) of corporations classified as personal holding companies. Every foreign corporation which is a personal holding company under section 542 must file a schedule 1120 PH with its return on Form 1120-F.

Under the provisions of section 542, a corporation is a "personal holding company" if at least 80 percent of its gross income for the taxable year is personal holding company income as definied in section 543, and if at any time during the last half of the taxable year more than 50 percent in value of its outstanding stock is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for not more than five individuals. (Sections 541-547.)

D. Foreign personal holding companies.—Section 551(a) requires that the undistributed foreign personal holding company income of a foreign personal holding company, as defined in section 552, shall be included as a dividend in the gross income of the United States shareholders in the amount provided by subsection (b). Schedule 1120 PH is not required, but information returns on Forms 957 and 958 must be filed by the officers, directors, and certain United States shareholders as provided by section 6035 and the regulations thereunder.

E. Signature and verification.—The return must be signed either by the president, vice president, treasurer, assistant treasurer or chief accounting officer, or by any other corporate officer (such as tax officer) who is authorized to sign. A receiver, trustee, or assignee must sign any return which he is required to file on behalf of a corporation. The return must also be signed by any person, firm, or corporation who prepared the taxpayer's return for compensation. If the return is prepared by a firm or corporation, it should be signed in the name of the firm or corporation. This verification is not required if the return is prepared by a regular, full-time employee of the taxpayer.

F. Failure to file, etc.—Substantial additions to the tax are imposed for failing to file a return, for late filing, and for filing a false or fraudulent return.

G. Classes of foreign corporations.—For purposes of the income tax, foreign corporations are divided into two classes, namely, nonresident foreign corporations and resident foreign corporations. A nonresident foreign corporation is a foreign corporation which is not engaged in trade or business within the United States at any time during the taxable year. A resident foreign corporation is a foreign corporation which, at some time during the taxable year, is engaged in trade or business within the United States.

H. Stock ownership in foreign corporations.—A corporation owning directly or indirectly any stock of a foreign corporation must attach a statement showing the name and address of each company and the total number of shares of each class of outstanding stock owned during the taxable year. If the corporation owned 5 percent or more in value of the outstanding stock of a foreign personal holding company, attach a statement setting forth in complete detail the information required by section 551(d).

NONRESIDENT FOREIGN CORPORATIONS

(a) Requirement for filing.—Every foreign corporation not engaged in trade or business within the United States at any time during the taxable year must file a return of income on the gross amount received as fixed or determinable annual or periodical gains, profits, and income from sources within the United States. If the tax liability is fully satisfied at the source, a return of income is not required. (For exception, see instruction (d).)

(b) Fixed or determinable annual or periodic income.—Such income includes, but is not limited to, interest, dividends, rents, annuities, royalties, and the share of the fixed or determinable annual or periodic income of an estate or trust which is required to be distributed currently, or which has been paid or credited during the taxable year, to a beneficiary of such estate or trust.

(c) Engage in trade or business within the United States.—This phrase does not include the effecting, through a resident broker, commission agent, or custodian, of transactions in the United States in stocks or securities, or in commodities (if of a kind customarily dealt in on an organized commodity exchange, if the transaction is of the kind customarily consummated at such place, and if the foreign corporation has no office or place of business in the United States at any time during the taxable year through which or by the direction of which such transactions in commodities are effected).

(d) Claim for refund.—Where this form is being used as a claim for refund, include all income from sources within the United States even though the tax thereon has been fully satisfied at the source except where the refund results solely from the credit for the tax paid by a regulated investment company on undistributed capital gains. Where the refund results solely from such credit, enter the amount claimed on lines 2(d) and 4, page 1, and attach Copy B of Form 2439; no entries on lines 1 through 11, page 2, are required. Where such refund is reduced by any additional tax due on items of income upon which the tax has not been fully satisfied at the source, the items creating the reduction of the refund must also be shown on the appropriate lines on pages 1 and 2.

(e) Filing of return and payment of tax.—A nonresident foreign corporation is required to file only pages 1 and 2 of this return. The return must be filed with the Director of International Operations, Internal Revenue Service, Washington 25, D.C., on or before the 15th day of the sixth month following the close of the taxable year. The tax must be paid in full when the return is filed; or in two installments, as follows: 50 percent on or before the 15th day of the sixth month and 50 percent on or before the 15th day of the ninth month following the close of the taxable year. If any installment is not paid on or before the date fixed for its payment, the whole amount of the tax unpaid shall be paid upon notice and demand.

(f) Items exempt from tax.—The following items of income are exempt, except where otherwise indicated, from United States income tax and should not be included in gross income:

(1) The proceeds of life insurance policies, paid by reason of the death of the insured. If any part of the proceeds is held by the insurer under an agreement to pay interest, the interest is taxable; however, see section 101(d). Amounts received under a life insurance or endowment policy, not payable by reason of the death of the insured, are included in gross income to the extent provided in section 72;

(2) Interest upon (1) the obligations of a State, territory, or a possession of the United States, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia; or (2) bonds, notes and certificates of indebtedness of the United States issued prior to March 1, 1941, and beneficially owned by foreign corporation not engaged in business in the United States; or (3) obligations of instrumentalities of the United States issued prior to March 1, 1941, if and to the extent exempted from tax by the acts under which such obligations were issued. If the corporation owned at any time during the taxable year any of the obligations described in this paragraph attach to the return a statement showing the number and amount of such obligations, the period during which owned, and the income received therefrom;

(3) Interest on deposits with persons, including individuals, partnerships, or corporations, carrying on the banking business, paid to persons not engaged in business within the United States;

(4) Interest from sources without the United States, determined under the provisions of section 862;

(5) Dividends from domestic corporations constituting income from sources without the United States, determined under the provisions of section 862;

(6) Dividends from a foreign corporation to the extent that they constitute income from sources without the United States, determined under the provisions of section 862; and

(7) Income to the extent exempt by tax convention (see Tax Conventions below).

(g) Income to be included.—All income from sources within the United States consisting of fixed or determinable annual or periodic income and amounts described in section 631(b) and (c) which are considered to be capital gains is includible where the tax liability is NOT fully satisfied at the source.

Some of the items upon which the tax liability will not have been fully satisfied at the source are interest received during the year in connection with so-called tax-free covenant bonds upon which a tax of 2 percent was paid at the source, accrued interest received in connection with the sale of bonds between interest dates, and dividends received from a foreign corporation where 50 percent or more of the gross income of such foreign corporation for the 3-year period ending with the close of its taxable year preceding the declaration of such dividends (or for such part of such period as such corporation has been in existence) was derived from sources within the United States as determined under the provisions of sections 861 through 864, such dividends being treated as gross income from sources within the United States in an amount which bears the same ratio to such dividends as the gross income of such corporation for such period derived from sources within the United States bears to its gross income from all sources.

(h) Tax computation.—Section 881 provides a tax of 30 percent. However, if a taxpayer is a resident of, or a corporation created under the laws of any country shown under the heading of Tax Conventions below, refer to the income tax convention entered into by the United States with your respective country in order to ascertain the exemption from, and reduced rates of, United States income tax to which you may be entitled under the convention with your country.

RESIDENT FOREIGN CORPORATIONS

(a) Requirement for filing.—Every foreign corporation, which at some time during the taxable year engaged in trade or business within the United States must file a return of income from sources within the United States, consisting of the items of gross income specified in section 861(a) plus the items of gross income allocated or apportioned to such sources in accordance with section 863.

(b) Accounting methods.—Taxable income shall be computed in accordance with the method of accounting regularly used by the taxpayer in maintaining its books and records. In all cases the method adopted should clearly reflect taxable income. The basic methods of accounting are the "cash receipts and disbursements method" and the "accrual method." Section 446 permits the use of these methods or any other method permitted under the Code or any combination of these methods in accordance with regulations. If a taxpayer engages in more than one trade or business, it may, with respect to each trade or business, use a different method of accounting. Each method must, however, clearly reflect the income of the particular trade or business with which it is used, and separate profit and loss statements for each trade or business must be submitted. Except in those cases where the law specifically permits it, a taxpayer may not change the method of accounting upon the basis of which it has reported its income in prior years (for its income as a whole or with respect to any separate trade or business) without first securing consent. For procedure to be followed in securing consent, see your District Director.

Cash receipts and disbursements method.—Under this method, a taxpayer includes all items of taxable income (whether cash, property, or services) in the year when it is actually or constructively received and claims as deductible expenses only those expenses actually paid. Income is constructively received when the amount is credited to the taxpayer's account, or set aside for it, and is unconditionally subject to its command. This includes uncashed checks, bank interest credited, matured bond coupons, and other similar items which can be immediately turned into cash. Do not deduct capital expenditures.

Accrual method.—Under this method income is reported in the year when the taxpayer first has a definite right to income, the amount of which can be ascertained with reasonable accuracy while deductions are taken in the year in which there is first established a specific liability, the amount of which can be ascertained with reasonable accuracy. Where the right to income or the liability for expense is uncertain, or the amount of such income or expense cannot be ascertained with reasonable accuracy, accrual is generally postponed until a determination is possible.

Other methods.—Separate provisions are contained in section 453 for installment method of accounting. For other information on accounting methods, see your District Director.

Rounding off to whole-dollar amounts.—If you wish, the money items on your return or accompanying schedules required by such return may be shown as whole-dollar amounts. This means that you eliminate any amount less than 50 cents, and increase any amount from 50 cents through 99 cents to the next highest dollar.

(c) Filing of return and payment of tax.—Returns of corporations must be filed on or before the 15th day of the third month following the close of the taxable year with the District Director of Internal Revenue for the district in which the corporation's principal place of business or principal office or agency is located. (Section 6072.)

Request for automatic extension of 3 months for filing of return must be made on Form 7004. (Section 6081(b).)

The balance of tax due as shown on line 3, page 1, of the return, must be paid in full when the return is filed or in two installments, 50 percent on or before the 15th day of the third month and 50 percent on or before the 15th day of the sixth month following the close of the taxable year.

If any installment is not paid on or before the date fixed for its payment, the whole amount of the tax unpaid shall be paid upon notice and demand by the District Director. The tax may be paid in cash or by check or money order drawn to the order of "Internal Revenue Service." Cash payment should be made only in person at the District Director's office.

A declaration of estimated tax must be made by every corporation which is subject to income tax under section 11 or 1201 (a), if its income tax for the taxable year can reasonably be expected to exceed $100,000 plus the amount of any estimated credits against tax. (See Form 1120 ES.)

Additional charge for underpayment of estimated tax.—Underpayment of installments of estimated tax will result in additional charges for the period from the due date of each installment until paid, or until the due date for filing the tax return, whichever is the earlier.

The charge with respect to any underpayment of any installment is mandatory and will be made unless the exceptions specified in section 6655(d) are applicable.

If you have an underpayment of estimated tax and believe the additional charge should not be asserted due to the applicability of the "relief provisions" of section 6655(d), attach a statement to your return explaining which of the provisions applies to you, showing any necessary computations. If you wish, you may obtain Form 2220 from the nearest Internal Revenue Service office for this purpose.

(d) Information at the source.—Every corporation making payments to a United States citizen, resident individual, partnership, or fiduciary in the course of its trade or business of (1) interest, rents, commissions, or other fixed or determinable income of $600 or more during the calendar year 1960, or (2) salaries or wages of $600 or more shall make returns on Forms

1096 and 1099, except that the making of such returns will not be required with respect to salary or wage payments included on Form W-2, provided copies of withholding statements on Form W-2 are furnished. If a portion of such salary or wage payments was reported on a Withholding Statement (Form W-2), only the remainder must be reported on Form 1099.

Except as stated below, the returns on Forms 1096 and 1099 shall also include dividend payments totaling $10 or more during the calendar year 1960 to each shareholder who is an individual (citizen or resident of the United States), a resident fiduciary, or a resident partnership any member of which is a citizen or resident.

In the case of payments by a building and loan association, a cooperative bank, a homestead association, a credit union, or a savings and loan association, such total shall be $600 or more. In the case of payments by a corporation described in sections 501(c)(12), (15), (16), 521 and 522, or in the case of a national farm loan association or a production credit association, such total shall be $100 or more.

The returns on Forms 1096 and 1099 shall also include (except in the case of insurance companies taxable under subchapter L and corporations exempt under section 501(c)(12) or (15)) patronage dividends, rebates, and refunds totaling $100 or more during the calendar year 1960, whether in cash, merchandise, capital stock, revolving fund certificates, retain certificates, certificates of indebtedness, letters of advice, or in some other manner.

Payments made which are subject to withholding at source under the provisions of sections 1441 and 1442 must be reported on Forms 1042 and 1042 S.

(e) Certain transfers of property on or after January 1, 1951.—Under certain circumstances the $25,000 exemption from surtax and the $100,000 accumulated earnings credit are not allowed or may be reduced to a lesser figure. Section 1551 provides that if a corporation on or after January 1, 1951, transfers all or part of its property (other than money) to another corporation which was created for the purpose of acquiring such property or which was not actively engaged in business at the time of such acquisition and if after such transfer the transferor corporation or its stockholders, or both, are in control of such transferee corporation during any part of the taxable year of such transferee corporation, the transferee corporation shall not for such taxable year (except as may be otherwise determined under section 269(b)) be allowed either the $25,000 exemption from surtax provided in section 11(c) or the $100,000 accumulated earnings credit provided in section 535(c), unless such transferee corporation shall establish by the clear preponderance of the evidence that the securing of such exemption or credit was not a major purpose of such transfer. For the purposes of section 1551, control means the ownership of stock possessing at least 80 percent of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote or at least 80 percent of the total value of shares of all classes of stock of the corporation. Rules are provided in sections 544 and 1551 for determining ownership of stock. For allocation of the surtax exemption and the accumulated earnings credit in certain cases, see section 269(b).

(f) Information regarding renegotiable contracts.—Every corporation which held, during the taxable year, contracts or subcontracts which were subject to the Renegotiation Act of 1951 shall, in answer to question E, page 3, state the actual or, if not accurately determinable, its best estimate of the aggregate gross dollar amount billed during the current taxable year under all contracts and/or subcontracts.

(g) Consolidated returns.—Except in the case of certain corporations organized under the laws of Canada or Mexico and maintained solely for the purpose of complying with the laws of such country as to title and operation of property, a foreign corporation is not an includible corporation for purposes of the privilege of making a consolidated return by an affiliated group of corporations.

(h) Tax on improperly accumulated earnings.—In order to prevent accumulation of earnings and profits for the purpose of enabling shareholders to avoid the tax on individuals, section 531 provides an additional tax upon the accumulated taxable income of corporations formed or availed of for the purpose of such tax avoidance.

(j) Balance sheets.—The balance sheets, schedule L, should agree with the books of account or any differences should be reconciled. All corporations reporting to any National, State, municipal, or other public officer, may submit, in lieu of schedule L, copies of their balance sheets prescribed by such authorities as at the beginning and end of the taxable year.

Line 11, schedule L, should show land less any accumulated amortization of the land as an emergency facility under the authority of section 168.

(k) Attachments.—Attachments may be used in the preparation of your return and supplemental schedules, provided they

SPECIFIC INSTRUCTIONS (Numbered to

The gross income of a resident foreign corporation includes every item of gross income from sources within the United States. Except as may otherwise be provided by tax convention, the sources of the income for that purpose are determined in accordance with the provisions of sections 861 to 864, inclusive, and the regulations thereunder.

2. Cost of goods sold.—If the production, manufacture, purchase, or sale of merchandise is an income-determining factor in the trade or business, inventories of merchandise on hand should be taken at the beginning and end of the taxable year, and may be valued at cost, or at cost or market, whichever is lower, or by any other permissible method.

An inventory method once properly adopted is controlling until permission to change is obtained from the Commissioner. Application for permission to change an inventory method shall be made in writing and filed with the Commissioner within 90 days after the beginning of the taxable year in which it is desired to effect a change. In case the inventories reported do not agree with the balance sheet, attach a statement explaining the difference.

A corporation electing to use the last-in, first-out method of valuing inventory provided for in section 472 must file Form 970 with the return for the first year of the election. Thereafter, attach separate schedule showing: (1) a summary of all inventories; (2) with respect to any inventories computed under section 472, the computation of the quantities and cost by acquisition levels.

Cost of operations (where inventories are not an income-determining factor).—If the amount entered on line 2 includes an amount applicable to cost of operations, attach a schedule showing: (1) Salaries and wages; and (2) other costs in detail.

5. Interest on obligations of the United States, etc.—Enter the interest on line 5; and in schedule L, the amounts of the various obligations owned. Also enter on line 3, schedule M, all interest received or accrued during the year on the various obligations listed therein. The net amount of interest reported on line 5(a) is also allowable as a deduction. See the instructions for schedule I. The amount of interest received or accrued on obligations issued after February 28, 1941, by the United States or any agency or instrumentality thereof should be entered on line 5(b). For provisions relating to amortizable bond premiums, see section 171.

For special rules applicable to dealers in securities, with respect to premium attributable to certain tax-exempt securities, see section 75.

Non-interest-bearing obligations issued at a discount.—Taxpayers on the cash basis may elect, as to all non-interest-bearing obligations issued at a discount and redeemable for fixed amounts increasing at stated intervals (for example, United States Savings Bonds), to include the increase in redemption price applicable to the current year. For the year of election the total increase in redemption price of such obligations occurring between the date of acquisition and the end of the year must be included. Attach statement listing obligations owned and computation of the increase. (Section 454.)

6. Other interest.—Enter on line 6, the amount of interest on loans, notes, mortgages, bonds, bank deposits, corporate bonds, etc. The term "corporate bonds" includes bonds, debentures, notes, certificates of indebtedness, or other evidences of indebtedness issued by any corporation and bearing interest, with interest coupons or in registered form. For provisions relating to amortizable bond premium, see section 171.

7. (a) Rents.—Enter the gross amount received for the rent of property. Any expenses, including repairs, interest, taxes, and depreciation should be included in the proper lines for deductions. In the case of a lease entered into prior to January 1, 1954, if both lessor and lessee are corporations and if under the lease the lessee is obligated to pay any part of the lessor's income tax on the rental payment, this tax is excluded from lessor's gross income and may not be deducted by lessee. (Section 110.)

(b) Royalties.—Enter the gross amount received as royalties. If a deduction is claimed for depletion, it must be reported on line 22.

8. Gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets and other property.—The computation of gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets and property other than capital assets should be made on separate Schedule D (Form 1120) and filed with Form 1120-F. Every sale or exchange of contain all of the required information and that summarized totals of the items shown in the attachments are entered on the return and schedules. This does not apply to any tax computation portion of a form or schedule.

property, even though no gain or loss is indicated, must be reported in detail. If for any taxable year the net long-term capital gain exceeds the net short-term capital loss, or in case of only a net long-term capital gain, a computation of the alternative tax should be made on separate schedule D.

9. Other income.—Enter total amount of other income not reported elsewhere in the return and attach schedule showing details.

Deductions.—In computing the taxable income of a resident foreign corporation the deductions otherwise allowable shall be allowed only if, and to the extent that, they are connected with income from sources within the United States. For this purpose, the proper apportionment and allocation of the deductions with respect to sources of income within and without the United States is determined in the same manner as provided with respect to nonresident alien individuals. See section 1.873-1 of the regulations. Notwithstanding the rule of source, a resident foreign corporation is allowed the deduction for charitable contributions and gifts, to the extent allowed by section 170, whether or not the deduction is connected with income from sources within the United States.

13. Repairs.—Enter the cost of incidental repairs, including labor, supplies, and other items, which do not add to the value or appreciably prolong the life of the property. Expenditures for new buildings, machinery, equipment, or for permanent improvements or betterments which increase the value of the property are chargeable to capital account.

14. Bad debts.—Bad debts may be treated in either of two ways—(1) by a deduction from income in respect of debts which become worthless in whole or in part, or (2) by a deduction from income of a reasonable addition to a reserve for bad debts. (Section 166.)

A taxpayer filing a first return of income may select either of the two methods, and that method must be followed for subsequent years, unless permission is granted by the Commissioner to change to the other method. Application for permission to change the method shall be made in writing and filed with the Commissioner within 90 days after the beginning of the taxable year for which it is desired to effect the change.

Worthless debts arising from unpaid rents, and similar items of taxable income, will not be allowed as a deduction unless the income such items represent has been included in the return of income for the year for which the bad debt deduction is claimed, or for a previous year.

For treatment of bad debts of a mutual savings bank not having capital stock represented by shares and a cooperative bank without capital stock organized and operated for mutual purposes and without profit, see section 593 and the regulations thereunder.

15. Rents.—Enter rent paid or accrued for business property in which the corporation has no equity. With respect to leases entered into prior to January 1, 1954, see instruction No. 7(a).

16. Taxes.—Enter taxes paid or accrued during the taxable year. Do not include Federal income, war-profits, and excess-profits taxes; estate, inheritance, legacy, succession, and gift taxes; Federal taxes paid on bonds containing a tax-free covenant, nor taxes not imposed upon the taxpayer. See section 164(d) regarding apportionment of taxes on real property between seller and purchaser.

17. Interest.—Enter interest paid or accrued on business indebtedness. Do not include interest on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry obligations (other than obligations of the United States issued after September 24, 1917, and originally subscribed for by the taxpayer) the interest on which is wholly exempt from income tax. (Section 265.)

See section 267 for limitation on deductions for unpaid expenses and interest in the case of transactions between related taxpayers.

18. Contributions or gifts paid.—Enter contributions or gifts actually paid within the taxable year to or for the use of (1) a State, a possession of the United States, or any political subdivision of any of the foregoing, or the United States or the District of Columbia for exclusively public purposes; (2) a corporation, trust, or community chest, fund, or foundation, created or organized in the United States or in any possession thereof or under the law of the United States, or of any State, or of the District of Columbia, or of any possession of the United States, organized and operated exclusively for religious charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes or the prevention of cruelty to children or animals (but in the case of contributions or gifts to a trust, chest, fund, or foundation only if such contributions or gifts are to be used within the United States or any of its possessions exclusively for such purposes), no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting to influence legislation; (3) posts or organizations of war veterans, or auxiliary units of, or trusts or foundations for, any such posts or organizations, if such posts, organizations, units, trusts, or foundations are organized in the United States or any of its possessions, and if no part of their net earnings inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual; or (4) non-profit cemetery or burial companies. The amount claimed shall not exceed 5 percent of the corporation's taxable income computed without regard to (1) this deduction, (2) the "special deductions" in line 30, and (3) any net operating loss carryback to the taxable year under section 172.

In the case of a corporation on the accrual basis, any contribution or gift will, at the election of the taxpayer made at the time the return is filed, be considered as paid during the taxable year if payment is actually made on or before the 15th day of the third month following the close of the taxable year, and if the contribution or gift has during the taxable year been authorized by the board of directors of the corporation. A copy of such authorization must be attached to the return.

Do not deduct as a business expense charitable contributions which come within the above description, but which are unallowable in whole or in part because of the limitation contained in section 170. (Section 162(b).)

Any contributions paid during the taxable year in excess of the amount deductible may be carried over and deducted in the two succeeding taxable years subject to the 5 percent limitation provided in section 170(b)(2). In a taxable year to which there is a net operating loss carryover and charitable contributions in excess of the amount deductible (or a charitable contribution carryover from a preceding taxable year), see section 170(b)(3).

Attach a schedule showing the name and address of each organization and the amount paid. If there is included a contribution carryover, show the amount and how the carryover was determined.

19. Losses by fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty, or theft.—Enter losses sustained during the year, arising from fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty. For determination of the amount deductible, see section 165(b). Theft losses are deductible only in the year in which discovered.

20. Amortization.—If a deduction is claimed on account of amortization, attach a schedule showing: (1) A description of the facilities or expenditures being amortized; (2) date acquired, completed, or expended; (3) amount being amortized; (4) amortization deducted in prior years; (5) amortization period (number of months); (6) amortization for this year; and (7) the total amount of amortization less the amount claimed in schedule A and elsewhere on the return. A summary of the total amortization for each facility or expenditure must be shown in schedule H.

The law makes special provisions for amortization of the following kinds of assets and expenditures:

- (a) Emergency facilities.—Section 168;
- (b) Grain storage facilities.—Section 169;
- (c) Research and experimental expenditures.—Section 174;
- (d) Exploration expenditures.—Section 615;
- (e) Development expenditures.—Section 616;
- (f) Organizational expenses.—Section 248; and
- (g) Trade-mark and trade-name expenditures.—Section 177.

For details concerning the information which must be furnished in the statements of election required by these sections, consult your District Director.

21. Depreciation.—If a deduction is claimed on account of depreciation, fill in schedule G. A reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear, and obsolescence of property used in the trade or business or of property held by the taxpayer for the production of income shall be allowed as a depreciation deduction. (Section 167.) The allowance does not apply to inventories or stock-in-trade nor to land apart from the improvements or physical developments added to it. Depreciation on leasehold improvements, patents and copyrights shall be included in schedule G.

The useful life of an asset can be measured in units of production, etc., but the ordinary practice is to measure useful life in years. Business experience, engineering information, and other relevant factors provide a reasonable basis for estimating the useful life of property. The cost (or other basis) to be recovered should be charged off over the expected life of the property to the taxpayer. A brief description of the various methods of depreciation follows:

(a) Straight-line method.—The most common method of computing depreciation is the "straight-line" method. It allows for the recovery of cost in equal annual amounts over the estimated useful life of the property, with only salvage value remaining at the end of its useful life. To compute the deduction, add the cost of improvements to the cost (or other basis) of the asset and deduct both the estimated salvage value and the total depreciation allowed or allowable in past years. Divide the result by the number of years of useful life remaining to the asset—the quotient is the depreciation deduction.

(b) Declining-balance method.—Under this method a uniform rate is applied each year to the remaining cost or other basis of property (without adjustment for salvage value) determined at the beginning of such year. For property acquired before January 1, 1954, or used property whenever acquired, the rate of depreciation under this method may not exceed one and one-half times the applicable straight-line rate.

(c) Special rules for new assets acquired after December 31, 1953.—The cost or other basis of an asset acquired after December 31, 1953, may be depreciated under methods proper in the past; or, it may be depreciated under any of the following methods provided (1) that the asset is tangible, (2) that it has an estimated useful life of three years or more to the taxpayer, and (3) that the original use of the asset commenced with the taxpayer and commenced after December 31, 1953. If an asset is constructed, reconstructed, or erected by the taxpayer, so much of the basis of the asset as is attributable to construction, reconstruction, or erection after December 31, 1953, may be depreciated under methods proper in the past; or, it may be depreciated under any of the following methods provided that the asset meets qualifications (1) and (2) above.

(1) Declining-balance method.—This method may be used with a rate not in excess of twice the applicable straight-line rate.

(2) Sum of the years-digit method.—Under this method annual allowances for depreciation are computed by applying changing fractions to the taxpayer's cost or other basis of property (reduced by estimated salvage).

The deduction for each year is computed by multiplying the cost or other basis of the asset (reduced by estimated salvage value) by the number of years of useful life remaining (including the year for which the deduction is computed) and dividing the product by the sum of all the digits corresponding to the years of the estimated useful life of the asset. In the case of a 5-year life this sum would be 15 or (5+4+3+2+1). For the first year five-fifteenths of the cost reduced by estimated salvage value would be allowable, for the second year four-fifteenths, etc.

(3) Other methods.—A taxpayer may use any consistent method which does not result in accumulated allowances at the end of any year greater than the total of the accumulated allowances which would have resulted from the use of the declining-balance method. This limitation applies only during the first two-thirds of the useful life of the property.

(d) Section 179—Additional first-year depreciation allowance.—Corporations may elect to write off in the year of acquisition 20 percent of the cost of tangible personal property having an aggregate value of not more than $10,000. For details which must be furnished in the statement of election, see the regulations under section 179. This additional first-year depreciation is allowed in full for the first taxable year for which a deduction is allowable under section 167, regardless of the date of acquisition. The cost of property does not include so much of the basis of such property as is determined by reference to the basis of other property held at any time by the person acquiring such property. This additional depreciation is limited to property acquired after December 31, 1957, with a remaining useful life of 6 years or more and which is not acquired from an affiliated corporation (as defined in section 1504, except that "more than 50 percent" stock ownership is substituted for "at least 80 percent" wherever it appears in section 1504(a)). All members of the affiliated group will be treated as one taxpayer, and the $10,000 limitation will be apportioned among the members in the manner prescribed by regulations. Further, for this allowance to apply in any case, the basis of the property must not be determined in whole or in part by reference to the transferor's basis. Depreciation on the remaining cost of the property may be taken under any of the methods indicated above. The additional first-year depreciation of an asset should be shown on a separate line of the depreciation schedule rather than included on the line used to show the regular depreciation of the asset.

22. Depletion.—If a deduction is claimed on account of depletion, procure from the District Director: Form M (mines and other natural deposits), Form O (oil and gas), or Form T (timber), fill in and file with return. If complete valuation data have been filed with questionnaire in previous years, then file with your return information necessary to bring your depletion schedule up to date, setting forth in full statement of all transactions bearing on deductions from or additions to value of physical assets during the taxable year with explanation of how depletion deduction for the taxable year has been determined. (Sections 611, 612, and 613.) Expenditures to be deferred and deducted ratably under the election provided in sections 616(b), relating to certain expenditures in the development of mines, and 615(b), relating to deductions for mine exploration, are not to be taken into account in determining the adjusted basis for property for the purpose of computing a deduction for depletion under section 611.

23. Advertising.—Enter the total amount paid or incurred during the year for advertising. Expenditures for advertising, to be deductible, must be ordinary and necessary and bear a reasonable relation to the business activities in which the corporation is engaged.

24. Note: A form is available to report the information required in (a) and (b) below for years other than the first year a deduction is claimed. The Form 2950 may be obtained from your District Director.

(a) Pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, annuity plans.—Enter on line 24(a) the total amount deductible under section 404. A corporation claiming a deduction under section 404 must submit with its return, in addition to the information specified in the regulations concerning such deduction, a statement with respect to each plan showing the type of plan, i.e., pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, annuity, or other plan deferring the receipt of compensation, whether or not the plan is qualified under section 401(a), and if trustee, whether or not the trust is exempt under section 501(a), and the method of funding, i.e., individual annuity or insurance contracts, group annuity contract, group permanent contract, or self-insured trust. If not funded, so indicate. Contributions paid by an employer to or under a pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, annuity plan or compensation paid or accrued on account of any employee under a plan deferring the receipt of such compensation, are deductible only under section 404, and are not deductible under section 162.

(b) Other employee benefit plans.—Enter on line 24(b) deductions for contributions to employee benefit plans (other than those claimed on line 24(a), such as insurance, health, or welfare plans). Submit with the return a schedule for each plan showing (1) the nature of benefits, i.e., group term life insurance, group permanent life insurance, noninsured death benefit, hospitalization, surgical, medical, sickness, accident, major medical expense, unemployment benefit, or other welfare benefits; (2) method of financing, i.e., insured, industry or areawide fund, self-insured fund, or direct benefit payments; (3) the amount of deduction; (4) the amount of employee contributions; (5) the number of employees covered; and (6) if a self-insured plan, the amount of benefits paid during the taxable year. Also show the number of employees employed by the corporation.

25. Other deductions authorized by law.—Enter in schedule J any other authorized deductions for which no space is provided on the return.

No deduction is allowable for the amount of any item or part thereof allocable to a class of exempt income, including income exempt by tax convention. For nonallowance of interest on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry tax-exempt securities, see instruction 17. Items directly attributable to wholly exempt income shall be allocated thereto, and items directly attributable to any class of taxable income shall be allocated to such taxable income. If an item is indirectly attributable both to taxable income and exempt income, a reasonable proportion thereof, determined in the light of all the facts and circumstances in each case, shall be allocated to each. A taxpayer receiving any such exempt income, or holding any property or engaging in any activity the income from which is exempt shall submit with its return as a part thereof an itemized statement, in detail, showing (1) the amount of each class of exempt income, and (2) the amount of expense items allocated to each such class (the amount allocated by apportionment being shown separately).

In the case of mutual savings banks and cooperative banks, any amounts paid or credited to the accounts of depositors or holders of accounts as dividends on their deposits or withdrawable accounts, if such amounts may be withdrawn on demand subject only to customary notice of intention to withdraw, are allowable deductions in computing taxable income. (Section 591.)

Under section 592 a special deduction in computing taxable income is allowed a mutual savings bank not having capital stock represented by shares or a cooperative bank without capital stock organized and operated for mutual purposes and without profit, for repayment during the taxable year of loans made before September 1, 1951, by the United States or its wholly owned agencies, or by a mutual fund established under the authority of State law.

28. Net operating loss deduction.—The "net operating loss deduction" is the sum of the net operating loss carryovers and carrybacks to the taxable year. (Section 172(a).) A net operating loss for taxable years ending after December 31, 1957, may be carried back 3 years and carried over 5 years. The net operating loss must first be carried to the earliest of the 8 taxable years to which it may be carried, then to the next earliest year, etc. The portion of such loss which shall be carried to each of the other 7 taxable years shall be the excess, if any, of the amount of such loss over the sum of the taxable income for each of the prior taxable years to which such loss may be carried. (Section 172(b).)

The term "net operating loss" means, for taxable years ending after December 31, 1953, the excess of allowable deductions over gross income, computed with the following modifications:

(a) No net operating loss deduction is allowed.

(b) The special deduction provided in section 242 (partially tax-exempt interest) is not allowed.

(c) The special deductions allowed by section 243 (dividends received by corporations), section 244 (dividends received on certain preferred stock of public utilities), and section 245 (dividends received from certain foreign corporations) are computed without regard to the 85-percent limitation provided in section 246(b). See section 1.172-2 of the regulations.

(d) The special deduction allowed by section 247 (dividends paid on certain preferred stock of public utilities is computed without regard to the provisions of subsection (a)(1)(B) of such section. (Section 172(d).)

As stated, the net operating loss deduction is the sum of the carryovers and carrybacks. However, the following modifications must be taken into account in determining the taxable income for any year which must be subtracted from a net operating loss to determine the portion of such loss which will still be available to carry to a subsequent year:

(a) The special deduction provided in section 242 (partially tax-exempt interest) is not allowed.

(b) The amount of the net operating loss deduction is determined without regard to the net operating loss for the loss year or any taxable year thereafter.

With respect to all taxable years, whether they begin before, on, or after January 1, 1954, in determining the amount of any net operating loss carryback or carryover to any taxable year, the necessary computations involving any other taxable year must be made under the law applicable to such other taxable year. (Section 172(e).)

If the corporation desires prompt adjustment for an overpayment attributable to a net operating loss carryback, an application for a tentative adjustment should be filed on Form 1139 within 12 months after the close of the taxable year in which the net operating loss is sustained. (Section 6411.)

For treatment of net operating loss carryovers in certain corporate acquisitions, see section 381.

For special limitation on net operating loss carryovers in case of a corporate change of ownership, see section 382.

Section 852(b)(2) provides that no net operating loss deduction shall be allowed in the case of a regulated investment company.

30. Special deductions.—See the instructions for schedule I.

EXPENSE ACCOUNT ALLOWANCES—SCHEDULE E, COLUMN 7

Expense account allowance means: (1) amounts, other than compensation, received as advances or reimbursements, and (2) amounts paid by or for the corporation, for expenses incurred by or on behalf of an officer including all amounts charged through any type of credit card.

However, this term does not include amounts paid for: (a) the purchase of goods for resale or use in your business; (b) incidental expenses, such as the purchase of office supplies for the corporation or local transportation in connection with an errand; and (c) such fringe benefits as hospitalization insurance, approved pension trust funds, and unemployment insurance.

Column 7 of schedule E is to be completed for your 25 highest paid officers. To determine the highest paid officers for this purpose all allowances including expense account allowances as described above must be added to each officer's compensation. Column 7 need not be completed for any officer for which the combined amount is less than $10,000.

For this purpose an officer is a person who is elected or appointed to office or who is designated as such in the corporation's charter or bylaws such as regular officers, chairman of the board, etc.

SCHEDULE I—SPECIAL DEDUCTIONS

1. Partially tax-exempt interest.—Enter the amount received as interest on obligations of the United States or on obligations of corporations organized under act of Congress which are instrumentalities of the United States, but only if (1) such interest is included in gross income; and (2) such interest is exempt from normal tax under the act authorizing the issuance of such obligations. This deduction must be reduced by any amortizable bond premium as provided in section 171.

2. Dividends-received deductions.—(a) Dividends received from a domestic corporation.—Enter an amount equal to 85 percent of the amount received as dividends (except dividends on certain preferred stock of public utilities) from a domestic corporation subject to income tax. Amounts received as dividends from mutual savings banks, cooperative banks, and domestic building and loan associations and allowed as a deduction to such banks or building and loan associations shall not be treated as dividends. In the case of dividends received from a regulated investment company, see section 854 regarding limitations on amount deductible.

(b) Dividends received on certain preferred stock of public utilities.—Enter 62.115 percent of the amount received as dividends on the preferred stock of a public utility which is subject to income tax and is allowed a deduction, as provided in section 247, for dividends paid.

(c) Dividends received from certain foreign corporations.—Enter 85 percent of dividends received from certain foreign corporations. See sections 243(d) and 245 for qualifications and limitations on the amount of this deduction.

In general, no dividend-received deduction will be allowed on any share of stock (A) which is sold or otherwise disposed of in any case in which the corporation has held such share for 15 days or less, or (B) to the extent the corporation is under an obligation to make corresponding payments with respect to substantially identical stock or securities. Where the stock has preference in dividends, the holding period is 90 days instead of 15 if the corporation receives dividends with respect to such stock which are attributable to a period or periods aggregating in excess of 366 days.

3. Total dividends-received deductions.—In a year in which a net operating loss occurs, sections 172(d) and 246(b) provide that the 85-percent limitation on the amount of these special deductions shall not apply.

4. Deduction for dividends paid on certain preferred stock of public utilities.—In the case of a public utility there is allowed in accordance with section 247, an amount equal to 26.923 percent of the lesser of (1) the amount of dividends paid on its preferred stock during the taxable year, or (2) the taxable income for the taxable year computed without regard to the deduction provided in section 247. In a year in which a net operating loss occurs, section 172(d) provides that this special deduction shall be computed without regard to section 247(a)(1)(B).

TAX COMPUTATION INSTRUCTIONS

1. Normal tax.—Section 11 provides a normal tax for taxable years beginning before July 1, 1961, equal to 30 percent of taxable income. In the case of a taxable year beginning after June 30, 1961, the normal tax is equal to 25 percent of taxable income.

2. Surtax.—Section 11 provides a surtax equal to 22 percent of the amount by which the taxable income (computed without regard to the deduction, if any, provided in section 242 for partially tax-exempt interest) exceeds $25,000.

3. Change in accounting period.—Under the provisions of section 443(b)(1) if a corporation changes its accounting period, the taxable income for the short period beginning on the day after the close of the former taxable year and ending at the close of the day before the day designated as the first day of the new taxable year shall be placed on an annual basis by multiplying the amount thereof by 12 and dividing by the number of months in the short period. The tax shall be that same part of the tax computed on the annual basis which the number of months in the short period is of 12 months.

However, taxpayers may elect to compute the tax for the short period according to the method described below if an application to do so is filed not later than the date when (giving effect to any extensions granted) the return for the first full taxable year after the beginning of the short period must be filed. (Section 443(b)(2).) For details concerning the form and content of such an application, consult your District Director.

If a proper application is filed, the taxpayer may elect to pay whichever tax under the following two methods is greater, in place of the short period tax under section 443(b)(1): (1) Establish the actual taxable income for the 12 months beginning with the first day of the short period; then compute the tax on that income. Then determine as a short period tax that part of the tax so computed which bears the same proportion to the total tax so computed as the taxable income of the short period bears to the taxable income of the 12 months. However, a taxpayer which distributes substantially all its assets before the end of the 12-month period described above, shall employ in the above computation the 12-month period ending with the last day of the short period. (2) Compute a tax on the taxable income of the short period as if the short period were a full taxable year.

In annualizing income of a short period consisting of 7 days or more, but less than 359 days, by reason of a change to a 52-53 week fiscal year, the annualization is made on a daily basis as provided in section 441(f)(2)(B)(iii).

4. Insurance companies other than life or mutual.—All insurance companies (other than life or mutual insurance companies), including mutual marine insurance companies and mutual fire insurance companies exclusively issuing either perpetual policies or policies for which the sole premium charged is a single deposit, are subject to the taxes imposed by section 11. The taxable income of such insurance companies is defined in section 832 and differs from the taxable income of other corporations. This paragraph does not apply to foreign insurance companies not carrying on an insurance business within the United States. (Section 831.)

5. Life insurance departments of mutual savings banks.—A mutual savings bank not having capital stock represented by shares, authorized under State law to conduct a life insurance business and which conducts such business in a separate department the accounts of which are maintained separately from the accounts of other departments of the bank is taxable under section 594 provided the life insurance department would, if it were treated as a separate corporation, qualify as a life insurance company under section 801.

The tax consists of the sum of—(1) a partial tax computed under section 11 upon the taxable income of the bank determined without regard to any items of gross income or deductions properly allocable to the business of the life insurance department; and (2) a partial tax upon the taxable income (computed as provided in section 802) of the life insurance department determined without regard to any items of gross income or deductions not properly allocable to such department, at the rates and in the manner provided in subchapter L with respect to life insurance companies.

Tax computation.—For the purpose of computing the first partial tax, a mutual savings bank should use Form 1120-F, filling in all applicable items (except line 5) and schedules. The first partial tax should be computed by using lines 1 to 4. For the purpose of computing the second partial tax Form 1120-L should be used. The first partial tax should be added to the second partial tax and the sum thereof entered on line 5. Form 1120-L properly filled in should be attached to and made a part of Form 1120-F and properly identified as an accompanying schedule. However, any Form 1120-L so used need not be separately executed under the penalty of perjury.

6. Credit for taxes.—If the corporation is entitled to a credit for taxes paid by a regulated investment company on undistributed capital gains, include the credit on line 2(d), page 1, and indicate by amount that such a credit is being claimed. Attach Copy B of Form 2439 to page 1 of the Form 1120-F.

7. Overpayment credited to estimated tax.—If the taxpayer elects to have all or part of the overpayment shown by his return applied to his estimated tax for his succeeding taxable year, no interest shall be allowed on such portion of the overpayment credited.

PRINCIPAL BUSINESS ACTIVITY

In reporting the "Principal business activity," on page 3, give the one business activity that accounts for the largest percentage of "total receipts." "Total receipts" means gross receipts (line 1, page 3), plus all other income (lines 4 through 9, page 3). State the broad field of business activity as well as the specific product or service, such as "Mining copper," "Manufacturing cotton broad woven fabric," "Wholesale meat," or "Retail apparel." Where receipts are derived from two or more of the detailed industry groups listed below, show only the one which is the major source of receipts. Use the appropriate group under the heading "FINANCE" if over 50 percent of "total receipts" consists of investment income.

Enter the business group "code number" on page 3 from the following list. Give the code for the specific industry group from which the largest percentage of "total receipts" is derived.

*How To Prepare Your1960 U.S. Life Insurance Company Income Tax Return On Form 1120L

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

A. Companies required to file a return.—Every domestic life insurance company and every foreign life insurance company carrying on an insurance business within the United States (if with respect to its United States business it would qualify as a life insurance company), which is engaged in the business of issuing life insurance and annuity contracts (either separately or combined with health and accident insurance) or noncancellable contracts of health and accident insurance and of which the life insurance reserves, plus unearned premiums and unpaid losses (whether or not ascertained), on noncancellable life, health, or accident policies not included in life insurance reserves, comprise more than 50 percent of its total reserves, adjusted in each case for policy loans as required by section 801(d), shall file a return on this form. For this purpose the term "noncancellable" includes guaranteed renewable life, health, and accident insurance which is not cancellable by the company but under which the company reserves the right to adjust premium rates by classes, in accordance with experience under the type of policy involved. The terms "life insurance reserves" and "total reserves" do not include deficiency reserves.

If a receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, or assignee has possession of or holds title to all or substantially all the property or business of a corporation, whether or not the property or business is being operated, he must make a return of income for the corporation in the same manner and form as would be required were such corporation required to make its own return. (See sec. 6012.) If a life insurance company disposes of its life insurance business and life insurance reserves under a reinsurance agreement with another company, but continues its corporate existence for the purpose of winding up and liquidating its affairs, it will not be taxable as a life insurance company after the effective date of such agreement.

B. Period covered.—The return shall be for the calendar year ended December 31, 1960, and the taxable income computed on the calendar year basis in accordance with the provisions of section 843.

C. Accounting methods.—A return on this form shall be filed using the accrual method of accounting, or to the extent permitted under regulations, under a combination of an accrual method with any other method under chapter 1, other than the cash receipts and disbursement method.

Accrual method.—Under this method, income is reported in the year when the taxpayer first has a definite right to income, the amount of which can be ascertained with reasonable accuracy while deductions are taken in the year in which there is first established a specific liability, the amount of which can be ascertained with reasonable accuracy. Where the right to income or the liability for expense is uncertain, or the amount of such income or expense cannot be ascertained with reasonable accuracy, accrual is generally postponed until a determination is possible.

Rounding off to whole-dollar amounts.—If you wish, the money items on your return or accompanying schedules required by such return may be shown as whole-dollar amounts. This means that you eliminate any amount less than 50 cents, and increase any amount from 50 cents through 99 cents to the next highest dollar. Your choice as to whether you round off to whole-dollar amounts may not be changed after the due date for filing your return.

D. Time and place for filing.—The return for 1960 must be sent to the District Director of Internal Revenue for the district in which the company's principal place of business or principal office or agency is located, on or before March 15, 1961.

E. Signature and verification.—The return must be signed either by the president, vice president, treasurer, assistant treasurer or chief accounting officer, or by any other corporate officer (such as tax officer) who is authorized to sign. A receiver, trustee, or assignee must sign any return which he is required to file in behalf of a corporation. The statement at the bottom of page 1 of the return is required to be signed by any person, firm, or corporation who prepared the taxpayer's return. If the return is prepared by a firm or corporation, it should be signed in the name of the firm or corporation. The statement is not required if the return is prepared by a regular, full-time employee.

F. Payment of tax.—The tax must be paid in full when the return is filed or in two installments, 50 percent on or before the 15th day of the third month and 50 percent on or before the 15th day of the sixth month following the close of the taxable year.

A declaration of estimated tax must be made by every corporation which is subject to income tax under subchapter L of chapter 1 (relating to insurance companies), if its income tax for the taxable year can reasonably be expected to exceed $100,000 plus the amount of any estimated credits against tax. (See Form 1120-ES.) In the case of affiliated corporations filing a consolidated return, see consolidated return regulations prescribed under section 1502.

Request for automatic extension of 3 months for filing of return must be made on Form 7004. (Sec. 6081(b).)

G. Failure to file, etc.—Substantial additions to the tax are imposed for failing to file a return, for late filing, and for filing a false or fraudulent return.

H. Information at source.—Every insurance company making payments in the course of its trade or business of (1) interest, rents, commissions, or other fixed or determinable income of $600 or more during the calendar year to an individual, a partnership, or a fiduciary; or (2) salaries or wages of $600 or more shall make returns on Forms 1096 and 1099, except that the making of such return will not be required with respect to salary or wage payments included on Form W-2, provided copies of withholding statements on Form W-2 are furnished. If a portion of such salary or wage payments was reported on a Withholding Statement (Form W-2), only the remainder must be reported on Form 1099.

The returns on Forms 1096 and 1099 shall also include dividend payments totaling $10 or more during the calendar year to each shareholder who is an individual (citizen or resident of the United States), a resident fiduciary, or a resident partnership any member of which is a citizen or resident.

1. Information by corporation.—1. Contemplated dissolution or liquidation.—Every corporation shall, within 30 days after the adoption by the corporation of a resolution or plan for the dissolution of the corporation or for the liquidation of the whole or any part of its capital stock, render a correct return on Form 966 setting forth the terms of such resolution or plan. (See sec. 6043.)

2. Distribution in liquidation.—Every corporation making distributions in liquidation of the whole or any part of its capital stock shall also make returns on Forms 1096 and 1099L, as required by instructions on Form 1096, for the calendar year.

Instructions 1120L (1960)

J. Stock ownership in foreign corporations.—A corporation owning any stock of a foreign corporation must attach a statement showing the name and address of each company and the total number of shares of each class of outstanding stock owned during the taxable year. If the corporation owned 5 percent or more in value of the outstanding stock of a foreign personal holding company, attach a statement setting forth in complete detail the information required by section 551(d).

K. Annual statement.—A copy of the annual statement for life insurance companies adopted by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners for the year 1960, as filed with the Insurance Department of the State, territory, or District of Columbia, which shows the reserves used in computing the net income reported on the return, together with copies of Schedule A (real estate) and Schedule D (bonds and stocks), must accompany the return. Similar copies of the 4 preceding years must also be furnished, if not already filed for such years. In the case of a foreign life insurance company carrying on a life insurance business within the United States, the copies submitted shall be those relating to the United States business of the company. Where companies use miniature statements, such statements may be filed in lieu of the larger statements.

L. List of attached schedules.—Attach a list of the schedules accompanying the return, giving for each a brief title and the schedule number. Place name and address of company on each schedule.

M. Consolidated returns.—Subject to the provisions of sections 1501 through 1552 and the regulations, an affiliated group of corporations, each qualifying as a life insurance company, may make a consolidated income tax return in lieu of separate returns. The common parent corporation, when filing a consolidated return, shall attach thereto a schedule showing the names and addresses of all the corporations included in the return. Form 851, Affiliations Schedule, should be obtained from the District Director of Internal Revenue and filed as part of the return. Each subsidiary must prepare two signed copies of Form 1122 authorizing the making of the return on its behalf. One such form shall be attached to the consolidated return as a part thereof, and the other shall be filed, at or before the time the consolidated return is filed, in the office of the district director for the subsidiary's district.

N. Voting stock ownership.—Where the answer is "yes" to questions l and m, attach a separate schedule showing: (1) name and address; (2) percentage of stock owned; (3) date stock was acquired; and (4) the district director's office in which the income tax return of such corporation, individual, partnership, trust, or association for the last taxable year was filed.

O. Percentage computations.—In computing earning rates, assumed rates, and policyholders' and company's share of investment yield, the computation should be carried out to a sufficient number of decimal places to insure substantial accuracy and to eliminate any significant error in the resulting tax liability.

P. Insurance liabilities.—Domestic company.—The term "total insurance liabilities" means the sum of the total reserves (as defined in section 801(c)) as of the end of the taxable year plus (to the extent not included in total reserves) the items referred to in paragraphs (3), (4), and (5) of section 810(c) as of the end of the taxable year.

Foreign company.—The term "total insurance liabilities" relates only to United States business.

SPECIFIC INSTRUCTIONS

SCHEDULE A.—INVESTMENT YIELD

The term "investment yield" means gross investment income, as defined in section 804(b), less the deductions allowed in section 804(c). The entire amount of the items of income and allowable deductions are to be reported in Schedule A. The purpose of including the entire amount of these items is to provide the basis for the exclusion of the policyholders' share of the investment yield from the life insurance company's taxable income.

Line 1. Interest.—Enter interest from all sources during the taxable year. The gross amount of interest reported as gross income shall be decreased by the amortization of premium and increased by the accrual of discount attributable to the taxable year on bonds, notes, debentures, or other evidences of indebtedness, determined (1) in accordance with the method regularly employed, if reasonable, or (2) in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate. (Attach statement showing method and computation.)

Line 2. Dividends.—Enter on line 2(a) the amount of dividends from a domestic corporation which is subject to taxation under Chapter 1, except dividends on certain preferred stock of a public utility (see sec. 245), dividends from a corporation entitled to the benefits of section 931, and from a corporation organized under the China Trade Act, 1922. Enter on line 2(b) dividends on certain preferred stock of a public utility which is subject to taxation under Chapter 1. Enter on line 2(c) dividends from foreign corporations. Enter on line 2(d) dividends from all other corporations, including dividends on share accounts in Federal savings and loan associations issued on or after March 28, 1942. Enter on line 1(c) dividends on share accounts in Federal savings and loan associations issued prior to March 28, 1942. Submit schedule, itemizing all dividends for the year, stating the names of the corporations declaring the dividends and amounts reported from each.

Line 3. Rents.—Enter gross amount of rents. Any expenses, including repairs, interest, taxes, and depreciation, should be included in the proper lines under deductions. In the case of a lease entered into prior to January 1, 1954, if both lessor and lessee are corporations and if under the lease the lessee is obligated to pay any part of the lessor's income tax on the rental payment, this tax is excluded from lessor's gross income and may not be deducted by lessee. (Sec. 110.)

Line 4. Royalties.—Enter the gross amount of royalties. If a deduction is claimed for depletion, it must be reported on line 12.

Line 5. Leases, terminations, etc.—Enter the gross amount of income from the entering into (or the alteration or termination) of any lease, mortgage, or other instrument or agreement from which the life insurance company derives interest, rents, or royalties.

Line 6. Net short-term capital gain.—Enter the amount (if any) by which the net short-term capital gain exceeds the net long-term capital loss. See separate Schedule D, Form 1120L.

Line 7. Gross income from trade or business other than insurance business.—Enter the gross income from any trade or business (other than an insurance business) carried on by the life insurance company, or by a partnership of which the life insurance company is a member.

Line 9. Investment expenses.—Enter expenses which are properly chargeable to investment expenses, the total amount of which, if there be any allocation of general expenses to investment expenses, should not exceed line 5, Schedule H. Submit a schedule showing the nature and amount of the items included herein, the minor items being grouped in one amount.

Line 10. Real estate expenses.—Enter the amount of taxes (sec. 164); all ordinary and necessary building expenses, such as fire insurance, heat, light, labor, etc.; and the cost of incidental repairs which neither materially add to the value of the property nor appreciably prolong its life, but keep it in an ordinary efficient operating condition, exclusively on or with respect to the real estate owned by the company. Do not include any amount paid out for new buildings or for permanent improvements or betterments made to increase the value of any property or any amount expended on foreclosed property before such property is held for rental purposes. These taxes and other expenses should be itemized in an attached schedule. (For limitation on deduction, see Instruction 14(b).)

Line 11. Depreciation.—Enter the amount allowed by section 167 and the regulations thereunder. In general, the amount deductible is an amount reasonably measuring a portion of the investment in depreciable property which, by reason of exhaustion, wear and tear, or obsolescence, is properly chargeable against the operation for the year. In any event the deduction is limited to the depreciation on the property that is used, and to the extent used, for the purpose of producing the income specified in section 804(b). (For limitation on deduction, see Instruction 14(b).)

Line 12. Depletion of mines, oil and gas wells, timber, etc.—If a deduction is claimed on account of depletion, procure from the district director: Form M (mines and other natural deposits), Form O (oil and gas), or Form T (timber); fill in and file with return.

Line 13. Trade or business.—Enter the total of deductions attributable to any trade or business (other than an insurance business), the income from which is included in the life insurance company's gross investment income under section 804(b)(3). Do not include (a) losses from (or considered as from) sales or exchanges of capital assets, (b) losses from sales or exchanges of property used in the trade or business (as defined in section 1231(b)), and (c) losses from the compulsory or involuntary conversion of property used in the trade or business. The deductions to be entered on line 13 will be disallowed to the extent attributable to the carrying on of the insurance business. The deduction for net operating losses (sec. 172) and the special deductions (secs. 241–248) shall not be allowed.

Line 14. Total deductions.—(a). Enter the total of lines 9–13.

(b) Limitation on deductions relating to real estate owned and occupied.—The deductions included on lines 10 and 11 on account of real estate owned and occupied for insurance purposes in whole or in part by the company shall be limited to an amount which bears the same ratio to such deductions (computed without regard to the second sentence of section 804(c)(3)) as the rental value of the space not so occupied bears to the rental value of the entire property. Submit detailed schedule.

SCHEDULE B

PART I—POLICY AND OTHER CONTRACT LIABILITY REQUIREMENTS (805(a))

Purpose.—The next step after determining investment yield (Schedule A) is to determine the policy and other contract liability requirements. This computation furnishes the numerator, with the total of the investment yield as the denominator, to determine the policyholders' share of investment yield which is not included in computing taxable investment income (Schedule C).

Definition.—The term "policy and other contract liability requirements" means the sum of (1) the adjusted life insurance reserves (from Part VI), multiplied by the adjusted reserves rate (from Part III); (2) the mean of the pension plan reserves at the beginning and end of the taxable year (from Part V), multiplied by the current earnings rate (from Part III); and (3) the interest paid (from Part VII).

PART II—ASSETS (805(b)(4))

Purpose.—This computation is necessary in order to determine the earnings rates in Part III.

Definition.—The term "assets" for this purpose means all assets of the company (including nonadmitted assets). The term includes all moneys but does not include real and personal property (other than money) used by the company in carrying on an insurance trade or business.

Valuation.—The amount attributable to real property and to stocks is the fair market value thereof. The amount attributable to other assets is the adjusted basis of such assets for purposes of determining gain on sale or other disposition. This adjusted basis is determined under section 1011 and other related provisions of subtitle A of the Code, without regard to section 817(b).

Section 806(a) adjustment.—If, during the taxable year, there is a change in life insurance reserves (either increases or decreases) attributable to the transfer between the taxpayer and another person of liabilities under contracts taken into account in computing such reserves, the mean of the assets is to be appropriately adjusted, on a daily basis, to reflect the amounts involved in such transfer. See the regulations. This adjustment should be reflected in an attached schedule.

PART III—EARNINGS RATES (805(b))

The term "current earnings rate" means the percentage determined by dividing the investment yield for the taxable year (Schedule A), by the mean of the assets at the beginning and end of the taxable year (Part II—Assets). The earnings rate for any taxable year prior to 1958 is determined as if the law applicable to 1958 applied to such year, and the earnings rate for any taxable year of the company which, for such year, is an insurance company (but not a life insurance company as defined in sec. 801(a)), is determined as if it were a life insurance company for such year. Therefore, the determination of the current earnings rate for pre-1958 years must be computed on the basis of its investment yield (determined under the provisions of the 1959 act) for those years, and on the basis of the mean of the assets (determined under the 1959 act) for those years even though such provisions are not otherwise in effect for years prior to 1958. The term "average earnings rate" means the sum of the current earnings rate for the taxable year and the earnings rate for each of the 4 taxable years immediately preceding the taxable year, divided by 5. If, in computing the 5-year average earnings rate for any taxable year, the company was an insurance company (but not a life insurance company) in any of the 4 years preceding the taxable year, the computation shall be made as if the company were a life insurance company for such year. Where the company was not in existence for one or more of the 4 preceding years or was not an insurance company for one or more of such years, no entry shall be made for such year or years. The average earnings rate (line 7) is determined by adding the percentages entered, and dividing this sum by the number of years applicable. For example, if entries are made on three lines, divide the sum by 3. See General Instruction O.

PART IV—AVERAGE INTEREST RATE ASSUMED (805(c)(2))

The purpose of this schedule is to determine a rate which is used in the computation of adjusted life insurance reserves (Part VI). See General Instruction O. For the year 1960, exclude 66⅔ percent of the pension plan reserves from life insurance reserves for the purpose of determining the taxpayers assumed rate under this part. See Part V.

Columns 5 and 6.—Adjustment under 806(b).—If the basis for determining the amount of any item referred to in 810(c)

(life insurance reserves, etc.) as of the close of the taxable year differs from the basis for such determination as of the beginning of the taxable year, then the amount of the item as of the close of the taxable year shall be the amount computed on the old basis, and the amount of the item as of the beginning of the next taxable year shall be the amount computed on the new basis.

Adjustment under 818(c).—This adjustment is required where the company actually computes its life insurance reserves on one of the recognized preliminary term bases but elects to convert them to a net level premium basis in the computation of the reserves for tax purposes.

Where so elected, the conversion may be made by one of two methods.

Method 1, Exact Revaluation: Under this method, the company must compute the reserves for all contracts (with respect to which reserves are computed on a preliminary term basis) on a net level premium basis, using the same mortality assumptions and interest rates for both the preliminary term basis and the net level premium basis. Method 2, Approximate Revaluation: Under this method, with respect to contracts for which reserves are computed under the preliminary term basis, the reserves are increased by the sum of (A) $21 per $1,000 of insurance in force (other than term insurance), less 2.1 percent of reserves under such contracts; and (B) $5 per $1,000 of term insurance in force under contracts which at the time of issuance cover a period of more than 15 years, less 0.5 percent of reserves under such contracts.

PART V—PENSION PLAN RESERVES (805(d))

For 1960, the amount to be taken into account as "pension plan reserves" is 66⅔ percent of that portion of the life insurance reserves which is allocable to contracts—

(A) purchased under contracts entered into with trusts which (as of the time the contracts were entered into) were deemed to be (i) trusts described in section 401(a) and exempt from tax under section 501(a), or (ii) trusts exempt from tax under section 165 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 or the corresponding provisions of prior revenue laws;

(B) purchased under contracts entered into under plans which (as of the time the contracts were entered into) were deemed to be plans meeting the requirements of section 401(a) (3), (4), (5), and (6), or the requirements of section 165(a) (3), (4), (5), and (6) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939;

(C) provided for employees of the life insurance company under a plan which, for the taxable year, meets the requirements of section 401(a) (3), (4), (5), and (6); or

(D) purchased to provide retirement annuities for its employees by an organization which (as of the time the contracts were purchased) was an organization described in section 501(c) (3) which was exempt from tax under section 501(a) or was an organization exempt from tax under section 101(6) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 or the corresponding provisions of prior revenue laws. These reserves shall be adjusted under sections 806 and 818(c) as described in Part IV above.

A life insurance company may elect, under section 818(a), the approximate revaluation method for all its life insurance reserves, other than noncancellable accident and health reserves, and use the exact revaluation method for all its noncancellable accident and health reserves. (C.B. 1960-1, 268.)

Column 7.—Adjustment under 806(a).—If, during the taxable year there is a change in life insurance reserves attributable to the transfer between the company and another of liabilities under contracts taken into account in computing such reserves, then the means of such reserves shall be appropriately adjusted on a daily basis, to reflect the amounts involved in such transfer. See the regulations. This adjustment is applicable whether or not the transferor of the liabilities was the original insurer. However, this adjustment is not applicable to reinsurance ceded by another person to the taxpayer, or by the taxpayer to another person. For the definition of "Life Insurance Reserves," see excerpts from the Internal Revenue Code, section 801(b).

SPECIAL TRANSITIONAL RULE.—For purposes of this part, the amount taken into account as pension plan reserves shall be—

(A) in the case of a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1957, and before January 1, 1959, zero;

(B) in the case of a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1958, and before January 1, 1960, 33⅓ percent of the amount thereof (determined without regard to this paragraph);

(C) in the case of a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1959, and before January 1, 1961, 66⅔ percent of the amount thereof (determined without regard to this paragraph); and

(D) in the case of a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1960, 100 percent of the amount thereof.

PART VI—ADJUSTED LIFE INSURANCE RESERVES (805(c)(1))

This term constitutes the mean of the life insurance reserves (as defined in section 801(b)), computed under Part IV (excluding 66⅔ percent of the pension plan reserves taken into account under Part V), adjusted as set forth in Part VI, Schedule B, of the form.

PART VII—INTEREST PAID (805(e))

Line 1.—Enter all interest for the taxable year on indebtedness, except on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry obligations the interest on which is wholly exempt from taxation.

Line 2.—Enter all amounts in the nature of interest, whether or not guaranteed, for the taxable year on insurance or annuity contracts (including contracts supplementary thereto) which do not involve, at the time of accrual, life, health, or accident contingencies.

Line 3.—Enter all amounts accrued for the taxable year for discounts in the nature of interest, whether or not guaranteed, on premiums or other consideration paid in advance on insurance or annuity contracts.

SCHEDULE C.—TAXABLE INVESTMENT INCOME

General.—The policyholders' share of each and every item of investment yield (including tax-exempt interest, partially tax-exempt interest, and dividends received) of any life insurance company shall not be included in taxable investment income.

Line 1.—Enter on this line the percentage which represents the policyholders' share of each and every item of investment yield. This percentage is determined by dividing the policy and other contract liability requirements (Schedule B) by the investment yield (Schedule A); except that if the amount of the policy and other contract liability requirements exceeds the investment yield, then the policyholders' share of any item shall be 100 percent. See General Instruction O.

Line 2.—Enter on this line the percentage which represents the life insurance company's share of any item of investment yield. This percentage is obtained by ascertaining the percentage required to equal 100 percent when added to the percentage on line 1.

Lines 4–7.—Enter in column 1 the respective amounts from Schedule A. Multiply the amount on each line in column 1 by the percentage from line 1 and enter the product for each line in column 2. The amounts entered in column 2 represent the policyholders' share of these items which is not included in taxable investment income. Enter in column 3 the product obtained by multiplying each amount in column 1 by the percentage from line 2. The amounts entered in column 3 represent the company's share of these items of investment yield.

Reductions

Line 9. Interest wholly tax-exempt.—Enter on this line the amount from line 4, column 3. This amount is the company's share of wholly tax-exempt interest which like the policyholders' share of such interest (from line 4, col. 2) is not included in taxable investment income.

Line 10. Interest partially tax-exempt.—The amount to be entered on this line is the product of the company's share of partially tax-exempt interest (from line 5, col. 3) multiplied by the ratio which (A) the normal tax rate for the taxable year prescribed by section 11 (30 percent) bears to (B) the sum of the normal tax rate and the surtax rate for the taxable year prescribed by section 11 (normal tax 30 percent plus surtax 22 percent), or, in other words, 30/52 of line 5, column 3.

Line 11. Dividends received deduction.—(a) Dividends received from domestic corporations.—Enter 85 percent of the company's share (line 6(a), col. 3) of the amount received as dividends (except dividends on certain preferred stock of public utilities) from domestic corporations subject to income tax. Amounts received as dividends from mutual savings banks, cooperative banks, and domestic building and loan associations and allowed as a deduction to such banks or building and loan associations shall not be treated as dividends. In the case of dividends received from a regulated investment company, see section 854 regarding limitations on amount deductible.

(b) Dividends received on certain preferred stock of public utilities.—Enter 62.115 percent of the company's share (line 6(b), col. 3) of the amount received as dividends on the preferred stock of a public utility which is subject to income tax and which is allowed a deduction for dividends paid under section 247.

(c) Dividends received from certain foreign corporations.—Enter 85 percent of the company's share (line 6(c), col. 3) of dividends received from certain foreign corporations. See section 245 for qualifications and limitations on the amount of this deduction.

In general, no dividend-received deduction will be allowed on any share of stock (A) which is sold or otherwise disposed of in any case in which the corporation has held such share for 15 days or less, or (B) to the extent the corporation is under an obligation to make corresponding payments with respect to substantially identical stock or securities. Where the stock has preference in dividends, the holding period is 90 days instead of 15 if the corporation receives dividends with respect to such stock which are attributable to a period or periods aggregating in excess of 366 days.

Line 12. Small business deduction.—Enter 10 percent of the investment yield (Schedule A) but not to exceed $25,000.

SCHEDULE E.—GAIN AND LOSS FROM OPERATIONS

General.—The share of each and every item of investment yield (including tax-exempt interest, partially tax-exempt interest, and dividends received) of any life insurance company set aside for policyholders shall not be included in gain and loss from operations.

Line 1.—Enter on this line the percentage which represents the share of any item of investment yield which is set aside for policyholders. This percentage is determined by dividing the required interest (Schedule E-1) by the investment yield (Schedule A); except that if the amount of the required interest exceeds the investment yield, then the share of any item set aside for policyholders shall be 100 percent. See General Instruction O.

Line 2.—Enter on this line the percentage which represents the life insurance company's share of any item of investment yield. This percentage is obtained by ascertaining the percentage required to equal 100 percent when added to the percentage on line 1.

Lines 4-7.—Enter in column 1 the respective amounts from Schedule A. Multiply the amount on each line in column 1 by the percentage from line 1 and enter the product for each line in column 2. The amounts entered in column 2 represent the policyholders' share of these items which is not included in gain and loss from operations. Enter in column 3 the product obtained by multiplying each amount in column 1 by the percentage from line 2. The amounts entered in column 3 represent the company's share of these items of investment yield.

Line 9.—Enter the gross amount of premiums and other consideration (including advance premiums, deposits, fees, assessments, and consideration in respect of assuming liabilities under contracts not issued by the company) on insurance and annuity contracts (including contracts supplementary thereto); less return premiums, and premiums and other consideration arising out of reinsurance ceded. Except in the case of amounts of premiums or other consideration returned to another life insurance company in respect of reinsurance ceded, amounts returned where the amount is not fixed in the contract but depends on the experience of the company or the discretion of the management shall not be included. However, amounts rebated or refunded due to policy cancellations or to erroneously computed premiums are to be treated as return premiums.

Line 10(a). Decrease in reserves.—Enter the excess of the sum of the items described in section 810(c) (see excerpts from the Code) as of the beginning of the taxable year over the sum of such items as of the close of the taxable year (reduced by the policyholders' share of investment yield not included in gain and loss from operations (from line 8, col. 2)).

Line 10(b). Decrease in 811(b)(2) reserves.—Enter the amount (from line 3, Part IV, Schedule E-2) by which the decrease for the taxable year in the reserves for policyholder dividends exceeds the amount of dividends paid to policyholders during such year. Enter also one-tenth of any net decrease in reserves attributable to the operation of section 810(d).

Line 11. Other amounts.—Enter total amount of other income, not included in computing investment yield and not otherwise included above, to the extent that such items are includible in gross income, except that all gains from the sale or exchange of a capital asset or gains considered as gains from the sale or exchange of a capital asset are excluded.

Line 13. Death benefits, etc.—Enter the amount of all claims and benefits accrued (including matured endowments and amounts allowed on surrender) and losses incurred (whether or not ascertained) during the year on insurance, annuity, and supplementary contracts. The term "losses incurred (whether or not ascertained)" refers to a reasonable estimate of the amount of the losses incurred but not reported, as well as losses reported but where the amount thereof cannot be ascertained by the end of the year.

Line 14. Increase in reserves.—Enter the excess of the sum of the items described in section 810(c) (see excerpts from the Code) as of the close of the taxable year (reduced by the policyholders' share of investment yield not included in gain and loss from operations (line 8, col. 2)) over the sum of such items as of the beginning of the taxable year. Enter also one-tenth of any net increase in reserves attributable to the operation of section 810(d).

Line 15. Assumption by another person of liabilities under insurance, etc., contracts.—Enter the amount of the consideration (other than consideration arising out of reinsurance ceded) in respect of the assumption by another person of liabilities under insurance and annuity contracts (including contracts supplementary thereto).

Line 16. Interest wholly tax-exempt.—Enter on this line the amount from line 4, column 3. This amount is the company's share of wholly tax-exempt interest which, like the policyholders' share of such interest (from line 4, col. 2), is not included in gain and loss from operations.

Line 17. Interest partially tax-exempt.—Enter the product of the amount in line 5, column 3, multiplied by 30/52. See the instructions for Schedule C, line 10.

Line 18. Investment expenses.—Enter the excess of the total investment expenses over the amount allowed in computing investment yield (Schedule A), and the amount (if any) by which the sum of the deductions allowable (line 14, Schedule

A) exceeds the gross investment income (line 8, Schedule A). Taxes and other expenses should be itemized in an attached schedule.

Line 19. Small business deduction.—Enter 10 percent of the investment yield (Schedule A) but not to exceed $25,000.

Line 20. Other deductions.—Enter total amount of all other deductions, not included in computing investment yield and not included in lines 22–25 to the extent allowable as deductions in computing taxable income under Subtitle A of the Code except as modified below:

1. INTEREST.—No deduction is allowed under section 163 for interest in respect of the items described in section 810(c).

2. BAD DEBTS.—No deduction is allowed for an addition to reserves for bad debts under section 166(c), but a deduction for specific bad debts is permitted to the extent that the other provisions of that section are applicable.

3. CONTRIBUTIONS OR GIFTS.—In applying section 170, the limitation on the total deduction shall be 5 percent of the gain from operations computed without regard to dividends to policyholders; certain nonparticipating contracts; group life, accident, and health insurance; interest wholly tax-exempt; interest partially tax-exempt; dividends received deduction; any operations loss carryback; and the contributions deductions. For limitation and the application of charitable contribution carryover, see the regulations.

4. AMORTIZABLE BOND PREMIUMS.—No deduction is allowed under section 171 since a deduction for such premiums has already been taken into account in Schedule A.

5. NET OPERATING LOSS DEDUCTION.—The deduction under section 172 is not allowed since in lieu thereof an "operations loss deduction" is allowed. See line 23.

6. PARTIALLY TAX-EXEMPT INTEREST.—No deduction is allowed under section 242 in view of the deduction allowed under section 809(d) (8). See line 17.

7. DIVIDENDS RECEIVED.—No deduction is allowed under sections 243, 244, and 245 in view of the deduction allowed under section 809(d) (8). See line 22.

Submit a schedule showing the nature and amount of the items included herein, the minor items being grouped in one amount.

Line 22. Dividends received deduction.—(a) Dividends received from domestic corporations.—Enter 85 percent of the company's share (line 6(a), col. 3) of the amount received as dividends (except dividends on certain preferred stock of public utilities) from domestic corporations subject to income tax. Amounts received as dividends from mutual savings banks, cooperative banks, and domestic building and loans associations and allowed as a deduction to such banks or building and loan associations shall not be treated as dividends. In the case of dividends received from a regulated investment company, see section 854 regarding limitations on amount deductible.

(b) Dividends received on certain preferred stock of public utilities.—Enter 62.115 percent of the company's share (line 6(b), col. 3) of the amount received as dividends on the preferred stock of a public utility which is subject to income tax and which is allowed a deduction for dividends paid under section 247.

(c) Dividends received from certain foreign corporations.—Enter 85 percent of the company's share (line 6(c), col. 3) of dividends received from certain foreign corporations. See section 245 for qualifications and limitations on the amount of this deduction.

(d) Section 246(b) limitation.—In applying this 85-percent limitation to the total dividends-received deduction, the gain from operations is computed without regard to the deductions for dividends to policyholders (line 25(c)); certain nonparticipating contracts (line 25(b)); group life, accident, and health insurance (line 25(a)); the operations loss deduction (line 23); and the dividends-received deduction. However, since these items have not as yet been deducted, the 85-percent limitation is applicable to the excess, if any, of line 12 over line 21.

Exception.—For any taxable year for which there is a loss from operations, the limitation shall not apply.

See also instructions for line 11, Schedule C.

Line 23. Operations loss deduction.—This deduction allowed under section 809(d) (4) and determined under section 812 is, in substance, the same as the net operating loss deduction provided by section 172.

The "operations loss deduction" is the sum of the operations loss carryovers and carrybacks to the taxable year (sec. 812 (a)). A loss from operations for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1954, may be carried back 3 years and carried over 5 years. If the company is a new company for the loss year, the carryover is for 8 years. For the definition of a new company and for the limitations on the 8-year carryover, see section 812(e) and the regulations applicable thereto. The loss from operations must first be carried to the earliest of the taxable years to which it may be carried, then to the next earliest year, etc. The portion of such loss which shall be carried to each of the other taxable years shall be the excess, if any, of the amount of such loss over the sum of the offsets for each of the prior taxable years to which such loss may be carried.

The term "offset" means, with respect to any taxable year, an amount equal to that increase in the operations loss deduction for the taxable year which reduces the life insurance company taxable income (computed without regard to sec. 802 (b) (3)) for such year to zero.

The term "loss from operations" means the excess of allowable deductions (computed with the following modifications) over the amount on line 12:

(a) No operations loss deduction is allowed.

(b) The deductions allowed by section 243 (dividends received by corporations), section 244 (dividends received on certain preferred stock of public utilities), and section 245 (dividends received from certain foreign corporations) shall be computed without regard to section 246(b), as modified by section 809(d) (8) (B).

Special transitional rules for carrybacks.—A loss from operations for any taxable year beginning before January 1, 1958, shall not be carried back to any taxable year beginning before January 1, 1955. Furthermore, a loss from operations for any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1957, cannot be carried back to any year commencing prior to January 1, 1958.

The loss from operations for all taxable years beginning after December 31, 1954, and before January 1, 1958, shall be determined as if the law applicable to 1958 were in effect for those taxable years.

Examples of the carryback and carryover provisions are as follows:

Company A, organized in 1940, has a loss from operations of $1,000 in 1958 this loss may not be carried back, but may be carried forward to each of the 5 taxable years following 1958. Company B, organized in 1940, has a loss from operations of $1,200 in 1959; this loss must be carried back to the taxable year 1958 and then carried forward to each of the 5 taxable years following 1959. Company C, organized in 1940, had a loss from operations of $1,300 for the taxable year 1956 (computed as if this part as in effect for 1958 applied to such year); this loss must first be carried back to the taxable year 1955 (computed as if this part as in effect for 1958 applied to such year) and then carried forward to each of the 5 taxable years following 1956. Company D, organized in 1958 and meeting the provisions of section 812(e), had a loss from operations of $1,400 for the taxable year 1958; this loss may be carried forward to each of the 8 taxable years following 1958. Company E, organized in 1954 and meeting the provisions of section 812(e), had a loss from operations of $1,500 for the taxable year 1956; this loss must first be carried back to the taxable year 1955 and then carried forward to each of the 8 taxable years following 1956.

Line 25. The amount of the deductions for dividends to policyholders, certain nonparticipating contracts, and group life, accident, and health insurance shall not exceed $250,000 plus the amount, if any, by which (a) the gain from operations for the taxable year, computed without regard to these deductions, exceeds (b) the taxable investment income for the taxable year. The limitation provided in the foregoing sentence shall apply first to the amount of the deduction for group life, accident, and health insurance, then to the amount of the deduction for certain nonparticipating contracts, and finally to the amount of the deduction for dividends to policyholders. See Schedule E-2, Part I.

SCHEDULE E-1.—REQUIRED INTEREST

The term "required interest" for any taxable year means the sum of the products obtained by multiplying (A) each rate of interest required, or assumed by the taxpayer, in calculating the reserves described in section 810(c), by (B) the means of the amount of such reserves computed at such rate at the beginning and end of the taxable year. See General Instruction O.

SCHEDULE E-2.—PART I—LIMITATION ON LINE 25, SCHEDULE E

Parts II, III, and IV should be completed before making entries in this schedule. Upon the proper completion of this schedule, the limitation provided in section 809(f) and explained in connection with line 25, Schedule E, automatically applies.

SCHEDULE E-2.—PART II—GROUP LIFE, ACCIDENT, AND HEALTH INSURANCE

This deduction is an amount equal to 2 percent of the premiums for the taxable year attributable to group life insurance contracts and group accident and health insurance contracts. The term "premiums" means the net amount of the premiums and other consideration taken into account in Schedule E.

However, the deduction allowed for the taxable year and all preceding taxable years shall not exceed an amount equal to 50 percent of the premiums for the taxable year attributable to such contracts.

SCHEDULE E-2.—PART III—CERTAIN NONPARTICIPATING CONTRACTS

This deduction is an amount equal to 10 percent of the increase for the taxable year in the reserves for nonparticipating contracts (excluding group contracts) or (if greater) an amount equal to 3 percent of the premiums for the taxable year (excluding that portion of the premiums which is allocable to annuity features) attributable to nonparticipating contracts (other than group contracts) which are issued or renewed for periods of 5 years or more. The term "reserves for nonparticipating contracts" means such part of the life insurance reserves (excluding that portion of the reserves which is allocable to annuity features) as relates to nonparticipating contracts (other than group contracts). The term "premiums" means the net amount of the premiums and other consideration taken into account in Schedule E.

The premiums referred to include only premiums attributable to nonparticipating contracts (other than group contracts) which are issued for periods of 5 years or more or are renewed for periods of 5 years or more, but do not include that portion of the premiums which is allocable to annuity features. The determination of whether a contract meets the 5-year requirement will be made as of the date it was issued, or as of the date it was renewed, whichever is applicable. Thus, a 20-year nonparticipating endowment policy will qualify under section 809(d)(5), even though the individual insured subsequently dies at the end of the second year, since the policy was issued for a period of 5 years or more. However, a 1-year renewable term contract will not qualify, in that, as of the date it was issued (or of any renewal date) it was not issued (or renewed) for a period of 5 years or more. In like manner, a policy originally issued for a 3-year period and subsequently renewed for an additional 3-year period will not qualify. However, if this policy were renewed for a period of 5 years or more, the policy would qualify under section 809(d)(5) from the date it was renewed.

SCHEDULE E-2.—PART III—DIVIDENDS TO POLICYHOLDERS

The term "dividends to policyholders" means dividends and similar distributions made to policyholders in their capacity as such. In general, amounts returned where the amount is not fixed in the contract but depends on the experience of the company or the discretion of the management are to be treated as dividends to policyholders. The term does not include interest paid (as defined in sec. 805(e)), or, for example, so-called excess interest payments made with respect to supplementary contracts not involving life, accident, or health contingencies merely because such interest payments exceed the amounts guaranteed under such contracts.

The deduction shall be an amount equal to the dividends paid to policyholders during the taxable year plus (or minus) any increase (or decrease) in the reserves for policyholder dividends payable during the immediately succeeding taxable year. For this purpose, reserves for policyholder dividends at the end of any taxable year shall include all amounts set aside before the 16th day of the 3d month of the year following such taxable year for payment of policyholder dividends during the year following such taxable year.

If the amount of the decrease for the taxable year in the reserves for policyholder dividends exceeds the amount of dividends paid to policyholders during such year, the amount of the excess shall be taken into account as an income item (line 10 (b), Schedule E).

SCHEDULE F.—SHAREHOLDERS SURPLUS ACCOUNT

Section 815(b)(1) provides that every stock life insurance company (both domestic and foreign) shall establish and maintain a shareholders surplus account for its first taxable year beginning after December 31, 1957. The balance remaining in this account as of January 1, 1960, shall be increased by the net additions thereto as provided in section 815(b)(2)

(lines 2-9 of the schedule). There shall be subtracted from this account any amount which is treated under section 815 as a distribution to shareholders. Any distribution to shareholders shall be treated as made first out of this account, to the extent thereof.

SCHEDULE G.—POLICYHOLDERS SURPLUS ACCOUNT

Section 815(c)(1) provides that every stock life insurance company (both domestic and foreign) shall establish and maintain a policyholders surplus account for its first taxable year beginning after December 31, 1958. The balance remaining in this account as of January 1, 1960 shall be increased by the additions thereto as provided by section 815(c)(2), line 2 of the schedule, and shall be decreased by the subtractions therefrom as provided by 815(c)(3), line 4 of the schedule.

Enter on line 4(a) the actual distributions to shareholders in excess of the amount reported on line 10, Schedule F. The amount to be entered on line 4(b) is the tax attributable to the amount (which is treated as a subtraction from this account) which after deducting the tax is the amount reflected on line 4(a). This amount can be determined by applying to the amount on line 4(a), a ratio, the numerator of which is 100 percent and the denominator of which is 100 percent minus the taxpayer's tax rate (the sum of the normal tax rate plus if applicable the surtax rate). See the regulations. The subtractions to be entered on line 4(c) shall be treated as made only after the subtractions have been made on lines 4(a) and (b).

SCHEDULE J.—REDUCTION UNDER 802(a)(3)

Section 802(a)(3) provides a 33½ percent reduction in any tax imposed for 1960 which is attributable to the inclusion in life insurance taxable income of the amount subtracted from the policyholders surplus account. However, this reduction of tax is limited to subtractions from the policyholders surplus account which result solely from actual distributions made to shareholders during 1960 (from lines 4(a) and (b), Schedule G).

EXPENSE ACCOUNT ALLOWANCES—SCHEDULE K, COLUMN 7

Expense account allowance means: (1) amounts, other than compensation, received as advances or reimbursements, and (2) amounts paid by or for the corporation, for expenses incurred by or on behalf of an officer including all amounts charged through any type of credit card.

However, this term does not include amounts paid for: (a) the purchase of goods for resale or use in your business; (b) incidental expenses, such as the purchase of office supplies for the corporation or local transportation in connection with an errand; and (c) such fringe benefits as hospitalization insurance, approved pension trust funds and unemployment insurance.

Column 7 of Schedule K is to be completed for your 25 highest paid officers. To determine the highest paid officers for this purpose all allowances including expense account allowances as described above must be added to each officer's compensation. Column 7 need not be completed for any officer for which the combined amount is less than $10,000.

The information is to be submitted by each member of an affiliated group which files a consolidated return.

For this purpose an officer is a person who is elected or appointed to office or who is designated as such in the corporation's charter or bylaws such as regular officers, directors, chairmen of the board, etc.

TAX COMPUTATION INSTRUCTIONS

1. Normal tax.—Section 802(a)(1) provides a normal tax on the life insurance company taxable income computed at the rate provided by section 11(b). Such section provides a normal tax for taxable years beginning before July 1, 1960, equal to 30 percent. In the case of a taxable year beginning after June 30, 1960, the normal tax is equal to 25 percent.

2. Surtax.—Section 802(a)(1) provides a surtax on so much of the life insurance company taxable income as exceeds $25,000, computed at the rate provided by section 11(c). Such section provides a surtax rate of 22 percent.

3. Tax in case of capital gains.—If for any taxable year the net long-term capital gain of any life insurance company exceeds the short-term capital loss, a tax is imposed equal to 25 percent of such excess.

4. Credit for taxes.—If, in accordance with section 901, a credit is claimed by a domestic corporation on account of income, war profits and excess profits taxes paid or accrued to a foreign country or a possession of the United States, Form 1118 should be submitted with the return. In case credit is sought for taxes accrued but not paid, the District Director may require a bond on Form 1119 as a condition precedent to the allowance of the credit. For carryback and carryover of a foreign tax credit, see section 904(c).

If the corporation is entitled to a credit for taxes paid by a regulated investment company on undistributed capital gains, include the credit on line 10(b), page 1, and indicate by amount that such a credit is being claimed. Attach Copy B of Form 2439 to page 1 of the Form 1120L.

5. Overpayment credited to estimated tax.—If the taxpayer elects to have all or part of the overpayment shown by his return applied to his estimated tax for his succeeding taxable year, no interest shall be allowed on such portion of the overpayment credited.

EXCERPTS FROM THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODESEC. 801. DEFINITION OF LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

(a) LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY DEFINED.—For purposes of this subtitle, the term "life insurance company" means an insurance company which is engaged in the business of issuing life insurance and annuity contracts (either separately or combined with health and accident insurance), or noncancellable contracts of health and accident insurance, if—

(1) its life insurance reserves (as defined in subsection (b)), plus

(2) unearned premiums, and unpaid losses (whether or not ascertained), on noncancellable life, health, or accident policies not included in life insurance reserves, comprise more than 50 percent of its total reserves (as defined in subsection (c)).

(b) LIFE INSURANCE RESERVES DEFINED.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this part, the term "life insurance reserves" means amounts—

(A) which are computed or estimated on the basis of recognized mortality or morbidity tables and assumed rates of interest, and

(B) which are set aside to mature or liquidate, either by payment or reinsurance, future unaccrued claims arising from life insurance, annuity, and noncancellable health and accident insurance contracts (including life insurance or annuity contracts combined with noncancellable health and accident insurance) involving, at the time with respect to which the reserve is computed, life, health, or accident contingencies.

(2) RESERVES MUST BE REQUIRED BY LAW.—Except—

(A) in the case of policies covering life, health, and accident insurance combined in one policy issued on the weekly premium payment plan, continuing for life and not subject to cancellation,

(B) in the case of policies issued by an organization which meets the requirements of section 501(c)(9) other than the requirement of subparagraph (B) thereof, and

(C) as provided in paragraph (3), in addition to the requirements set forth in paragraph (1), life insurance reserves must be required by law.

(3) ASSESSMENT COMPANIES.—In the case of an assessment life insurance company or association, the term "life insurance reserves" includes—

(A) sums actually deposited by such company or association with State or Territorial officers pursuant to law as guaranty or reserve funds, and

(B) any funds maintained, under the charter or articles of incorporation or association (or bylaws approved by a State insurance commissioner) of such company or association, exclusively for the payment of claims arising under certificates of membership or policies issued on the assessment plan and not subject to any other use.

For purposes of this part, the rate of interest assumed in calculating the reserves described in subparagraphs (A) and (B) shall be 3 percent.

(4) DEFICIENCY RESERVES EXCLUDED.—The term "life insurance reserves" does not include deficiency reserves. For purposes of this subsection and subsection (c), the deficiency reserve for any contract is that portion of the reserve for such contract equal to the amount (if any) by which—

(A) the present value of the future net premiums required for such contract, exceeds

(B) the present value of the future actual premiums and consideration charged for such contract.

(5) AMOUNT OF RESERVES.—For purposes of this subsection, subsection (a), and subsection (c), the amount of any reserve (or portion thereof) for any taxable year shall be the mean of such reserve (or portion thereof) at the beginning and end of the taxable year.

(c) TOTAL RESERVES DEFINED.—For purposes of subsection (a), the term "total reserves" means—

(1) life insurance reserves,

(2) unearned premiums, and unpaid losses (whether or not ascertained), not included in life insurance reserves, and

(3) all other insurance reserves required by law.

The term "total reserves" does not include deficiency reserves (within the meaning of subsection (b) (4)).

(d) ADJUSTMENTS IN RESERVES FOR POLICY LOANS.—For purposes only of determining under subsection (a) whether or not an insurance company is a life insurance company, the life insurance reserves, and the total reserves, shall each be reduced by an amount equal to the mean of the aggregates, at the beginning and end of the taxable year, of the policy loans outstanding with respect to contracts for which life insurance reserves are maintained.

(e) GUARANTEED RENEWABLE CONTRACTS.—For purposes of this part, guaranteed renewable life, health, and accident insurance shall be treated in the same manner as noncancellable life, health, and accident insurance.

(f) BURIAL AND FUNERAL BENEFIT INSURANCE COMPANIES.—A burial or funeral benefit insurance company engaged directly in the manufacture of funeral supplies or the performance of funeral services shall not be taxable under this part but shall be taxable under section 821 or section 831.

(g) VARIABLE ANNUITIES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this part, an annuity contract includes a contract which provides for the payment of a variable annuity computed on the basis of recognized mortality tables and the investment experience of the company issuing the contract.

(2) ADJUSTED RESERVES RATE; assumed rate.—For purposes of this part—

(A) the adjusted reserves rate for any taxable year with respect to annuity contracts described in paragraph (1), and

(B) the rate of interest assumed by the taxpayer for any taxable year in calculating the reserve on any such contract shall be a rate equal to the current earnings rate determined under paragraph (3).

(3) CURRENT EARNINGS RATE.—For purposes of this part, the current earnings rate for any taxable year with respect to annuity contracts described in paragraph (1) is the current earnings rate determined under section 805(b) (2) with respect to such contracts, reduced by the percentage obtained by dividing—

(A) the amount of the actuarial margin charge on all annuity contracts described in paragraph (1) issued by the taxpayer, by

(B) the mean of the reserves for such contracts.

(4) INCREASES AND DECREASES IN RESERVES.—For purposes of subsections (a) and (b) of section 810, the sum of the items described in section 810(c) taken into account as of the close of the taxable year shall, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate, be adjusted—

(A) by subtracting therefrom an amount equal to the sum of the amounts added from time to time (for the taxable year) to the reserves for annuity contracts described in paragraph (1) by reason of appreciation in value of assets (whether or not the assets have been disposed of), and

(B) by adding thereto an amount equal to the sum of the amounts subtracted from time to time (for the taxable year) from such reserves by reason of depreciation in value of assets (whether or not the assets have been disposed of).

(5) COMPANIES ISSUING VARIABLE ANNUITIES AND OTHER CONTRACTS.—In the case of a life insurance company which issues both annuity contracts described in paragraph (1) and other contracts, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate—

(A) the policy and other contract liability requirements shall be considered to be the sum of—

(i) the policy and other contract liability requirements computed by reference to the items which relate to annuity contracts described in paragraph (1), and

(ii) the policy and other contract liability requirements computed by excluding the items taken into account under clause (i); and

(B) such additional separate computations, with respect to such annuity contracts and such other contracts, shall be made as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this subsection and this part.

(6) TERMINATION.—Paragraphs (1), (2), (3), (4), and (5) shall not apply with respect to any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1962.

SEC. 802. TAX IMPOSED.

(a) TAX IMPOSED.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—A tax is hereby imposed for each taxable year beginning after December 31, 1957, on the life insurance company taxable income of every life insurance company. Such tax shall consist of—

(A) a normal tax on such income computed at the rate provided by section 11(b), and

(B) a surtax, on so much of such income as exceeds $25,000, computed at the rate provided by section 11(c).

(2) TAX IN CASE OF CAPITAL GAINS.—If for any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1958, the net long-term capital gain of any life insurance company exceeds the net short-term capital loss, there is hereby imposed a tax equal to 25 percent of such excess.

(3) SPECIAL RULE FOR 1959 AND 1960.—If any amount is subtracted from the policyholders surplus account under section 815(c) (3) for a taxable year beginning in 1959 or 1960 on account of a distribution in 1959 or 1960 (not including any distribution treated under section 815(d) (2) (B) as made in 1959 or 1960), the tax imposed for such taxable year on the life insurance company taxable income shall be the amount determined under paragraph (1) reduced by the following percentage of the amount by which the tax imposed by paragraph (1) is (without regard to this paragraph) increased, on account of the amount so subtracted, by reason of section 802(b) (3)—

(A) in the case of a taxable year beginning in 1959, 66 $\frac{2}{3}$ percent; and

(B) in the case of a taxable year beginning in 1960, 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ percent.

The preceding sentence shall not apply with respect to any payment treated as a distribution under section 815(d) (3).

(b) LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY TAXABLE INCOME DEFINED.—For purposes of this part, the term "life insurance company taxable income" means the sum of—

(1) the taxable investment income (as defined in section 804) or, if smaller, the gain from operations (as defined in section 809),

(2) if the gain from operations exceeds the taxable investment income, an amount equal to 50 percent of such excess, plus

(3) the amount subtracted from the policyholders surplus account for the taxable year, as determined under section 815.

SEC. 810. RULES FOR CERTAIN RESERVES.

(a) ADJUSTMENT FOR DECREASE.—If the sum of the items described in subsection (c) as of the beginning of the taxable year exceeds the sum of such items as of the close of the taxable year (reduced by the amount of investment yield not included in the gain or loss from operations for the taxable year by reason of section 809(a)(1)), the excess shall be taken into account as a net decrease referred to in section 809(c)(2).

(b) ADJUSTMENT FOR INCREASE.—If the sum of the items described in subsection (c) as of the close of the taxable year (reduced by the amount of investment yield not included in gain or loss from operations for the taxable year by reason of section 809(a)(1)) exceeds the sum of such items as of the beginning of the taxable year, the excess shall be taken into account as a net increase referred to in section 809(d)(2).

(c) ITEMS TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT.—The items referred to in subsections (a) and (b) are as follows:

(1) The life insurance reserves (as defined in section 801(b)).

(2) The unearned premiums and unpaid losses included in total reserves under section 801(c)(2).

(3) The amounts (discounted at the rates of interest assumed by the company) necessary to satisfy the obligations under insurance or annuity contracts (including contracts supplementary thereto), but only if such obligations do not involve (at the time with respect to which the computation is made under this paragraph) life, health, or accident contingencies.

(4) Dividend accumulations, and other amounts, held at interest in connection with insurance or annuity contracts (including contracts supplementary thereto).

(5) Premiums received in advance, and liabilities for premium deposit funds.

In applying this subsection, the same item shall be counted only once.

(d) ADJUSTMENT FOR CHANGE IN COMPUTING RESERVES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—If the basis for determining any item referred to in subsection (c) as of the close of any taxable year differs from the basis for such determination as of the close of the preceding taxable year, then so much of the difference between—

(A) the amount of the item at the close of the taxable year, computed on the new basis, and

(B) the amount of the item at the close of the taxable year, computed on the old basis, as is attributable to contracts issued before the taxable year shall be taken into account for purposes of this subpart as follows:

(i) if the amount determined under subparagraph (A) exceeds the amount determined under subparagraph (B), $\frac{1}{10}$ of such excess shall be taken into account, for each of the succeeding 10 taxable years, as a net increase to which section 809(d)(2) applies; or

(ii) if the amount determined under subparagraph (B) exceeds the amount determined under subparagraph (A), $\frac{1}{10}$ of such excess shall be taken into account for each of the 10 succeeding taxable years, as a net decrease to which section 809(c)(2) applies.

(2) TERMINATION AS LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.—Except as provided in section 381(c)(22) (relating to carryovers in certain corporate readjustments), if for any taxable year the taxpayer is not a life insurance company, the balance of any adjustments under this paragraph shall be taken into account for the preceding taxable year.

(3) EFFECT OF PRELIMINARY TERM ELECTION.—An election under section 818(c) shall not be treated as a change in the basis for determining an item referred to in subsection (c) to which this subsection applies. If an election under section 818(c) applies for the taxable year, the amounts of the items referred to in subparagraphs (A) and (B) of paragraph (1) shall be determined without regard to such election. If such an election would apply in respect of such item for the taxable year but for the new basis, the amount of the item referred to in subparagraph (B) shall be determined on the basis which would have been applicable under section 818(c) if the election applied in respect of the item for the taxable year.

(e) CERTAIN DECREASES IN RESERVES OF VOLUNTARY EMPLOYEES' BENEFICIARY ASSOCIATIONS.—

(1) DECREASES DUE TO VOLUNTARY LAPSES OF POLICIES ISSUED BEFORE JANUARY 1, 1958.—For purposes of subsections (a) and (b), in the case of a life insurance company which meets the requirements of section 501(c)(9) other than the requirement of subparagraph (B) thereof, there shall be taken into account only $11\frac{1}{2}$ percent of any decrease in the life insurance reserve on any policy issued before January 1, 1958, which is attributable solely to the voluntary lapse of such policy on or after January 1, 1958. In applying the preceding sentence, the decrease in the reserve for any policy shall be determined by reference to the amount of such reserve as of the beginning of the taxable year, reduced by any amount allowable as a deduction under section 809(d)(1) in respect of such policy by reason of such lapse. This paragraph shall apply for any taxable year only if the taxpayer has made an election under paragraph (3) which is effective for such taxable year.

(2) DISALLOWANCE OF CARRYOVERS FROM PRE-1958 LOSSES FROM OPERATIONS.—In the case of a life insurance company to which paragraph (1) applies for the taxable year, section 812(b)(1) shall not apply with respect to any loss from operations for any taxable year beginning before January 1, 1958.

(3) ELECTION.—Paragraph (1) shall apply to any taxpayer for any taxable year only if the taxpayer elects, not later than the time prescribed by law (including extensions thereof) for filing the return for such taxable year, to have such paragraph apply. Such election shall be made in such manner as the Secretary or his delegate shall prescribe by regulations. Such election shall be effective for the taxable year for which made and for all succeeding taxable years, and shall not be revoked except with the consent of the Secretary or his delegate.

SEC. 811. DIVIDENDS TO POLICYHOLDERS.

(a) DIVIDENDS TO POLICYHOLDERS DEFINED.—For purposes of this part, the term "dividends to policyholders" means dividends and similar distributions to policyholders in their capacity as such. Such term does not include interest paid (as defined in section 805(e)).

(b) AMOUNT OF DEDUCTION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as limited by section 809(f), the deduction for dividends to policyholders for any taxable year shall be an amount equal to the dividends to policyholders paid during the taxable year—

(A) increased by the excess of (i) the amounts held at the end of the taxable year as reserves for dividends to policyholders (as defined in subsection (a)) payable during the year following the taxable year, over (ii) such amounts held at the end of the preceding taxable year, or

(B) decreased by the excess of (i) such amounts held at the end of the preceding taxable year, over (ii) such amounts held at the end of the taxable year.

For purposes of subparagraphs (A) and (B), there shall be included as amounts held at the end of any taxable year amounts set aside, before the 16th day of the third month of the year following such taxable year (or, in the case of a mutual savings bank subject to the tax imposed by section 594, before the 16th day of the fourth month of the year following such taxable year), for payment during the year following such taxable year.

(2) CERTAIN AMOUNTS TO BE TREATED AS NET DECREASES.—If the amount determined under paragraph (1)(B) exceeds the dividends to policyholders paid during the taxable year, the amount of such excess shall be a net decrease referred to in section 809(c)(2).

SEC. 815. DISTRIBUTIONS TO SHAREHOLDERS.

(a) GENERAL RULE.—For purposes of this section and section 802(b)(3), any distribution to shareholders after December 31, 1958, shall be treated as made—

(1) first out of the shareholders surplus account, to the extent thereof,

(2) then out of the policyholders surplus account, to the extent thereof, and

(3) finally out of other accounts.

For purposes of this section, the term "distribution" includes any distribution in redemption of stock or in partial or complete liquidation of the corporation, but does not include any distribution made by the corporation in its stock or in rights to acquire its stock, and does not (except for purposes of paragraph (3) and subsection (e)(2)(B)) include any distribution in redemption of stock issued before 1958 which at all times on and after the date of issuance and on and before the date of redemption is limited as to dividends and is callable, at the option of the issuer, at a price not in excess of 105 percent of the sum of the issue price and the amount of any contribution to surplus made by the original purchaser at the time of his purchase.

(b) SHAREHOLDERS SURPLUS ACCOUNT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Each stock life insurance company shall, for purposes of this part, establish and maintain a shareholders surplus account. The amount in such account on January 1, 1958, shall be zero.

(2) ADDITIONS TO ACCOUNT.—The amount added to the shareholders surplus account for any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1957, shall be the amount by which—

(A) the sum of—

(i) the life insurance company taxable income (computed without regard to section 802(b)(3)),

(ii) in the case of a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1958, the amount (if any) by which the net long-term capital gain exceeds the net short-term capital loss,

(iii) the deduction for partially tax-exempt interest provided by section 242 (as modified by section 804(a)(3)), the deductions for dividends received provided by sections 243, 244, and 245 (as modified by section 809(d)(8)(B)), and the amount of interest excluded from gross income under section 103, and

(iv) the small business deduction provided by section 809(d)(10), exceeds

(B) the taxes imposed for the taxable year by section 802(a), determined without regard to section 802(b)(3).

(3) SUBTRACTIONS FROM ACCOUNT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—There shall be subtracted from the shareholders surplus account for any taxable year the amount which is treated under this section as distributed out of such account.

(B) DISTRIBUTIONS IN 1958.—There shall be subtracted from the shareholders surplus account (to the extent thereof) for any taxable year beginning in 1958 the amount of distributions to shareholders made during 1958.

(c) POLICYHOLDERS SURPLUS ACCOUNT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Each stock life insurance company shall, for purposes of this part, establish and maintain a policyholders surplus account. The amount in such account on January 1, 1959, shall be zero.

(2) ADDITIONS TO ACCOUNT.—The amount added to the policyholders surplus account for any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1958, shall be the sum of—

(A) an amount equal to 50 percent of the amount by which the gain from operations exceeds the taxable investment income,

(B) the deduction for certain nonparticipating contracts provided by section 809(d)(5) (as limited by section 809(f)), and

(C) the deduction for group life and group accident and health insurance contracts provided by section 809(d)(6) (as limited by section 809(f)).

(3) SUBTRACTIONS FROM ACCOUNT.—There shall be subtracted from the policyholders surplus account for any taxable year an amount equal to the sum of—

(A) the amount which (without regard to subparagraph (B)) is treated under this section as distributed out of the policyholders surplus account, and

(B) the amount (determined without regard to section 802(a)(3)) by which the tax imposed for the taxable year by section 802(a)(1) is increased by reason of section 802(b)(3).

(d) SPECIAL RULES.—

(1) ELECTION TO TRANSFER AMOUNTS FROM POLICYHOLDERS SURPLUS ACCOUNT TO SHAREHOLDERS SURPLUS ACCOUNT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—A taxpayer may elect for any taxable year for which it is a life insurance company to subtract from its policyholders surplus account any amount in such account as of the close of such taxable year. The amount so subtracted, less the amount of the tax imposed with respect to such amount by reason of section 802(b)(3), shall be added to the shareholders surplus account as of the beginning of the succeeding taxable year.

(B) MANNER AND EFFECT OF ELECTION.—The election provided by subparagraph (A) shall be made (in such manner and in such form as the Secretary or his delegate may by regulations prescribe) after the close of the taxable year and not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the return (including extensions thereof) for the taxable year. Such an election, once made, may not be revoked.

(2) TERMINATION AS LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.—

(A) EFFECT OF TERMINATION.—Except as provided in section 381(c)(22) (relating to carryovers in certain corporate readjustments), if—

(i) for any taxable year the taxpayer is not an insurance company, or

(ii) for any two successive taxable years the taxpayer is not a life insurance company, then the amount taken into account under section 802(b)(3) for the last preceding taxable year for which it was a life insurance company shall be increased (after the application of subparagraph (B)) by the amount remaining in its policyholders surplus account at the close of such last preceding taxable year.

(B) EFFECT OF CERTAIN DISTRIBUTIONS.—If for any taxable year the taxpayer is an insurance company but not a life insurance company, then any distribution to shareholders during such taxable year shall be treated as made on the last day of the last preceding taxable year for which the taxpayer was a life insurance company.

(3) TREATMENT OF CERTAIN INDEBTEDNESS.—If—

(A) the taxpayer makes any payment in discharge of its indebtedness, and

(B) such indebtedness is attributable to a distribution by the taxpayer to its shareholders after February 9, 1959, then the amount of such payment shall, for purposes of this section and section 802(b)(3), be treated as a distribution in cash to shareholders, but only to the extent that the distribution referred to in subparagraph (B) was treated as made out of accounts other than the shareholders and policyholders surplus accounts.

(4) LIMITATION ON AMOUNT IN POLICYHOLDERS SURPLUS ACCOUNT.—There shall be treated as a subtraction from the policyholders surplus account for a taxable year for which the taxpayer is a life insurance company the amount by which the policyholders surplus account (computed at the end of the taxable year without regard to this paragraph) exceeds whichever of the following is the greatest—

(A) 15 percent of life insurance reserves at the end of the taxable year,

(B) 25 percent of the amount by which the life insurance reserves at the end of the taxable year exceed the life insurance reserves at the end of 1958, or

(C) 50 percent of the net amount of the premiums and other consideration taken into account for the taxable year under section 809(c) (1).

The amount so treated as subtracted, less the amount of the tax imposed with respect to such amount by reason of section 802(b) (3), shall be added to the shareholders surplus account as of the beginning of the succeeding taxable year.

(e) SPECIAL RULE FOR CERTAIN MUTUALIZATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of this section and section 802(b) (3), any distribution to shareholders after December 31, 1958, in acquisition of stock pursuant to a plan of mutualization shall be treated—

(A) first, as made out of paid-in capital and paid-in surplus, to the extent thereof,

(B) thereafter, as made in two allocable parts—

(i) one part of which is made out of the other accounts referred to in subsection (a) (3), and

(ii) the remainder of which is a distribution to which subsection (a) applies.

(2) SPECIAL RULES.—

(A) ALLOCATION RATIO.—The part referred to in paragraph (1) (B) (i) is the amount which bears the same ratio to the amount to which paragraph (1) (B) applies as—

(i) the excess (determined as of December 31, 1958, and adjusted to the beginning of the year of the distribution as provided in subparagraph (B)) of the assets over the total liabilities, bears to

(ii) the sum (determined as of the beginning of the year of the distribution) of the excess described in clause (i), the amount in the shareholders surplus account, plus the amount in the policyholders surplus account.

(B) ADJUSTMENT FOR CERTAIN DISTRIBUTIONS.—The excess described in subparagraph (A) (i) shall be reduced by the aggregate of the prior distributions which have been treated under subsection (a) (3) as made out of accounts other than the shareholders surplus account and the policyholders surplus account.

SEC. 819. FOREIGN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

(a) CARRYING ON UNITED STATES INSURANCE BUSINESS.—A foreign life insurance company carrying on a life insurance business within the United States, if with respect to its United States business it would qualify as a life insurance company under section 801, shall be taxable on the United States business of such company in the same manner as a domestic life insurance company.

(b) ADJUSTMENT WHERE SURPLUS HELD IN UNITED STATES IS LESS THAN SPECIFIED MINIMUM.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—In the case of any company described in subsection (a), if the minimum figure determined under paragraph (2) exceeds the surplus held in the United States, then—

(A) the amount of the policy and other contract liability requirements (determined under section 805 without regard to this subsection), and

(B) the amount of the required interest (determined under section 809(a) (2) without regard to this subsection), shall each be reduced by an amount determined by multiplying such excess by the current earnings rate (as defined in section 805(b) (2)).

(2) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of paragraph (1)—

(A) The minimum figure is the amount determined by multiplying the taxpayer's total insurance liabilities on United States business by—

(i) in the case of a taxable year beginning before January 1, 1959, 9 percent, and

(ii) in the case of a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1958, a percentage for such year to be determined and proclaimed by the Secretary or his delegate.

The percentage determined and proclaimed by the Secretary or his delegate under clause (ii) shall be based on such data with respect to domestic life insurance companies for the preceding taxable year as the Secretary or his delegate considers representative. Such percentage shall be computed on the basis of a ratio the numerator of which is the excess of the assets over the total insurance liabilities, and the denominator of which is the total insurance liabilities.

(B) The surplus held in the United States is the excess of the assets held in the United States over the total insurance liabilities on United States business.

For purposes of this paragraph and subsection (c), the term "total insurance liabilities" means the sum of the total reserves (as defined in section 801(c)) plus (to the extent not included in total reserves) the items referred to in paragraphs (3), (4), and (5) of section 810(c).

(c) DISTRIBUTIONS TO SHAREHOLDERS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—In applying sections 802(b) (3) and 815 for purposes of subsection (a), the amount of the distributions to shareholders shall be determined by multiplying the total amount of the distributions to shareholders (within the meaning of section 815) of the foreign life insurance company by whichever of the following percentages is selected by the taxpayer for the taxable year:

(A) the percentage which the minimum figure for the taxable year (determined under subsection (b) (2) (A)) is of the excess of the assets of the company over the total insurance liabilities; or

(B) the percentage which the total insurance liabilities on United States business for the taxable year is of the company's total insurance liabilities.

(2) DISTRIBUTIONS PURSUANT TO CERTAIN MUTUALIZATIONS.—In applying section 815(e) for purposes of subsection (a)—

(A) the paid-in capital and paid-in surplus referred to in section 815(e) (1) (A) of a foreign life insurance company is the portion of such capital and surplus determined by multiplying such capital and surplus by the percentage selected for the taxable year under paragraph (1); and

(B) the excess referred to in section 815(e) (2) (A) (i) (without the adjustment provided by section 815(e) (2) (B)) is whichever of the following is the greater:

(i) the minimum figure for 1958 determined under subsection (b) (2) (A), or

(ii) the surplus described in subsection (b) (2) (B) (determined as of December 31, 1958).

(d) NO UNITED STATES INSURANCE BUSINESS.—Foreign life insurance companies not carrying on an insurance business within the United States shall not be taxable under this part but shall be taxable as other foreign corporations.

INSTRUCTIONS

(References are to the Internal Revenue Code)

A. General.—Report sales or exchanges of capital assets and sales or exchanges of property other than capital assets in Schedule D. Every sale or exchange of property, even though no gain or loss may be indicated, must be reported in detail.

B. Definition of capital assets.—The term "capital assets" means property held by the taxpayer (whether or not connected with its trade or business), but does not include (1) stock in trade of the taxpayer or other property of a kind which would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of its trade or business; or (2) property used in the trade or business, of a character which is subject to the allowance for depreciation provided in section 167, or real property used in the trade or business of the taxpayer (see below); or (3) certain copyrights, literary, musical, or artistic compositions, or similar properties; or (4) accounts or notes receivable acquired in the ordinary course of trade or business for services rendered or from the sale of property described in (1) above; or (5) an obligation of the United States or any of its possessions, or of a State or Territory, or any political subdivision thereof, or of the District of Columbia, issued on or after March 1, 1941, on a discount basis and payable without interest at a fixed maturity date not exceeding 1 year from the date of issue. (Sec. 1221.)

The above definition is modified in the case of life insurance companies in that the exclusion of item 2 (property used in a trade or business, etc.) relates only to property used in carrying on an insurance business. (Sec. 817(a)(2).)

The term "property used in carrying on an insurance business" means those assets used in the operation of the insurance trade or business. These assets include such items as the home office building, branch offices, office equipment, and furniture and fixtures. These assets do not include the investment assets from which interest, rents, dividends, and royalties are derived. Thus, the gains or losses from the sale or exchange of depreciable assets attributable to any trade or business (other than an insurance business) carried on by the life insurance company, such as renting various pieces of real estate, or operating a radio station, a housing development or a farm, will be treated as gains or losses from the sales or exchanges of capital assets.

C. Gains and losses from involuntary conversion and from the sale or exchange of certain property used in the trade or business.—Section 1231 of the Code provides in part that where the gains from the sale or exchange of property used in the trade or business and held for more than 6 months exceed the losses, each gain and loss is treated as though it was from the sale or exchange of a long-term capital asset. Where the losses exceed the gains, then each gain or loss is considered as not being from the sale or exchange of a capital asset, with the result that ordinary gain or loss is realized.

Section 817(a) provides that in applying section 1231(a), the term "property used in the trade or business" shall be treated as including only (1) property used in carrying on an insurance business, of a character which is subject to the allowance for depreciation provided in section 167, held for more than 6 months, and real property used in carrying on an insurance business, held for more than 6 months, which is not described in section 1231(b)(1)(A) (relating to property includible in inventory), section 1231(b)(1)(B) (relating to property held for sale to customers), or section 1231(b)(1)(C) (relating to a copyright, a literary, musical, or artistic composition, etc.); and (2) to timber and coal to which section 631 applies. See instruction B.

The total shown on line 2 determines whether the items reflected therein represent a long-term capital gain or an ordinary loss. In either case, after the initial determination the items must be segregated into (1) assets held on December 31, 1958, where the F.M.V. exceeded the adjusted basis on that date, and (2) other, and the totals entered into the appropriate schedules of Part II or Part III.

D. Basis.—The "basis" for certain property is not subject to the same rule for reporting gains as for losses.

(a). Gain on property held on December 31, 1958.—Section 817(b)(1)—in effect, limits the amount of gain that is to be recognized on the sale or other disposition of certain property held by the company on December 31, 1958. This is accomplished by treating the gain on the sale or other disposition of such property as an amount (but not less than zero) equal to the amount by which the gain (determined without regard to 817(b)(1)) exceeds the difference between the fair market value on December 31, 1958, and the adjusted basis (as provided in sec. 1016(a) of the Code) for determining gain as of such date. This limitation on the amount of gain recognized applies only if (1) the property was held by a life insurance company on December 31, 1958, (2) the fair market value of the property on December 31, 1958, is greater than the adjusted basis for determining gain as of that date, and (3) the taxpayer has been a life insurance company at all times on and after December 31, 1958, until the date of sale or other disposition of the property.

Example: Life insurance company I owned property X on December 31, 1958, at which time its adjusted basis was $1,000 and its fair market value was $1,600. On January 31, 1960, in a transaction to which section 1031 (Exchanges of property held for productive use or investment) applies, I receives property Y having a fair market value of $1,700 plus $300 in cash in exchange for property X. Assuming no adjustment to the basis for the period since December 31, 1958, the gain on the transaction, without regard to section 817(b) is $1,000 (the amount received $2,000 [F.M.V. of property Y of $1,700 plus cash of $300] less the adjusted basis of $1,000). Under section 817(b) the gain is treated as $200 (the amount by which the gain [determined without regard to 817(b)] of $1,000 exceeds $800 [the difference between the F.M.V. of $1,800 on December 31, 1958, and the adjusted basis for determining gain as of such date of $1,000]). All of this $200 is recognized gain since under section 1031, $300 of the $1,000 gain would be recognized.

(b). Certain substituted property acquired after December 31, 1958.—Section 817(b)(2)—provides certain rules for property acquired after December 31, 1958, and having a substituted basis within the meaning of section 1016(b). Subparagraph (A) of section 817(b)(2) provides for purposes of section 817(b)(1), that such property shall be deemed as having been held continuously by the taxpayer since the beginning of the holding period of the property, determined in accord with section 1223. Subparagraph (B) provides for purposes of section 817(b)(1) that the fair market value and the adjusted basis shall be that of that property for which the holding period taken into account includes December 31, 1958. Subparagraph (C) provides that section 817(b)(1) shall apply only if the property or properties the holding period of which are taken into account were held only by life insurance companies after December 31, 1958, during the holding periods so taken into account. Subparagraph D provides that the difference between the fair market value and the adjusted basis referred to in 817(b)(1) shall be reduced (but not below zero) by the excess of (i) the gain that would have been recognized but for section 817(b) on all prior sales or dispositions after December 31, 1958, of properties referred to in section 817(b)(2)(C) over (ii) the gain that was recognized on such sales or other dispositions. Subparagraph (E) provides that the basis of such property shall be determined as if the gain which would have been recognized but for section 817(b), were recognized gain.

Example: The basis of property Y to I (see example in (a)) is determined as if the $300 cash received had been recognized gain. Thus the basis of property Y under section 1031 is $1,000 (the basis of property X) minus $300 (the amount of money received) plus $300 (the gain of $200 recognized on the exchange plus $100 which would have been recognized but for section 817(b)).

If I later sells Y for $2,200 cash and its adjusted basis is $1,000, the gain is $1,200, which under section 817(b) is treated as a gain of $500. Under section 817(b)(2)(D), the difference of $800 between the F.M.V. of $1,800 and the adjusted basis of $1,000 is reduced by $100, the excess of $300, the amount which would have been recognized under section 1031 but for section 817(b), over $200, the gain recognized under section 817(b).

Section 817(b)(3) provides that the term "property" (for purposes of (a) and (b), above) does not include insurance and annuity contracts (and contracts supplementary thereto) and property described in paragraph (1) of section 1221 (relating to stock in trade or inventory-type property).

(c). Property held on December 31, 1958, and certain substituted property acquired after December 31, 1958.—In determining loss for such property (described in (a) and (b), above) the basis is cost adjusted as provided by section 1016.

(d). Other property acquired after December 31, 1958.—Where property, other than property described in (b) above, was purchased after December 31, 1958, the basis is cost adjusted as provided in section 1016. Where property was acquired by bequest, gift, involuntary conversion, or wash sale or stock see sections 1014, 1015, 1033, and 1031, respectively.

E. Losses.—Losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets shall be allowed only to the extent of gains from such sales or exchanges. However, the amount of a net capital loss sustained in 1959 and subsequent years may be carried over to each of the 5 succeeding taxable years and treated in each such succeeding taxable year as a short-term capital loss to the extent not allowed as a deduction against any net capital gains of any taxable year intervening between the taxable year in which the net capital loss was sustained and the taxable year to which carried.

1(a). Losses on securities becoming worthless.—If any securities (as defined below) become worthless within the taxable year and are capital assets, the loss resulting therefrom shall be considered as a loss from the sale or exchange, on the last day of such taxable year, of capital assets. Section 165(g)(1).

(b). Definition of security.—For the purpose of determining capital losses under section 165, the term "security" means a share of stock in a corporation; a right to subscribe for, or to receive, a share of stock in a corporation; or a bond, debenture, note or certificate, or other evidence of indebtedness, issued by a corporation or by a government or political subdivision thereof, with interest coupons or in registered form. However, securities issued by certain affiliated corporations shall not be deemed capital assets. Section 165(g)(3).

2. Losses not allowable.—No loss shall be recognized in any sale or other disposition of shares of stock or securities where there has been acquired substantially identical stock or securities, or there has been entered into a contract or option to acquire substantially identical stock or securities, within 30 days before or after the date of such sale or disposition, except in cases of dealers in stocks and securities which have sustained the loss in a transaction made in the ordinary course of business. Section 1091.

Except in the case of distributions in liquidation, no deduction shall be allowed in respect of losses from sales or exchanges of property, directly or indirectly, between an individual and a corporation in which such individual owns, directly or indirectly, more than 50 percent in value of the outstanding stock; or (except in the case of distributions in liquidation) between two corporations more than 50 percent in value of the outstanding stock of each of which is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for the same individual, if either one of such corporations, with respect to the taxable year of the corporation preceding the date of the sale or exchange was, under the law applicable to such taxable year, (1) a personal holding company, as defined in section 542, or (2) a foreign personal holding company, as defined in section 552. (For the purpose of determining the ownership of stock, in applying this paragraph, see section 267.)

F. Gain on transactions occurring prior to January 1, 1959.—Section 817(d) provides that any gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset, and any gain considered as gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset which results from sales or other dispositions of property prior to January 1, 1959, shall not be included. Thus, section 817(d) excludes from section 802(a)(2) (relating to the tax in case of capital gains) any gain from the sale of a capital asset consummated before 1959 where the sale was on the installment method.

G. Emergency facilities.—If emergency facilities are sold or exchanged, see section 1238.

H. Long-term capital gains from regulated investment companies.—Include in income as a long-term capital gain the amount the corporation has been notified constitutes its share of the undistributed capital gains of a regulated investment company. See Tax Computation Instructions, Form 1120 L, for method of claiming credit of tax paid on such gains.

I. Short sales of capital assets.—For rules regarding tax consequences of certain short sales of stock or other securities (including those dealt with on a "when issued" basis), and transactions in commodity futures, see section 1233.

Specific Instructions

Column (a) description.—Enter full description of each item of property sold or exchanged, even though no gain or loss may be indicated. Such description should include the following facts: (a) For real estate, location and description of land, description of improvements, details explaining depreciation; (b) for bonds or other evidences of indebtedness, name of issuing corporation, description of the particular issue, denomination, and amount; (c) for stocks, name of issuing corporation, class of stock, number of shares, and capital changes affecting basis (nontaxable stock dividends, other nontaxable distributions, stock rights, etc.).

Column (e) depreciation.—Enter in column "e" the amount of depreciation, exhaustion, wear and tear, obsolescence, amortization and depletion in respect of the property. This amount shall be the sum of the following:

(a) The amount of depreciation, exhaustion, wear and tear, obsolescence, amortization, and depletion which has been allowed (but not less than the amount allowable) in respect of such property since date of acquisition, or since February 28, 1913, if the property was acquired before that date. For any period after December 31, 1951, the amount of depreciation, etc., allowed (and which is in excess of the amount allowable) shall be disregarded to the extent that such excess does not result in a reduction for any taxable year of the taxpayer's income tax; and

(b) The amount of depreciation, exhaustion, wear and tear, obsolescence, amortization, and depletion actually sustained:

(1) Prior to March 1, 1913, if the property was acquired before that date; or

(2) Since February 28, 1913, and before January 1, 1958, with respect to property to which section 1016(a)(2) was inapplicable during such period.

Column (f) basis.—If the amount shown as the basis is other than actual cash cost of the property sold or exchanged, full details must be furnished regarding the acquisition of the property. Subsequent improvements to be entered in column "f" include expenditures for additions, improvements, renewals, and replacements made to restore the property or prolong its useful life. Do not include ordinary repairs, interest, or taxes in column "f" or elsewhere in computing gain or loss. Also, see General Instruction D.

Column (h) gain (loss).—Except where section 817 is applicable, the gain or loss is the result of column d plus column e, less the sum of columns f and g. Where section 817 is applicable, complete columns "a" through "g" and attach a schedule showing the method of computing the gain reported in column "h." See General Instruction D.

Columns (i)-(l).—These columns are to be used only in those cases where the fair market value of such property held or deemed held on December 31, 1958, exceeds the adjusted basis for determining gain as of such date.

Line 2.—Enter the total of the section 1231 items, described in line 1.

Line 3.—Enter each short-term capital gain (loss). The term "short-term" applies to the category of gains and losses arising from the sale or exchange of capital assets held for 6 months or less.

Line 4.—Enter your net short-term capital gain. The term "net short-term capital gain" means the excess of the total of all of the short-term capital gains over the total of the short-term capital losses. This total should also be entered on line 12.

Line 5.—Enter your net short-term capital loss. The term "net short-term capital loss" means the excess of the total of the short-term capital losses over the total of all of the short-term capital gains. This total should also be entered on line 13.

Line 6.—Enter the total of the applicable items in Part I and each long-term capital gain from assets held on December 31, 1958, where the fair market value exceeded the adjusted basis on that date. The term "long-term" applies to the category of gains and losses arising from the sale or exchange of capital assets held for more than 6 months.

Line 7.—Enter the total of the applicable items in Part I and the total of the other long-term capital gains described in line 6.

Line 8.—Enter each long-term capital gain (loss) that does not qualify under line 6.

Line 9.—Enter the total of the gains and losses that are shown in line 7, column h.

Line 10.—Enter your net long-term capital gain. The term "net long-term capital gain" means the excess of the total of all of the long-term capital gains over the total of the long-term capital losses. This total should also be entered on line 15.

Line 11.—Enter your net long-term capital loss. The term "net long-term capital loss" means the excess of the total of the long-term capital losses over the total of all of the long-term capital gains. This total should also be entered on line 13.

Tax Computation

If the net long-term capital gain (line 10, above) exceeds the net short-term capital loss (line 5, above), a separate tax equal to 25 percent of such excess is imposed. The amount of the tax should be entered on line 18 of Schedule D and on line 6, page 1, Form 1120 L.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

A. Companies Required To File a Return.—Every mutual insurance company other than a life or marine insurance company and other than a fire insurance company subject to the tax imposed by section 831 (except a foreign mutual insurance company other than a life or marine insurance company or a fire insurance company subject to the tax imposed by section 831—not carrying on an insurance business within the United States) with gross amount received from sources indicated in section 501 (c) (15), in excess of $75,000, shall file a return.

If a mutual insurance company subject to taxation under section 821 disposes of its insurance business and reserves or otherwise ceases to be entitled to be taxed under section 821, but continues its corporate existence for the purpose of winding up and liquidating its affairs, thereafter it will be taxable in the same manner as corporations generally.

B. Period Covered.—The return shall be for the calendar year ended December 31, 1960, and the taxable income computed on the calendar year basis in accordance with the provisions of section 843.

C. Accounting Methods.—A return on this form shall be filed using the cash or accrual method of accounting, except that whichever method is adopted in filing the company's first return must be followed until the consent of the Commissioner is received to change the method.

Rounding Off to Whole-Dollar Amounts.—If you wish, the money items on your return or accompanying schedules required by such return may be shown as whole-dollar amounts. This means that you eliminate any amount less than 50 cents, and increase any amount from 50 cents through 99 cents to the next highest dollar. Your choice as to whether you round off to whole-dollar amounts may not be changed after the due date for filing your return.

D. Time and Place for Filing.—The return must be sent to the District Director of Internal Revenue for the district in which the company's principal place of business or principal office or agency is located, on or before March 15, 1961.

E. Signature and Verification.—The return must be signed either by the president, vice president, treasurer, assistant treasurer or chief accounting officer, or other corporate officer (such as tax officer) who is authorized to sign. A receiver, trustee, or assignee must sign any return which he is required to file on behalf of a corporation. The statement at the bottom of page 1 of the return is required to be signed by any person, firm, or corporation who prepared the taxpayer's return for compensation. If the return is prepared by a firm or corporation, it should be signed in the name of the firm or corporation. The statement is not required if the return is prepared by a regular, full-time employee.

F. Payment of Tax.—The tax must be paid in full when the return is filed or in two installments, 50 percent on or before the 15th day of the third month and 50 percent on or before the 15th day of the sixth month following the close of the taxable year.

A declaration of estimated tax must be made by every corporation which is subject to income tax under subchapter L of chapter 1 (relating to insurance companies), if its income tax for the taxable year can reasonably be expected to exceed $100,000 plus the amount of any estimated credits against tax. (See Form 1120-ES.) In the case of affiliated corporations filing a consolidated return, see consolidated return regulations prescribed under section 1502.

Additional Charge for Underpayment of Estimated Tax.—Underpayment of installments of estimated tax will result in additional charges for the period from the due date of each installment until paid, or until the due date for filing the tax return, whichever is the earlier.

The charge with respect to any underpayment of any installment is mandatory and will be made unless the exceptions specified in section 6655 (d) are applicable.

If you have an underpayment of estimated tax and believe the additional charge should not be asserted due to the applicability of the "relief provisions" of section 6655 (d), attach a statement to your return explaining which of the provisions applies to you, showing any necessary computations. If you wish, you may obtain Form 2210 from the nearest Internal Revenue Service office for this purpose.

G. Failure To File, Etc.—Substantial additions to the tax are imposed for failing to file a return, for late filing, and for filing a false or fraudulent return.

H. Information at Source.—Every insurance company making payments in the course of its trade or business of (1) interest, rents, commissions, or other fixed or determinable income of $600 or more during the calendar year 1960 to an individual, a partnership, or a fiduciary or (2) salaries or wages of $600 or more shall make returns on Forms 1096 and 1099, except that the making of such return will not be required with respect to salary or wage payments included on Form W-2, provided copies of withholding statements on Form W-2 are furnished. If a portion of such salary or wage payments was reported on a Withholding Statement (Form W-2), only the remainder must be reported on Form 1099.

I. Information by Corporations—Contemplated Dissolution of Liquidation.—Every corporation shall, within 60 days after the adoption by the corporation of a resolution or plan for the dissolution of the corporation, render a correct return on Form 966, setting forth the terms of such resolution or plan. (See section 6043.)

J. Stock Ownership in Foreign Corporations.—In addition to the schedule required by Specific Instruction 2, a corporation owning any stock of a foreign corporation must attach a statement showing the name and address of each company and the total number of shares of each class of outstanding stock owned during the taxable year. If the corporation owned 5 percent or more in value of the outstanding stock of a foreign personal holding company, attach a statement setting forth in complete detail the information required by section 551 (d).

K. Annual Statement.—A copy of the annual statement for mutual insurance companies adopted by the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners for the year 1960, as filed with the Insurance Department of the State, Territory, or District of Columbia, together with copies of Schedule A (real estate) and Schedule D (bonds and stocks), must accompany the return. Similar copies for the preceding year must also be furnished, if not filed for such year.

L. List of Attached Schedules.—Attach a list of the schedules accompanying the return, giving for each a brief title and the schedule number. Place name and address of company on each schedule.

COMPENSATION OF OFFICERS AND EXPENSE ACCOUNT ALLOWANCES—ATTACH SCHEDULE

The required schedule should show for each officer: Name and address; Official title; Time devoted to business; The amount of compensation; and Expense account allowances.

Expense account allowance means: (1) amounts, other than compensation, received as advances or reimbursements, and (2) amounts paid by or for the corporation, for expenses incurred by or on behalf of an officer including all amounts charged through any type of credit card.

However, this term does not include amounts paid for: (a) the purchase of goods for resale or use in your business; (b) incidental expenses, such as the purchase of office supplies for the corporation or local transportation in connection with an errand; and (c) such fringe benefits as hospitalization insurance, approved pension trust funds and unemployment insurance.

The information relating to the expense account allowance is required only for your 25 highest paid officers. To determine the highest paid officers for this purpose all allowances including expense account allowances as described above must be added to each officer's compensation. You need not include any officer for which the combined amount is less than $10,000.

For this purpose an officer is a person who is elected or appointed to office or who is designated as such in the corporation's charter or bylaws such as regular officers, chairman of the board, etc.

SPECIFIC INSTRUCTIONS

The Following Instructions Are Numbered To Correspond With Line Numbers on Page 1 of the Return Unless Otherwise Indicated

1. Interest.—Enter interest received or accrued from all sources during the taxable year. The gross amount of interest reported as gross income shall be decreased by the amortization of premiums and increased by the accrual of discount attributable to the taxable year on bonds, notes, debentures or other evidences of indebtedness, determined (1) in accordance with the method regularly employed, if reasonable, or (2) in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate. (Attach statement showing method and computation.)

2. Dividends.—Enter on line 2 (a) the amount received or accrued as dividends from a domestic corporation which is subject to taxation under Subtitle A, except dividends on certain preferred stock of a public utility corporation, and dividends received from a corporation entitled to the benefits of section 931 and from a corporation organized under the China Trade Act, 1922. Enter on line 2 (b) dividends received on certain preferred stock of a public utility which is subject to tax under Subtitle A. Enter on line 2 (c) dividends from foreign corporations. Enter on line 2 (d) dividends from all other corporations including dividends on share accounts in Federal savings and loan associations issued on or after March 28, 1942. Enter on line 1 (e) dividends on share accounts in Federal savings and loan associations issued prior to March 28, 1942. Submit schedule, itemizing all dividends received during the year, stating the names and addresses of the corporations declaring the dividends and amounts received from each.

3. Rents and Royalties.—Enter the gross amount received from these sources.

4. Income From Trade or Business Other Than Insurance Business.—Enter the gross income from any trade or business (other than an insurance business) carried on by the mutual insurance company, or by a partnership of which the mutual insurance company is a member.

5. Leases, Etc.—Enter the gross amount of income received from the entering into (or the alteration or termination) of any lease, mortgage or other instrument or agreement from which the mutual insurance company derives interest, dividends, rents or royalties.

6. Gains and Losses From Sales or Exchanges of Capital Assets.—Report sales or exchanges of capital assets in separate Schedule D (Form 1120) (but see Schedule B, page 2). Every sale or exchange of a capital asset, even though no gain or loss may be indicated, must be reported in detail.

Losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets (except losses from capital assets sold or exchanged in order to obtain funds to meet abnormal insurance losses and to provide for the payment of dividends and similar distributions to policyholders) shall be allowed to the extent of gains from such sales or exchanges, with respect to companies taxable under section 821 (a) or (b). The net capital loss for such companies shall be the amount by which losses for such year from sales or exchanges of capital assets exceed the sum of the gains from such sales or exchanges and (1) the corporation surtax net income (computed without regard to gains or losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets) or (2) losses from the sale or exchange of capital assets sold or exchanged to obtain funds to meet abnormal insurance losses and to provide for the payment of dividends and similar distributions to policyholders, whichever is the lesser. However, the amount of a net capital loss sustained in any taxable year may be carried over to each of the five succeeding taxable years and treated in each such succeeding taxable year as a short-term capital loss to the extent not allowed as a deduction against any net capital gains of any taxable year intervening between the taxable year in which the net capital loss was sustained and the taxable year to which carried.

For further information relating to gains and losses from sales or exchanges of property, see instructions accompanying separate Schedule D (Form 1120).

8. Interest Wholly Exempt From Tax.—Enter the amount of interest which is wholly exempt from taxation under the provisions of section 103.

9. Investment Expenses.—Enter expenses paid or accrued which are properly chargeable to investment expenses, the total amount of which, if there be any allocation of general expenses to investment expenses, should not exceed one-fourth of 1 percent of the mean of the invested assets reported on line 12, Schedule A plus in cases where the taxable income computed without any deduction for (1) investment expenses and (2) tax-free interest exceeds 3½ percent of the book value of such mean of the invested assets, one-fourth of such excess. Submit a schedule showing the nature and amount of the items included herein, the minor items being grouped in one amount. (See section 822 (c) (2).)

10. Taxes.—Enter taxes paid or accrued exclusively upon real estate owned by the company as provided in section 164. For limitation on deduction, see instruction 13 (b) below.

11. Real Estate Expenses.—Enter all ordinary and necessary building expenses paid or accrued, such as fire insurance, heat, light, labor, etc., and the cost of incidental repairs which neither materially add to the value of the property nor appreciably prolong its life, but keep it in an ordinarily efficient operating condition. Do not include any amount paid out for new buildings or for permanent improvements or betterments made to increase the value of any property or any amount expended on foreclosed property before such property is held forth for rental purposes. For limitation on deduction, see instruction 17 (b) below.

12. Depreciation.—The amount deductible on account of depreciation is an amount reasonably measuring a portion of the investment in depreciable property which, by reason of exhaustion, wear and tear, or obsolescence, is properly chargeable against the operations of the year. In any event the deduction is limited to the depreciation on the property that is used and to the extent used, for the purpose of producing the income specified in section 822 (b). The amount of depreciation should be determined upon the basis of the original cost (not replacement cost) of the property, and the probable number of years remaining of its expected useful life.

(a) Straight Line Method.—The most common method of computing depreciation is the "straight line" method. It allows for the recovery of cost in equal annual amounts over the life of the property, with only salvage value remaining at the end of its useful life. To compute the deduction, add the cost of improvements to the cost (or other) basis of the asset and deduct both the estimated salvage value and the total depreciation allowed or allowable in past years. Divide the result by the number of years of useful life remaining to the asset; the quotient is the depreciation deduction.

(b) Declining Balance Method.—Under this method a uniform rate is applied each year to the remaining cost or other basis of property (without adjustment for salvage value) determined at the beginning of such year. For property acquired before January 1, 1954, or used property whenever acquired, the rate of depreciation under this method may not exceed one and one-half times the applicable straight line rate.

(c) Special Rules for New Assets Acquired After December 31, 1953.—The cost or other basis of an asset acquired after December 31, 1953, may be depreciated under methods proper in the past; or, it may be depreciated under any of the following methods provided (1) that the asset is tangible, (2) that it has an estimated useful life of 3 years or more, and (3) that the original use of the asset commenced with the taxpayer and commenced after December 31, 1953. If an asset is constructed, reconstructed, or erected by the taxpayer, so much of the basis of the asset as is attributable to construction, reconstruction or erection after December 31, 1953, may be depreciated under methods proper in the past, or it may be depreciated under any of the following methods provided the asset meets qualifications (1) and (2) above.

(1) Declining Balance Method.—This method may be used with a rate not in excess of twice the applicable straight line rate.

(2) Sum of the Years-Digits Method.—Under this method annual allowances for depreciation are computed by applying changing fractions to the taxpayer's cost or other basis of property (reduced by estimated salvage value). A deduction for each year is computed by multiplying the cost or other basis of the asset (reduced by estimated salvage value) by the number of years of useful life remaining (including the year for which the deduction is computed) and dividing the product by the sum of all the digits corresponding to the years of the estimated useful life of the asset. In the case of a five-year life this sum would be 15 (5 plus 4 plus 3 plus 2 plus 1). For the first year 5—15th of the cost reduced by estimated salvage value would be allowable, for the second year 4—15th, etc.

(3) Other Methods.—A taxpayer may use any consistent method which does not result in accumulated allowances at the end of any year greater than the total of the accumulated allowances which would have resulted from the use of the declining balance method. This limitation applies only during the first two-thirds of the useful life of the property.

(d) Section 179—Additional first-year depreciation allowance.—Corporations may elect to write off in the year of acquisition 20 percent of the cost of tangible personal property having an aggregate value of not more than $10,000. For details which must be furnished in the statement of election, see the regulations under section 179. This additional depreciation is limited to property acquired after December 31, 1957, with a remaining useful life of 6 years or more and which is not acquired from an affiliated corporation (as defined in section 1504, except that "more than 50 percent" stock ownership is substituted for "at least 60 percent" wherever it appears in section 1504 (a)). All members of an affiliated group will be treated as one taxpayer, and the $10,000 limitation will be apportioned among the members in the manner prescribed by regulation. Further, for this allowance to apply in any case, the basis of the property must not be determined in whole or in part by reference to the transferor's basis. Depreciation on the remaining cost of the property may be taken under any of the methods indicated above.

If a deduction is claimed on account of depreciation, a schedule should be filed with the return showing: (1) description of the property; (2) date of acquisition of the property; (3) the cost or other basis of the asset; (4) the amount of depreciation allowed and allowable in prior years; (5) the method under which the depreciation allowance is being claimed; (6) rate of depreciation, and expected useful life; and (7) depreciation allowance this year. In case obsolescence is included, state separately amount claimed and basis upon which it is computed. Cost or value of land is not subject to depreciation, and when land and building were purchased for a lump sum the cost of the buildings subject to depreciation must be established.

The adjusted property accounts and the accumulated depreciation shown in the schedule should be reconciled with those accounts as reflected on the books of the taxpayer. For limitation on deduction, see instruction 17 (b) below.

13. Depletion of Mines, Oil and Gas Wells, Timber, Etc.—If a deduction is claimed on account of depletion, procure from the District Director: Form M (mines and other natural deposits), Form O (oil and gas), or Form T (timber), fill in and file with return.

14. Trade or Business Deductions.—Enter the total of deductions attributable to any trade or business, the income from which is included in the mutual insurance company's gross investment income by reason of section 822 (b) (2). Do not include (a) losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets, (b) sales or exchanges of property used in the trade or business, and (c) losses from the compulsory or involuntary conversion of property used in the trade or business. The deductions to be entered on line 14 will be disallowed to the extent attributable to the carrying on of the insurance business.

15. Interest.—Enter the amount of interest paid or accrued during the taxable year on the company's indebtedness, except on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry obligations (other than obligations of the United States issued after September 24, 1917, and originally subscribed for by the taxpayer) the interest upon which is wholly exempt from taxation.

16. Other Capital Losses.—Enter on line 16 losses from capital assets sold or exchanged to provide funds to meet abnormal insurance losses and to provide for the payment of dividends and similar distributions to policyholders. Capital assets shall be considered as sold or exchanged to provide for such funds or payments to the extent that the gross receipts from their sale or exchange are not greater than the excess, if any, for the taxable year of the sum of dividends and similar distributions paid to policyholders and losses and expenses paid, over the sum of lines 1 to 5, page 1, and net premiums received. (See Schedule E.)

17. Total Deductions.—(a) Enter the total of lines 8 to 16, inclusive.

(b) Limitation on deductions relating to real estate owned and occupied.—The deductions included on lines 10 to 12 on account of real estate owned and occupied in whole or in part by the company shall be limited to an amount which bears the same ratio to such deductions (computed without regard to section 822 (d) (1)) as the rental value of the space not so occupied bears to the rental value of the entire property. (Submit detailed schedule.)

(c) Items Not deductible.—No deduction is allowable for the amount of any item or part thereof allocable to a class of exempt income, other than wholly tax-exempt interest income. However, for interest on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry tax-exempt securities, see instruction 15. Items directly attributable to wholly exempt income shall be allocated thereto, and items directly attributable to any class of taxable income shall be allocated to such taxable income. If an item is indirectly attributable both to taxable income and exempt income, a reasonable proportion thereof, determined in the light of all the facts and circumstances in each case, shall be allocated to each. A taxpayer receiving any exempt income, other than interest, or holding any property or engaging in any activity the income from which is exempt, shall submit with its return as a part thereof an itemized statement, showing (1) the amount of each class of exempt income, and (2) the amount of expense items allocated to each such class (the amount allocated by apportionment being shown separately).

19. Interest Partially Exempt From Tax.—Enter the amount of interest included in gross income which is partially exempt from taxation and for which a special deduction is allowed under the provisions of section 242.

21. Dividends Received Deductions.—The deductions provided on line 21 are as follows: (a) 85 percent of the amount received as dividends (except dividends on certain preferred stock of public utilities) from a domestic corporation subject to income tax. Amounts received as dividends from mutual savings banks, cooperative banks, and domestic building and loan associations and allowed as a deduction to such banks or building and loan associations shall not be treated as dividends. In the case of dividends received from a regulated investment company, see section 854 regarding limitations on amount deductible; (b) 62.115 percent of the amount received as dividends on the preferred stock of a public utility which is subject to income tax and is allowed a deduction, as provided in section 247, for dividends paid; and (c) 85 percent of dividends received from certain foreign corporations. See section 245 for qualifications and limitations on the amount of this deduction.

Dividends received from a corporation described in section 246 (a) (China Trade Act Corporation, etc.) should be entered on line 2 (d).

Page 1—26. Credit for Income Taxes Paid to a Foreign Country or United States Possession.—If, in accordance with section 901, a credit is claimed by a domestic corporation on line 26, on account of income, war-profits, and excess-profits taxes paid or accrued to a foreign country or a possession of the United States, Form 1118 should be submitted with the return, together with the receipt for each such tax payment. In case credit is sought for taxes accrued but not paid, the form must have attached to it a certified copy of the return on which each such accrued tax was based, and the District Director may require a bond on Form 1119 as a condition precedent to the allowance of a credit for such accrued taxes. A foreign company is not entitled to claim this credit.

If the corporation is entitled to a credit for taxes paid by a regulated investment company on undistributed capital gains, include the credit on line 29 B, page 1 and indicate by amount that such a credit is being claimed. Attach Copy B of Form 2439 to page 1 of this form.

Page 2—14. Net Premiums.—Enter the amount of gross premiums (including deposits and assessments) written or received on insurance contracts during the taxable year, less return premiums and premiums paid or incurred for reinsurance. Amounts returned where the amount is not fixed in the insurance contract but depends upon the experience of the company or the discretion of the management are not to be included in return premiums but are to be treated as dividends to policyholders and included on line 16. (See section 823 (1).)

Instructions for the 1960 Form 1120-S U. S. Small Business Corporation Return of Income

(References are to the Internal Revenue Code)

A. Corporations required to file Form 1120-S.—Every small business corporation (as defined in section 1371 (a)) which has filed a proper and timely election under section 1372 (a) not to be subject to the income tax imposed by chapter 1 must file Form 1120-S. See Form 2553.

B. Consents of shareholders.—Consents of all shareholders are required to be attached to the election form notifying the District Director of the election. However, where the election was made before the first day of the taxable year, the consents of persons who became shareholders after the date of election and on or before such first day must be filed with the District Director with whom the election was filed as soon as practicable after such first day and in no event later than the last day prescribed for making the election. Copies of such latter consents must be attached to the Form 1120-S at the time the return is filed.

New shareholders (any person who was not a shareholder on the first day of the first taxable year for which the election is effective, or on the day on which the election is made, whichever is later) must consent to the election and such statement of consent must be filed with the District Director with whom the election was filed within a period of 30 days after they become shareholders or the election is automatically terminated. Copies of such consents must also be attached to the return.

C. Termination.—The election by the corporation is automatically terminated (1) by the failure of a new shareholder to consent to such election as explained in B above; (2) where it ceases to be a small business corporation as defined in section 1371 (a); (3) where it derives more than 80 percent of its gross receipts from sources outside the U. S.; or (4) where it has gross receipts of which more than 20 percent is derived from royalties, rents, dividends, interest, annuities, and sales or exchanges of stock or securities (gross receipts from sales or exchanges being taken into account for this purpose only to the extent of gains therefrom). Such termination is effective for the taxable year in which anyone of the foregoing occurs and for all succeeding taxable years of the corporation.

The election may be revoked for any taxable year after the first taxable year for which the election is effective. An election to revoke may be made only if all persons who are shareholders on the day on which the revocation is made consent to the revocation. The revocation is effective (1) for the taxable year in which made, if made before the close of the first month of the taxable year, or (2) for the taxable year following the taxable year in which made, if made after the close of the first month; and for all succeeding taxable years. The revocation is to be made in the manner prescribed by regulations.

Where the small business corporation has elected under section 1372 (a) and the election has been terminated or revoked, the corporation is not eligible to again elect under 1372 (a) for five years unless the Secretary or his delegate consents to such an election.

D. Period to be covered by return.—The return shall be filed for the calendar year 1960 or other taxable year beginning in 1960.

E. Time and place for filing.—The return must be filed on or before the 15th day of the third month following the close of the taxable year with the District Director of Internal Revenue for the district in which the corporation's principal place of business or principal office or agency is located. (Section 6072.)

F. Signature and verification.—The return must be signed either by the president, vice president, treasurer, assistant treasurer or chief accounting officer, or by any other corporate officer (such as tax officer) who is authorized to sign. A receiver, trustee, or assignee must sign any return which he is required to file on behalf of a corporation. The statement at the bottom of page 1 of the return is required to be signed by any person, firm, or corporation who prepared the taxpayer's return for compensation. If the return is prepared by a firm or corporation, it should be signed in the name of the firm or corporation. The statement is not required if the return is prepared by a regular full-time employee of the taxpayer.

G. Penalties.—Severe penalties are provided by law for willful failure to make and file a return on time and for willful attempt to evade or defeat payment of tax.

H. Accounting methods.—Taxable income shall be computed in accordance with the method of accounting regularly used by the taxpayer in maintaining its books and records. In all cases the method adopted should clearly reflect taxable income. The basic methods of accounting are the "cash receipts and disbursements method" and the "accrual method." Section 446 permits the use of these methods or any other method permitted under the Code or any combination of these methods in accordance with regulations. If a taxpayer engages in more than one trade or business, it may, with respect to each trade or business, use a different method of accounting. Each method must, however, clearly reflect the income of the particular trade or business with which it is used, and separate profit and loss statements for each trade or business must be submitted. Except in those cases where the law specifically permits it, a taxpayer may not change the method of accounting upon the basis of which it has reported its income in prior years (for its income as a whole or with respect to any separate trade or business) without first securing consent. For procedure to be followed in securing consent, see your District Director.

Rounding off to whole-dollar amounts.—If you wish, the money items on your return or accompanying schedules required by such return may be shown as whole-dollar amounts. This means that you eliminate any amount less than 50 cents, and increase any amount from 50 cents through 99 cents to the next highest dollar.

I. (1) Information at the source.—Every corporation making payments in the course of its trade or business of (1) interest, rents, commissions, or other fixed or determinable income of $600 or more during the calendar year 1960 to an individual, a partnership, or a fiduciary or (2) salaries or wages of $600 or more shall make returns on Forms 1096 and 1099, except that the making of such returns will not be required with respect to salary or wage payments included on Form W-2, provided copies of withholding statements on Form W-2 are furnished. If a portion of such salary or wage payments was reported on a Withholding Statement (Form W-2), only the remainder must be reported on Form 1099.

I. (2) Information regarding dissolution or liquidation.—Every corporation shall, within 30 days after the adoption by the corporation of a resolution or plan for the dissolution of the corporation or for the liquidation of the whole or any part of its capital stock, render a correct return on Form 966 setting forth the terms of such resolution or plan.

Every corporation making distributions in liquidation of the whole or any part of its capital stock shall also make returns on Forms 1096 and 1099L, as required by instructions on Form 1096, for the calendar year 1960.

I. (3) Information regarding renegotiable contracts.—Every corporation which held, during the taxable year, contracts or subcontracts which were subject to the Renegotiation Act of 1951 shall, in answer to question H, page 3, state the actual or, if not accurately determinable, its best estimate of the aggregate gross dollar amount billed during the current taxable year under all contracts and/or subcontracts.

J. Stock ownership in foreign corporations.—A corporation owning any stock of a foreign corporation must attach a statement showing the name and address of each company and the total number of shares of each class of outstanding stock owned during the taxable year. If the corporation owned 5 percent or more in value of the outstanding stock of a foreign personal holding company, attach a statement setting forth in complete detail the information required by section 551 (d).

K. Balance sheets.—The balance sheets, Schedule L, should agree with the books of account or any differences should be reconciled. All corporations reporting to the Interstate Commerce Commission or to any national, State, municipal, or other public offices, may submit, in lieu of Schedule L, copies of their balance sheets prescribed by such authorities as at the beginning and end of the taxable year.

Line 11, Schedule L, should show land less any accumulated amortization of the land as an emergency facility under the authority of section 168.

L. Net operating loss and other deductions.—The deduction for net operating losses provided by section 172 and the Special Deductions provided in Part VIII (except section 248) of subchapter B, shall not be allowed to an electing small business corporation. (Section 1373 (d).)

M. Attachments may be used in the preparation of your return and supplemental schedules, provided they contain all of the required information and that summarized totals of the items shown in the attachments are entered on the return and schedules.

N. Total assets.—Enter the total assets as of the end of the taxable year as shown on line 11, Schedule L. In the event there are no assets at the end of the year, show total assets at the beginning of the year.

SPECIFIC INSTRUCTIONS (Numbered to correspond with line numbers on page 1 of return)

2. Cost of goods sold.—If the production, manufacture, purchase, or sale of merchandise is an income-determining factor in the trade or business, inventories of merchandise on hand should be taken at the beginning and end of the taxable year, and may be valued at cost, or at cost or market, whichever is lower, or by any other permissible method.

An inventory method once properly adopted is controlling until permission to change is obtained from the Commissioner. Application for permission to change an inventory method shall be made in writing and filed with the Commissioner within 90 days after the beginning of the taxable year in which it is desired to effect a change. In case the inventories reported do not agree with the balance sheet, attach a statement explaining the difference.

A corporation electing to use the last-in, first-out method of valuing inventory provided for in section 472 must file Form 970 with the return for the first year of the election. Thereafter, attach separate schedule showing: (1) a summary of all inventories; (2) with respect to any inventories computed under section 472, the computation of the quantities and cost by acquisition levels.

5. Interest on obligations of the United States, etc.—Enter the interest on line 5; and in Schedule L, the amounts of the various obligations owned. Also enter on line 10, Schedule M, all interest received or accrued during the year on the various obligations. For provisions relating to amortizable bond premiums, see section 171.

Non-interest-bearing obligations issued at a discount.—Taxpayers on the cash basis may elect, as to all non-interest-bearing obligations issued at a discount and redeemable for fixed amounts increasing at stated intervals (for example, United States Savings Bonds), to include the increase in redemption price applicable to the current year. For the year of election the total increase in redemption price of such obligations occurring between the date of acquisition and the end of the year must be included. Attach statement listing obligations owned and computation of the increase. (Section 454.)

6. Other interest.—Enter on line 6, the amount of interest on loans, notes, mortgages, bonds, bank deposits, corporate bonds, etc. See section 171 for amortizable bond premiums.

7. (a) Rents.—Enter the gross amount received for the rent of property. Any expenses, including repairs, interest, taxes, and depreciation should be included in the proper lines for deductions. In the case of a lease entered into prior to January 1, 1954, if both lessor and lessee are corporations and if under the lease the lessee is obligated to pay any part of the lessor's income tax on the rental payment, this tax is excluded from lessor's gross income and may not be deducted by lessee. (Section 110.)

(b) Royalties.—Enter the gross amount received as royalties. If a deduction is claimed for depletion, it must be reported on line 22.

8. Gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets and other property.—See separate Schedule D and Instructions.

9. Other income.—Enter total amount of other income not reported elsewhere in the return and attach schedule showing details, if spaces provided are not sufficient.

13. Repairs.—Enter the cost of incidental repairs, including labor, supplies, and other items, which do not add to the value or appreciably prolong the life of the property. Expenditures for new buildings, machinery, equipment, or for permanent improvements or betterments which increase the value of the property are chargeable to capital account.

14. Bad debts.—Bad debts may be treated in either of two ways—(1) by a deduction from income in respect of debts which become worthless in whole or in part, or (2) by a deduction from income of a reasonable addition to a reserve for bad debts. (Section 166.) No change of method is allowed without permission of the Commissioner.

15. Rents.—Enter rent paid or accrued for business property in which the corporation has no equity. With respect to leases entered into prior to January 1, 1954, see instruction No. 7 (a).

16. Taxes.—Enter taxes paid or accrued during the taxable year. Do not include Federal income, war-profits, and excess-profits taxes; estate, inheritance, legacy, succession, and gift taxes; Federal taxes paid on bonds containing a tax-free covenant, nor taxes not imposed upon the taxpayer. See section 164 (d) regarding apportionment of taxes on real property between seller and purchaser.

17. Interest.—Enter interest paid or accrued on business indebtedness. Do not include interest on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry obligations (other than obligations of the U. S. issued after 9/24/17, and originally subscribed for by the taxpayer) the interest on which is wholly exempt from income tax. (Sec. 265.)

See section 267 for limitation on deductions for unpaid expenses and interest in the case of transactions between related taxpayers.

18. Contributions or gifts paid.—Enter contributions or gifts actually paid within the taxable year to or for the use of organizations and governmental bodies as set forth in 170 (c).

In the case of a corporation on the accrual basis, any contribution or gift will, at the election of the taxpayer, made at the time the return is filed, be considered as paid during the taxable year if payment is actually made on or before the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of the taxable year, and if the contribution or gift has during the taxable year been authorized by the board of directors of the corporation. A copy of such authorization must be attached to the return.

Any contributions paid during the taxable year in excess of the amount deductible may be carried over and deducted in the two succeeding taxable years subject to the 5-percent limitation provided in section 170 (b) (2).

19. Losses by fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty, or theft.—Enter losses sustained during the year, arising from fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty. For determination of the amount deductible, see section 165 (b) and the regulations thereunder. Theft losses are deductible only in the year in which discovered.

20. Amortization.—If a deduction is claimed on account of amortization, attach a detailed statement. The law makes special provisions for amortization of the following kinds of assets and expenditures:

(a) Emergency facilities—Section 168; (b) Grain storage facilities—Section 169; (c) Research and experimental expenditures—Section 174; (d) Exploration expenditures—Section 615; (e) Development expenditures—Section 616; (f) Organizational expenses—Section 248; and (g) Trademark and trade name expenditures—Section 177. For details concerning the information which must be furnished in the statements of election required by these sections, consult your District Director.

21. Depreciation.—If a deduction is claimed on account of depreciation, fill in Schedule I. A reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear, and obsolescence of property used in the trade or business or of property held by the taxpayer for the production of income shall be allowed as a depreciation deduction. (Section 167.) The allowance does not apply to inventories or stock-in-trade nor to land apart from the improvements or physical developments added to it. Depreciation on leasehold improvements, patents, and copyrights shall be included in Schedule I.

The useful life of an asset can be measured in units of production, etc., but the ordinary practice is to measure useful life in years. Business experience, engineering information, and other relevant factors provide a reasonable basis for estimating the useful life of property to the taxpayer. The cost (or other basis) to be recovered should be charged off over the expected useful life of the property. For guidance, comprehensive tables of "average useful lives" of various kinds of buildings, machines, and equipment in many industries and businesses have been published in a booklet called Bulletin F, which may be purchased for 30 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

(a) Special rules for new assets acquired after December 31, 1953.—The cost or other basis of an asset acquired after December 31, 1953, may be depreciated under methods proper in the past; or, it may be depreciated under any of the following methods provided (1) that the asset is tangible, (2) that it has an estimated useful life of three years or more, and (3) that the original use of the asset commenced with the taxpayer and commenced after December 31, 1953. If an asset is constructed, reconstructed, or erected by the taxpayer, so much of the basis of the asset as is attributable to construction, reconstruction, or erection after December 31, 1953, may be depreciated under methods proper in the past; or, it may be depreciated under any of the following methods provided that the asset meets qualifications (1) and (2) above: (a) declining balance method, using a rate not in excess of twice the applicable straight line method; (b) the sum of the years-digit method; and (c) any other consistent method which does not result in accumulated allowances at the end of any year greater than the total of the accumulated allowances which would have resulted from the use of the declining balance method. This limitation applies only during the first two-thirds of the useful life of the property.

(b) Section 179—Additional first-year depreciation allowance.—Corporations may elect to write off in the year of acquisition 20 percent of the cost of tangible personal property having an aggregate value of not more than $10,000. For details which must be furnished in the statement of election, see the regulations under section 179. This additional first-year depreciation is allowed in full for the first taxable year for which a deduction is allowable under section 167, regardless of the date of acquisition. The cost of property does not include so much of the basis of such property as is determined by reference to the basis of other property held at any time by the person acquiring such property. This additional depreciation is limited to property acquired after December 31, 1957, with a remaining useful life of 6 years or more. Further, for this allowance to apply in any case, the basis of the property must not be determined in whole or in part by reference to the transferor's basis. Depreciation on the remaining cost of the property may be taken under any of the methods indicated above. The additional first-year depreciation of an asset should be shown on a separate line of the depreciation schedule rather than included on the line used to show the regular depreciation of the asset.

22. Depletion of mines, oil and gas wells, timber, etc.—If a deduction is claimed on account of depletion, procure from the District Director: Form M (mines and other natural deposits), Form O (oil and gas), or Form T (timber), fill in and file with return. If complete valuation data have been filed with questionnaire in previous years, then file with your return information necessary to bring your depletion schedule up to date, setting forth in full statement of all transactions bearing on deductions from or additions to value of physical assets during the taxable year with explanation of how depletion deduction for the taxable year has been determined. (Sections 611, 612, and 613.) Expenditures to be deferred and deducted ratably under the election provided in sections 616 (b), relating to certain expenditures in the development of mines, and 615 (b), relating to deductions for mine exploration, are not to be taken into account in determining the adjusted basis for property for the purpose of computing a deduction for depletion under section 611.

23. Advertising.—Enter the total amount paid or incurred during the year for advertising. Expenditures for advertising, to be deductible, must be ordinary and necessary and bear a reasonable relation to the business activities in which the corporation is engaged.

24. Note: A form is available to report information required in (a) and (b) below for years other than the first year a deduction is claimed. Form 2950 may be obtained from your District Director.

(a) Pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, annuity plans.—Enter on line 24 (a) the total amount deductible under section 404. A corporation claiming a deduction under section 404 must submit with its return, in addition to the information specified in the regulations concerning such deduction, a statement with respect to each plan showing the type of plan, i. e., pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, annuity, or other plan deferring the receipt of compensation, whether or not the plan is qualified under section 401 (a), and if trustee, whether or not the trust is exempt under sections 501 (a), and the method of funding, i. e., individual annuity or insurance contracts, group annuity contract, group permanent contract, or self-insured trust. If not funded, so indicate. Contributions paid by an employer to or under a pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, annuity plan or compensation paid or accrued on account of any employee under a plan deferring the receipt of such compensation, are deductible only under section 404, and are not deductible under section 162.

(b) Other employee benefit plans.—Enter on line 24 (b) deductions for contributions to employee benefit plans (other than those claimed on line 24 (a)), such as insurance, health, or welfare plans. Submit with the return a schedule for each plan showing (1) the nature of benefits, i. e., group term life insurance, group permanent life insurance, noninsured death benefit, hospitalization, surgical, medical, sickness, accident, major medical expense, unemployment benefit, or other welfare benefits; (2) method of financing, i. e., insured, industry or areawide fund, self-insured fund, or direct benefit payments; (3) the amount of deduction; (4) the amount of employee contributions; (5) the number of employees covered; and (6) if a self-insured plan, the amount of benefits paid during the taxable year. Also show the number of employees employed by the corporation.

25. Other deductions authorized by law.—Enter any other authorized deductions for which no space is provided on the return. (See Gen. Inst. L.) Any deduction claimed should be explained in Sch. J.

No deduction is allowable for the amount of any item or part thereof allocable to a class of exempt income other than interest. For non-allowance of interest on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry tax-exempt securities, see instruction 17. Items directly attributable to wholly exempt income shall be allocated thereto, and items directly attributable to any class of taxable income shall be allocated to such taxable income. If an item is indirectly, attributable both to taxable income and exempt income, a reasonable proportion thereof, determined in the light of all the facts and circumstances in each case, shall be allocated to each. A taxpayer receiving any such exempt income, or holding any property or engaging in any activity the income from which is exempt shall submit with its return as a part thereof an itemized statement, in detail, showing (1) the amount of each class of exempt income, and (2) the amount of expense items allocated to each such class (the amount allocated by apportionment being shown separately).

Schedule K. Shareholder's Share of Income.—The schedule of Distribution and Income should show complete information with respect to all the persons who were shareholders of the corporation during any portion of the taxable year. Under the tax treatment provided by Subchapter S, shareholders generally are taxable upon their distributive shares of the current taxable income of the corporation, whether or not actually distributed. Since each shareholder is required to include his share in his individual return, he should be furnished the information applicable to him.

EXPENSE ACCOUNT ALLOWANCES—Schedule E, Column 7

Expense account allowance means: (1) amounts, other than compensation, received as advances or reimbursements, and (2) amounts paid by or for the corporation, for expenses incurred by or on behalf of an officer including all amounts charged through any type of credit card.

However, this term does not include amounts paid for: (a) the purchase of goods for resale or use in your business; (b) incidental expenses, such as the purchase of office supplies for the corporation or local transportation in connection with an errand; and (c) such fringe benefits as hospitalization insurance, approved pension trust funds and unemployment insurance.

GENERAL INFORMATION

1. A net operating loss for any taxable year shall be allowed as a deduction from gross income of the shareholders in the manner and to the extent set forth in section 1374.

2. For treatment of family groups, see section 1375 (c).

Column 1.—Enter the name and address of each shareholder. Where return of shareholder is filed in an internal revenue district other than that which this return is filed, specify district.

Column 2.—Enter the number of shares of stock owned by each shareholder. If the number of shares owned by a shareholder changed during the year, show separately the number of shares held for each period.

Column 3.—Enter the percentage of time devoted to the business by each shareholder.

Column 4.—Enter salary and other payments to each shareholder for services rendered.

Column 5.—Enter for each shareholder the date and amount of each dividend distribution made in money or property, during the taxable year.

Column 6.—Enter for each shareholder who was a shareholder on the last day of the corporation's taxable year, his portion of the corporation's undistributed taxable income. A shareholder's portion of the undistributed taxable income is the amount which he would have received as a dividend if such income had been distributed pro rata to the shareholders on the last day of the corporation's taxable year. A dividend distribution of property other than money may cause line 3 to exceed the total of column 6.

In the case of a net operating loss for the taxable year, enter in this column for each shareholder who was a shareholder at any time during the corporation's taxable year his pro rata share of the loss. For treatment of, determination of, and limitation on a shareholder's pro rata share of such loss, see section 1374 and the regulations thereunder.

Column 7.—Enter for each shareholder his pro rata share of the corporation's excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss (line 8b, page 1). Each shareholder is entitled to treat as long-term capital gain a portion of the sum of the dividends he received plus his share of the constructive dividends derived from the undistributed taxable income. A shareholder's portion is determined by applying to such excess the same ratio that the amount of his dividends (actual or constructive) which are out of earnings and profits of the current year bears to the total dividends (actual or constructive) includible by all shareholders from the same source. In making the allocation, the excess of net long-term capital gain over short-term capital loss can not exceed taxable income (line 27, page 1). The amount entered here should be reported on Schedule D of his individual income tax return as a long-term capital gain from an "electing small business corporation."

Column 8.—Enter in this column for each shareholder the amount of money or property includible in the income of the shareholder as dividends from the small business corporation which are entitled to the dividends received exclusion provided in section 116 and the credit provided by section 34. Of the amounts includible in the gross income of a shareholder as dividends from an electing small business corporation, only those which are not considered to be out of the earnings and profits of the taxable year are entitled to the dividends received exclusion and credit. For purposes of this rule the earnings and profits of the taxable year are deemed not to exceed the taxable income for the year. The dividends entitled to the exclusion and credit would include, for example, dividends paid out of accumulated earnings and profits and from interest on tax exempt securities. The amounts shown in this column should be entered by the shareholders in Schedule A of their individual income tax returns. Forms 1040.

Column 9.—Enter in this column for each shareholder the sum of the dividends actually distributed (column 5) and the constructive dividends derived from undistributed taxable income (column 6), less the sum of the amount treated as long-term capital gain (column 7) and the amount of dividends entitled to the dividends received exclusion and credit (column 8). The amounts shown in this column should be entered by the shareholders as ordinary income in Schedule H of their individual income tax returns. Forms 1040.

Column 10.—Enter in this column for each shareholder the date and the amount of each distribution of money and property not out of earnings and profits. For taxable years after the first taxable year to which the election applies, include any distribution of accumulated undistributed taxable income. See section 1375 (d).

Column 7 of Schedule E is to be completed for your 25 highest paid officers. To determine the highest paid officers for this purpose all allowances including expense account allowances as described above must be added to each officer's compensation. Column 7 need not be completed for any officer for which the combined amount is less than $10,000.

For this purpose an officer is a person who is elected or appointed to office or who is designated as such in the corporation's charter or bylaws such as regular officers, chairman of the board, etc.

3. For the adjustment to basis of stock of, and indebtedness owing to, shareholders, see section 1376.

4. For special rules applying to earnings and profits, see section 1377.

In reporting the "Principal business activity," on page 1 give the one business activity that accounts for the largest percentage of "total receipts." "Total receipts" means gross receipts (line 1, page 1) plus all other income (lines 4 through 9, page 1). State the broad field of business activity as well as the specific product or service, such as "Mining copper," "Manufacturing cotton broad woven fabric," "Wholesale meat," or "Retail apparel." Where receipts are derived from two or more of the detailed industry groups listed below, show only the one which is the major source of receipts. Use the appropriate group under the heading "FINANCE" if over 50 percent of "total receipts" consists of investment income.

Enter the business group "code number" on page 1, under B, from the following list. Give the code for the specific industry group from which the largest percentage of "total receipts" is derived.

INSTRUCTIONS

(References are to the Internal Revenue Code)

GAINS AND LOSSES FROM SALES OR EXCHANGES OF CAPITAL ASSETS AND OTHER PROPERTY.—Report sales or exchanges of capital assets and sales or exchanges of property other than capital assets in Schedule D. Every sale or exchange of property, even though no gain or loss may be indicated, must be reported in detail.

Losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets shall be allowed only to the extent of gains from such sales or exchanges. However, the amount of a net capital loss sustained in any taxable year may be carried over to each of the five succeeding taxable years and treated in each such succeeding taxable year as a short-term capital loss to the extent not allowed as a deduction against any net capital gains of any taxable year intervening between the taxable year in which the net capital loss was sustained and the taxable year to which carried.

Definition of capital assets.—The term "capital assets" means property held by the taxpayer (whether or not connected with its trade or business), but does not include (1) stock in trade of the taxpayer or other property of a kind which would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of its trade or business; or (2) property used in the trade or business, of a character which is subject to the allowance for depreciation provided in section 167, or real property used in the trade or business of the taxpayer; or (3) certain copyrights, literary, musical, or artistic compositions, or similar properties; or (4) accounts or notes receivable acquired in the ordinary course of trade or business for services rendered or from the sale of property described in (1) above; or (5) an obligation of the United States or any of its possessions, or of a State or Territory, or any political subdivision thereof, or of the District of Columbia, issued on or after March 1, 1941, on a discount basis and payable without interest at a fixed maturity date not exceeding 1 year from the date of issue.

For special rules applicable to capital gains of Small Business Corporations, see section 1.1375-1 of the regulations.

Classification of capital gains and losses.—The phrase "short-term" applies to the category of gains and losses arising from the sale or exchange of capital assets held for 6 months or less, and the phrase "long-term" to the category of gains and losses arising from the sale or exchange of capital assets held for more than 6 months.

Enter full description of each item of property sold or exchanged, even though no gain or loss may be indicated. Such description should include the following facts: (a) For real estate, location and description of land, description of improvements, details explaining depreciation; (b) for bonds or other evidences of indebtedness, name of issuing corporation, description of the particular issue, denomination, and amount; (c) for stocks, name of issuing corporation, class of stock, number of shares, and capital changes affecting basis (nontaxable stock dividends, other nontaxable distributions, stock rights, etc.).

The "basis" for the property is not subject to the same rule for reporting gains as for losses, if the property was acquired before March 1, 1913. If the property sold or exchanged was acquired prior to March 1, 1913, the basis for determining GAIN is the cost or the fair market value as of March 1, 1913, adjusted as provided in section 1016, whichever is greater, but in determining LOSS the basis is cost so adjusted. If property was acquired after February 28, 1913, basis for both gain and loss is the cost of such property, except as otherwise provided. The exceptions arise chiefly where property was acquired by bequest, gift, tax-free exchange, involuntary conversion, or wash sale of stock; see sections 1014, 1015, 1031, 1033, and 1091, respectively. If the amount shown as the basis is other than actual cash cost of the property sold or exchanged, full details must be furnished regarding the acquisition of the property.

Losses on securities becoming worthless.—If any securities (as defined below) become worthless within the taxable year and are capital assets, the loss resulting therefrom shall, in the case of a taxpayer other than a bank, as defined in section 581, be considered as a loss from the sale or exchange, on the last day of such taxable year, of capital assets. Section 165 (g) (1).

Definition of security.—For the purpose of determining capital losses under section 165, the term "security" means a share of stock in a corporation; a right to subscribe for, or to receive, a share of stock in a corporation; or a bond, debenture, note, or certificate, or other evidence of indebtedness, issued by a corporation or by a government or political subdivision thereof, with interest coupons or in registered form.

Losses not allowable.—No loss shall be recognized in any sale or other disposition of shares of stock or securities where there has been acquired substantially identical stock or securities, or there has been entered into a contract or option to acquire substantially identical stock or securities, within 30 days before or after the date of such sale or disposition, except in cases of dealers in stocks and securities which have sustained the loss in a transaction made in the ordinary course of business. Section 1091.

Except in the case of distributions in liquidation, no deduction shall be allowed in respect of losses from sales or exchanges of property, directly or indirectly, between an individual and a corporation in which such individual owns, directly or indirectly, more than 50 percent in value of the outstanding stock; or (except in the case of distributions in liquidation) between two corporations more than 50 percent in value of the outstanding stock of each of which is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for the same individual, if either one of such corporations, with respect to the taxable year of the corporation preceding the date of the sale or exchange was, under the law applicable to such taxable year, (1) a personal holding company, as defined in section 542, or (2) a foreign personal holding company, as defined in section 552. (For the purpose of determining the ownership of stock, in applying this paragraph, see section 267.)

Gain on sales by a "controlled" corporation.—In the case of a sale or exchange, directly or indirectly, of property between an individual and a corporation more than 80 percent in value of the outstanding stock of which is owned by such individual, his spouse, and his minor children and minor grandchildren, any gain recognized to the transferor from such sale or exchange shall be treated as gain from the sale or exchange of property which is neither a capital asset nor property described in section 1231, if such property in the hands of the transferee is depreciable under section 167. Section 1239.

Gains and losses from involuntary conversion and from the sale or exchange of certain property used in the trade or business.—The term "property used in the trade or business," as used in section 1231, means property which has been held more than 6 months, which is used in the trade or business, and which is either real property or property subject to depreciation under section 167, and which is not (a) property of a kind which would properly be includible in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, (b) property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of its trade or business, or (c) certain copyrights or similar properties. Such term also includes timber and coal with respect to which section 631 applies as well as unharvested crops to which section 1231 (b) (4) applies. Such term also includes livestock (but not poultry) held for draft, breeding, or dairy purposes and held for 12 months or more from the date of acquisition.

Section 1231 provides special treatment for the gains and losses upon the sale or exchange of "property used in the trade or business" and upon the compulsory or involuntary conversion of (1) such property and (2) capital assets held for more than 6 months. Such gains and losses during the taxable year are treated as gains and losses from the sale or exchange of capital assets held for more than 6 months, if the aggregate of such gains exceeds the aggregate of such losses. If, however, such gains do not exceed such losses, such gains and losses shall not be treated as gains and losses from the sale or exchange of capital assets.

In determining whether gains do or do not exceed losses, it is necessary to include the gains and losses to the extent that they would be included if they were all ordinary gains and losses. The limitation of section 1211 on the deductibility of capital losses does not operate to exclude any such losses from the computation as to the excess of gains over losses, but all such losses are included in full.

The total shown on line 2 determines whether the items reflected therein represent a long-term capital gain or an ordinary loss. This total must be entered on the first line of the appropriate Schedule of Part II or Part III.

For special treatment of gain or loss upon the cutting of timber, or upon the disposal of timber or coal under a contract by which the owner retains an economic interest in such timber or coal, see section 631.

Short sales of capital assets.—For rules regarding tax consequences of certain short sales of stock or other securities (including those dealt with on a "when issued" basis), and transactions in commodity futures, see section 1223.

Instructions for Form 1118

Revised April 1959

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

A. Corporations required to file Form 1118.—Any domestic corporation claiming a credit on Form 1120 for (1) the amount of any income, war profits, and excess profits tax paid or accrued during the taxable year to any foreign country or to any possession of the United States; and (2) the taxes deemed to have been paid under section 902, must submit a Form 1118 with its corporation tax return.

The term "income, war profits, and excess profits taxes" includes a tax imposed by statute or decree by a foreign country or by a possession of the U.S. if: (1) Such country or possession has in force a general income tax law, (2) the corporation claiming the credit would, in the absence of a specific provision applicable to the corporation, be subject to such general income tax, and (3) such general income tax is not imposed upon the corporation thus subject to such substituted tax.

Where there is more than one foreign country or possession of the United States to which taxes are paid by the domestic corporation, or more than one related foreign corporation, or more than one foreign country or possession of the United States to which taxes are paid on behalf of a related foreign corporation, additional schedules should be attached.

B. Corporations to whom credit not allowed.—The credit is not allowed to (1) a foreign corporation (882(c)(4)); (2) a China Trade Act corporation (942); (3) a domestic corporation entitled to the benefits of the exemption provided by section 931 for income from possessions of the United States (931(g)); and (4) a regulated investment company which has exercised the election under section 853. (Reg. sec. 1.901-1.)

C. Taxes against which credit not allowed.—The credit for taxes shall be allowed only against the normal tax and surtax for income tax imposed by chapter 1 but shall not be allowed against the following taxes: (1) the tax on accumulated earnings imposed by section 531; (2) the personal holding company tax imposed by section 541; and (3) the additional tax relating to war loss recoveries imposed by section 1333.

D. Deduction denied if credit claimed.—If a corporation elects with respect to any taxable year to claim a credit for taxes to any extent, such election shall apply to income, war profits, and excess profits taxes paid or accrued in such taxable year to all foreign countries and possessions of the United States, and no portion of any such taxes shall be allowed as a deduction from gross income in such taxable year or any succeeding taxable year. (164(b)(6) and Reg. sec. 1.901(c).)

E. Change of election.—The corporation may, with respect to a particular taxable year, claim the benefits of section 901 (or change such election if previously made) at any time prior to the expiration of the period prescribed for making a claim for credit or refund of the tax against which the credit is allowable. (6511 and Reg. sec. 1.901(d).)

F. Exchange or conversion rate.—In all cases where the exchange or conversion rate is required to be entered, attach a statement describing in reasonable detail why and how the particular rate was determined.

G. Taxes of foreign corporation.—(a) Domestic corporation owning stock of a foreign corporation. In the case of a domestic corporation which owns at least 10 percent of the voting stock of a foreign corporation from which it receives dividends in any taxable year, the credit for foreign taxes includes the income, war profits, and excess profits taxes deemed to have been paid by such domestic corporation. The amount of taxes so deemed to have been paid by the domestic corporation is determined by taking the same proportion of any income, war profits, and excess profits taxes paid or accrued to any foreign country or to any possession of the United States by such foreign corporation, on or with respect to the accumulated profits of such foreign corporation from which such dividends were paid, which the amount of any such dividends received bears to the amount of such accumulated profits. If dividends are received from more than one such foreign corporation, the taxes deemed to have been paid by the domestic corporation are computed separately for the dividends received from each such foreign corporation. If the credit for foreign taxes includes taxes deemed to have been paid, the taxpayer must furnish the same information with respect to such taxes as it is required to furnish with respect to the taxes actually paid or accrued by it. Taxes paid or accrued by such a foreign corporation are deemed to have been paid by the domestic corporation for purposes of credit only.

(b) Foreign corporation owning stock of another foreign corporation. If any foreign corporation in (a) above owns 50 percent or more of the voting stock of another foreign corporation from which it receives dividends in any taxable year, it shall be deemed to have paid the same proportion of any income, war profits, or excess profits tax paid by such other foreign corporation to any foreign country or to any possession of the United States, on or with respect to the accumulated profits of the corporation from which such dividends were paid, which the amount of such dividends bears to the accumulated profits. Such tax so deemed to have been paid shall then be taken into consideration in determining the amount of income, war profits, and excess profits tax paid or deemed to have been paid by the foreign corporation to any possession or foreign country on or with respect to its own accumulated profits from which the dividends were paid by the foreign corporation to the domestic corporation.

(c) Source of income of foreign subsidiaries and country to which tax is deemed to have been paid. For the purpose of section 904, dividends of a foreign corporation (at least 10 percent of whose voting stock is owned by a domestic corporation) shall be deemed to have been derived from sources within the foreign country or possession of the United States in which such foreign corporation is incorporated, to the extent that under section 862(a)(2) such dividends are treated as income from sources without the United States. In addition, all income, war profits, and excess profits taxes paid or deemed to have been paid by such foreign corporation to any foreign country or possession of the United States shall be deemed to have been paid to the country or possession under whose laws such foreign corporation is incorporated.

H. Special rules for payments from certain wholly-owned foreign corporations.—Qualifications.—Section 902(d) provides a special rule for the purpose of allowing credit for foreign taxes in the case of dividends paid by certain foreign corporations. Certain payments made by a wholly-owned foreign subsidiary to its domestic parent corporation shall be treated as distributions by the foreign corporation to the domestic corporation for purposes of subtitle A and thus for purposes of the foreign tax credit of the domestic parent. In order for the payments to qualify for the treatment provided by section 902(d) all the following conditions must be met:

(1) The domestic corporation must own (directly or indirectly) 100 percent of all classes of outstanding stock of a foreign corporation which is engaged in manufacturing, production, or mining.

(2) Such domestic corporation must receive property (including money) in the form of a royalty, or of compensation, from such foreign corporation pursuant to any form of contractual arrangement under which the domestic corporation agrees to furnish services or property in consideration for the property so received from the foreign corporation.

(3) Such contractual arrangement must provide that the property so received by such domestic corporation shall be accepted by such domestic corporation in lieu of dividends and that such foreign corporation shall neither declare nor pay any dividends of any kind in any calendar year in which such property is paid to the domestic corporation by such foreign corporation.

(b) Amount and Nature of Distribution.—In cases where section 902(d) applies, the excess of the fair market value of the property so received in lieu of dividends by the domestic corporation over the cost to it of the property and services so furnished by it shall be treated as a distribution of property by the foreign corporation to which section 301 applies. For purposes of section 301 the amount of such distribution in lieu of dividends shall be such excess of the fair market value (on the date of distribution) of the property received by the domestic corporation over the cost of the property and services furnished by it, in lieu of any amount otherwise determined under section 301 without regard to section 902(d). However, the amount determined under the preceding two sentences cannot exceed the amount which would constitute a dividend for the purposes of subtitle A, and thus for the purposes of section 902(a), if such excess had been declared and paid as a dividend by such foreign corporation. Any adjustment to the earnings and profits of the foreign corporation because of such distribution of property shall be made only in accordance with the provisions of section 312. The basis of the property so received by the domestic corporation shall be the fair market value of such property (on the date of distribution), in lieu of the basis otherwise determined under section 301(d) without regard to section 902(d).

I. Limitation.—The amount allowable as a credit for taxes paid or accrued is subject to the limitation prescribed in section 904. This limitation provides that the credit for taxes paid or accrued to each foreign country or possession of the United States may not exceed that proportion of the tax against which credit is taken which the corporation's taxable income from sources within such country or possession (but not in excess of the corporation's entire taxable income) bears to its entire taxable income for the same taxable year.

J. When credit for taxes may be taken.—The credit may ordinarily be taken either in the return for the year in which the taxes accrued or in which the taxes were paid, dependent upon whether the accounts of the corporation are kept and its returns filed upon the accrual method or upon the cash receipts and disbursements method. Section 905(a) allows the corporation, at its option and irrespective of the method of accounting employed in keeping its books, to take such credit for taxes as may be allowable in the return for the year in which the taxes accrued. An election thus made under section 905(a) (or under the corresponding provisions of prior internal revenue laws) must be followed in returns for all subsequent years, and no portion of any such taxes accrued in a year in which a credit is claimed will be allowed as a deduction from gross income in any year.

If, however, under the provisions of the regulations under section

461, an amount otherwise constituting gross income for the taxable year from sources without the United States is, owing to monetary, exchange, or other restrictions imposed by a foreign country, not includible in gross income of the taxpayer for such year, the credit for income taxes imposed by such foreign country with respect to such amount shall be taken proportionately in any subsequent taxable year in which such amount or portion thereof is includible in gross income.

K. Credit for taxes accrued but not paid.—In the case of a credit sought for a tax accrued but not paid, the district director may, as a condition precedent to the allowance of a credit, require a bond, Form 1119, from the taxpayer. If such a bond is required, it shall be in such sum as the Commissioner may prescribe, and shall be conditioned for the payment by the taxpayer of any amount of tax found due upon any redetermination of the tax made necessary by such credit proving incorrect, with such further conditions as the district director may require.

L. Signature and verification.—The form must be signed either by the president, vice president, treasurer, assistant treasurer or chief accounting officer, or by any other corporate officer (such as tax officer) who is authorized to sign. A receiver, trustee, or assignee must sign any form which he is required to file on behalf of the corporation.

SPECIFIC INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE SUMMARY AND SCHEDULES

Summary of taxes allowable as a credit.—The summary is only required to be completed on one form. If there is but one Schedule A, enter the amount from line 11. Where there are more than one Schedule A, enter the amount from line 11 of each Schedule A.

SCHEDULE A

1. Column (a).—State the amount in the currency of the foreign country or possession of the United States (e.g., pounds, francs, marks).

Column (b).—Give the rate of exchange used and attach a statement describing in reasonable detail why and how this particular rate was determined.

2. Enter the total tax paid or accrued whether or not the income upon which the tax was based was subject to United States Federal income tax.

3. Enter from line 10, Schedule B, the tax deemed to have been paid or accrued by a related corporation.

4. For any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1957, for which the credit is claimed, enter the amount of the excess of the taxes paid or accrued to any foreign country or possession of the U.S. over the limitation in section 904(a). Such excess may be carried back 2 years and carried over 5 years. This excess must be carried to the earliest of the 7 years to which it may be carried, then to the next earliest year, etc. Where the corporation has used a deduction instead of a credit in any taxable year to which the carryback or carryover is carried, the carryback or carryover is to be considered used in such year in the same manner as though the corporation had claimed the tax credit, instead of a deduction, but no credit is allowed for the credit so used. The 2-year carryback does not include any taxable year before January 1, 1958. (904 (c).) Attach schedule showing your computation.

6. Enter the amount of dividends received from the source indicated in item A (excluding such dividends from a foreign corporation doing 50 percent or more of its business in the U.S. to the extent of the deduction under sections 245 and 246). Also, include any dividends received from a subsidiary of the related corporation.

7. Include all income taxable (or losses allowable) by the U.S. whether or not taxable (or allowable) by the foreign country or United States possession. For special rule for gross income from sources without the United States in case of dividends from a foreign corporation 50 percent or more of whose gross income is received from sources within the United States, see section 1.861-3 (a)(2) of the Regulations.

SCHEDULE B

1. Enter the amount of dividends received from the source indicated in item B. The term "foreign corporation" as used herein includes a domestic corporation entitled to the benefits of section 931 or 941. (901(c).) For the purpose of sections 901-905, dividends received from a foreign corporation are treated as income from sources without the U.S. only to the extent such dividends exceed the amount of the deduction allowable under sections 245 and 246 in respect of such dividends. (861(a)(2)(B).)

For the purpose of this form, a foreign corporation is considered a "related foreign corporation" if the domestic corporation owns at least 10 percent of the voting stock of a foreign corporation from which it receives dividends. If the required ownership of at least 10 percent of the voting stock was attained or relinquished during the year by the domestic corporation claiming credit, state the date when such change took place.

2. Taxable periods of related foreign corporations from income of which dividends were paid.—Under the heading "Year," where payments were of taxes accrued for only 1 year, give dates of beginning and ending of such year in the first column. Where the payments were of taxes accrued for more than 1 year, give in separate columns the dates of each annual period during which any part of the tax payments accrued. If dividends received during the taxable year from a related corporation are considered under the statute to be paid out of the income of such corporation for a period of more than 3 years, attach a schedule containing the information required in lines 2 to 9, inclusive, of Schedule B, to cover all the years involved. The total of the amounts entered in line 2 must agree with the amount shown in line 1 of Schedule B.

3. The amount to be shown as total profits, should be the profits from all sources whatsoever, whether or not subjected to foreign tax. This includes any dividends received from a foreign subsidiary of the related foreign corporation. The conversion to dollars must be made at the same exchange rate as that used for dividends in line 1.

4. (a) Enter in each column for the annual period named at the top, the amount of the accumulated profits (total profits less tax thereon) in foreign money (e.g., pounds, francs, marks).

(b) The conversion to dollars must be made at the same exchange rate as that used for dividends on line 1.

5. (a) Enter in each column for the annual period named at the top, the amount of the tax payment paid or accrued, in foreign money (e.g., pounds, francs, marks) with respect to income for such period.

(b) The conversion to dollars must be made at the same exchange rate as that used for dividends on line 1.

7. (b) Enter the portion of the taxes paid by the foreign subsidiary of the related foreign corporation, which is deemed to have been paid by the related foreign corporation. This amount is to be computed by the method employed in computing the portion of the tax paid by the related foreign corporation, which is deemed to have been paid by the domestic corporation. (See Section 1.902-1 (d) of the Regs.)

CORPORATION DECLARATION OF ESTIMATED INCOME TAX

INSTRUCTIONS

(References are to Internal Revenue Code)

1. Purpose of Declaration.—This declaration provides a basis for paying currently a portion of the income tax for the taxable year. For taxable years ending on or after December 31, 1960, every corporation having estimated income tax, i. e., a balance as shown on line 3 of this form, must pay 50 percent of the estimated tax. Every corporation must file an annual income tax return after the close of its taxable year. At that time the balance of tax due on the year's income over and above the amount paid as estimated tax must be paid in a single payment on or before the 15th day of the third month following the close of the taxable year or in two installments, 50 percent on or before the date prescribed for payment as a single payment, and 50 percent on or before the 15th day of the sixth month following the close of the taxable year.

2. Corporations Which Must Make a Declaration.—A declaration of estimated tax must be made by every corporation if its income tax for the taxable year can reasonably be expected to exceed $100,000 plus the amount of any estimated credits against tax. This applies to corporations which are subject to income tax under section 11 or 1201 (a), or subchapter L of chapter 1. In the case of affiliated corporations filing a consolidated return, see consolidated returns regulations.

3. Short Taxable Year.—A separate declaration is required where a corporation is required to submit an income tax return for a period of less than 12 months. No declaration need be filed if—

- (a) the taxable year is a short period of less than 9 months, or
- (b) the taxable year is a short period of 9 or more months and the requirements specified in Instruction 2 are first met after the first day of the last month in the short taxable year.

If a short taxable year results from a change of annual accounting period, the income must be placed on an annual basis in accordance with section 443 (b) (1) for the purpose of determining whether a declaration must be filed.

The declaration shall be completed by applying the statutory exemption and estimated credits on line 2 against the annualized estimated tax and reducing the result in accordance with the number of months in the short taxable year.

4. When and Where To File.—The declaration of estimated tax must be filed on or before the 15th day of the ninth month of the taxable year. If, however, the requirements specified in Instruction 2 are first met after the last day of the eighth month of the taxable year and before the first day of the 12th month of the taxable year, the declaration must be filed on or before the 15th day of such 12th month. For short taxable years see section 6074 and the regulations thereunder. The declaration must be filed with the District Director of Internal Revenue for the district in which the corporation expects to file its income tax return.

5. Time for Payment.—A corporation using the calendar year basis, which meets the requirements specified in Instruction 2 before September 1 of the taxable year, must pay a first installment of 25 percent of the estimated tax on or before September 15 and a second installment of 25 percent on or before December 15. Any installment may be paid before the due date. If, however, a corporation is not required to file its declaration on or before September 15, but is required to file on or before December 15, the full 50 percent of the estimated tax must be paid with the December 15 declaration. Check or money order in payment of the tax should be made payable to "Internal Revenue Service."

Fiscal year taxpayers substitute the 15th day of the ninth month of the fiscal year for September 15 and the 15th day of the 12th month for December 15.

Short taxable year taxpayers must substitute the 15th day of the 9th month of the taxable year for September 15 and the 15th day of the last month for December 15.

6. Amended Declarations.—In making a declaration, the taxpayer must take into account the then existing facts and circumstances as well as those reasonably anticipated relating to prospective gross income, allowable deductions, and estimated credits for the taxable year. Amended or revised declarations may be made in any case in which the taxpayer estimates that its gross income, deductions, or credits will materially change the estimated tax reported in the previous declaration. An amended declaration may be made on Form 1120-ES, marked "Amended," or on the reverse side of the Notice of Final Installment, and filed with the District Director for the district in which the original declaration was filed. An amended declaration of estimated tax may be filed at any time on or before the 15th day of the 12th month (last month in case of a short taxable year) of the taxable year. The installment payable on the 15th day of such 12th month shall be increased or decreased, as the case may be, so as to reflect the revised estimated tax.

7. Failure To Pay.—Underpayment of installments of estimated tax will result in additional charges for the period from the due date of each installment until paid, or until the due date for filing the tax return, whichever is the earlier. (For exceptions, see section 6655 (d) and the regulations thereunder.)
